Lucero Says Nation Is 'Absolutely Calm.'

BUENOS AIRES, June 22 (AP)—Troops guarding the Argentine capital's public buildings and churches since last Thursday's revolt were ordered back to their barracks today. A communique again reported the country "absolutely calm."

The announcement was issued by Maj. Gen. Franklin Lucero, the army minister President Juan Peron named "commander in chief of the forces of repression" after the uprising by navy and marine personnel.

Political prisoners arrested in connection with the uprising are being released, the government announced.

The order frees political opponents of the government such as Crisologo Larraide, leader of the radical party, who were jailed during and after the revolt.

The rebels themselves—mostly navy fliers and Marine corps personnel—are to be tried by the Supreme Council of the Armed Forces.

The government announced it had been decided to release political prisoners "in the interests of restoring complete tranquility throughout the nation."

21 Communists Arrested.

Police in Rosario, capital of Santa Fe province and Argentina's second largest city, announced that 21 Communists had been arrested there for distributing subversive leaflets and violating the state security decree.

Peron apparently resumed his normal routine yesterday in improvised offices in his residence in suburban Palermo. Following the bombing of Government House during the revolt, the president set up temporary offices in Lucero's War Ministry. Peron had remained in comparative seclusion at his home Sunday and Monday, while the local newspapers gave much attention to Lucero and almost none to the president.

There was no announcement of any change in the government, despite widespread speculation that it would be reorganized. Nor was there any confirmation of rumors abroad that Peron's administration would be replaced by a governing junta.

Cabinet Resignation Denied.

Authoritative sources specifically denied one rumor that Peron's Cabinet had resigned. (News dispatches from Argentina have been subject to censorship since the army put down the rebellion.)

The army announcement said that with the entire country completely normal, several groups of troops returned to their quarters from guard duty last night. The troops were ordered to follow today.

The presidential office reported that Peron saw Lucero and several civilian Cabinet ministers yesterday in separate meetings. He also met with some of his closest political associates and leaders of both the men and women's Peronista parties.

Callers' List Revised.

The continuing prominence of Lucero was emphasized again when the press secretariat revised a previous announcement of the President's callers to put the armed forces chief at the top of the list.

In his communique, Lucero

President Flies to New England
For 6-Day Speech-Making Tour

First Talk Is Before National Dairy Festival in Vermont — He Will Visit Maine, New Hampshire.

RUTLAND, Vt., June 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived here today for the start of a six-day speech-making tour of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.

His four-engine plane, flying from Washington, landed at Municipal airport. The Air Force Constellation in which the President made the trip is somewhat smaller than the Super Constellation, Columbine III, in which he usually travels.

The switch was made because Mr. Eisenhower's pilot, Lt. Col. William Draper, felt the airport here could not accommodate the larger plane with maximum safety.

Met by Senators.

The President was met as he stepped from the plane by Vermont's two Republican Senators, George Aiken and Ralph Flanders, and by Gov. Joseph B. Johnson.

The party drove immediately to the Rutland fairgrounds for a barbecue lunch in advance of an informal speech by the President.

(In his speech, the United Press said, the President advoled a foreign policy of patient firmness so "that our sons may stay home" and the assets of the nation devoted to peaceful pursuits rather than guns and planes).

Republican leaders hope Mr. Eisenhower's trip will heal some Republican differences in New England.

He will spend the night at a mountain resort at Chittenden, conferring there with Vermont Republican leaders at breakfast tomorrow morning. Later he goes on to New Hampshire and then to Maine for two days of fishing at Kennebago.

Senator Flanders said in an interview that if anything could heal a Republican split in the state, it would be Mr. Eisenhower's candidacy for a second term next year. He said the President's decision to visit New England bolstered his own belief the President will run.

"I am satisfied he will run because he has the support," Flanders said. "The reason he has to run is because he cannot drop the responsibility for leadership event."

Brucker has been general counsel at the Pentagon since April 1954. He will be 61 years old tomorrow.

He was Governor of Michigan from January, 1931, to the end of December 1932. Previously he was Michigan's attorney general, and from 1923 to 1926 was prosecuting attorney of Saginaw county.

Brucker, whose home is in Detroit, is a Republican. So is Stevens.

Accepted 'With Deep Regret.'

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced Stevens' resignation, and made public a letter in which the President accepted it "with deep regret," just before Mr. Eisenhower left on a six-day tour of New England.

Stevens will leave the Pentagon about the end of July. He told Mr. Eisenhower he would work out the precise date with Secretary of Defense Wilson.

Wilson, Stevens and Brucker drove with the President from the White House to the airport. Brucker said at the airport he had known nothing about his appointment "until an hour ago." He told reporters he was "supremely happy." Stevens said he had no plans except to "finish up my job working for Mr. Wilson."

Stevens' resignation came a year after his spectacular clash with McCarthy over the question of alleged subversion in the Army and of favored Army treatment for a one-time McCarthy aide, Pvt. G. David Schine.

The Army's general counsel, John G. Adams, quit his post in the aftermath of the hearings and so did McCarthy's top aide, Roy M. Cohn. Both Cohn and Adams were principals in the 1954 dispute.

Informed President 'Weeks Ago.'

"In his letter of resignation Stevens said he first brought to the attention of the President 'a few weeks ago' the personal considerations he said have dictated his decision to resign, and that the President then asked him to continue 'for a further period.'

Stevens' letter continued: "I have conferred with Mr. Wilson and believe I can accomplish what you and he desire of me before the end of July. . . . I cannot submit my resignation without expressing my profound admiration of your leadership during these last two and a half years and my deep appreciation of the opportunity you accorded me to serve the country and your Administration during this same period. I shall always be grateful for this chance to serve our great Army and for your never failing support."

"I leave with real regret. I would like to carry on as a member of your team. Only personal considerations have decreed it otherwise. I am sure you know that I will always be willing to be of service to you, if the occasion should arise."

Eisenhower's Letter.

Accepting the resignation, Mr. Eisenhower said he was "indeed sorry that you find it necessary to resign this important position."

Mr. Eisenhower started his letter "Dear Bob."

The President said Stevens had made a "large personal sacrifice" in continuing, and went on to say:

"As Secretary of the Army during the past two and one-half years you have contributed extensively to the vital task of reshaping our military forces to conform to the conditions of our time. Secretary Wilson and I have been grateful for your devotion and strong support in carrying it through."

"As you return to private affairs, you carry with you my personal gratitude for your fine service along with every wish for your health and happiness in the years ahead."

Mr. Eisenhower signed the letter, "with warm regard."

Only yesterday Hagerty said Stevens' resignation had not been received at the White House.

He said today that information was correct at the time.

Hagerty's comment yesterday was on a report published by the Evening Star that Stevens had resigned effective July 31.

A few minutes after Hagerty announced receipt of the resignation the White House made public Stevens' letter in which he said "certain personal consid-

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Robert T. Stevens resigned as Secretary of the Army today, and President Eisenhower nominated Wilber M. Brucker, general counsel of the Defense Department, to succeed him.

Stevens gave "compelling personal considerations" as his reason for quitting. He was a principal in last year's row between Secretary Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep., Wisconsin, and top Pentagon officials, but neither he nor Mr. Eisenhower, who accepted the resignation today, made any reference to that spectacular event.

SCELBA, CABINET
QUIT AFTER SPLIT
IN HIS OWN PARTYCoalition of Pro-West
Premier Ends — Deal
Reported by Rightist Factions.

ROME, June 22 (AP)—Premier Scelba today turned in the resignation of the coalition government with which for 15 months he has battled Italian Communism and backed the West.

Even as Scelba was meeting with President Giovanni Gronchi in the Quirinale palace, a communique from this morning's heated cabinet session said: "The Council of Ministers agreed unanimously on the presentation to the President of the resignations of the entire cabinet."

Government Crisis.

Scelba's own political party, the Christian Democrats, had pulled the rug from under him and started a government crisis.

Scelba remained in the presidential palace an hour. He came out visibly moved.

A Quirinale communique announced that, as it customary, the President reserves decision on the resignation pending conferences with senior statesmen and party leaders on the formation of a new government. These talks began tomorrow.

If Gronchi refuses to accept the resignations, Scelba will face a test of confidence in Parliament immediately, with his own party split in a revolt against him.

His Vice Premier, Social Democrat Giuseppe Saragat, said split-off rightist groups of Christian Democrats had made a deal with the Monarchist-Fascist right.

The difficulty within the Christian Democrats, said Saragat, "is based more on personal than political reasons, which is what makes it hard to understand what is now happening."

Small minority groups within the Christian Democrats, in an attempt to checkmate their own party, are making use of the totalitarian forces of both the right and left.

The Government crisis is a result of coalition between these minor groups and the Monarchist and Fascist, such a system shows a lack of responsibility, and weakens the democratic forces in favor of the totalitarian forces."

One-Party Cabinet.

A right-wing section of the Christian Democrats has favored dumping the four-party coalition and trying a one-party cabinet. Such a Cabinet would seek support either from right or left, depending on the issues involved.

There have been repeated reports of rivalry for power between Scelba and the party secretary general, Amintore Fanfani. Also, Giuseppe Pella, former Christian Democrat Premier, heads a right-wing group within the party which has favored going it alone, rather than continuing a coalition under Scelba.

Despite last minute efforts to patch up his government by reshuffling some cabinet posts, Scelba was doomed last night when his party's directorate announced "with regret" that the attempt had failed.

The Christian Democrat communique said the party high command held "that the reshuffle cannot be considered."

45,000 DEPENDENTS,
G.I.'S IN KANSAS TO REICH EXCHANGE

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The Army plans to start on July 2 the trans-Atlantic movement of some 35,000 soldiers and about 10,000 of their wives and children—with half heading for Germany and the other half for Kansas.

Involved is the rotation to Fort Riley, Kan., of the First Division and its simultaneous replacement in Germany by the Tenth Division, now at Fort Riley.

The Army said yesterday the operation—the biggest peacetime movement of its kind—would take weeks.

The married soldiers will travel with their families in cabin-equipped vessels of the Military Sea Transport Service. The Army will ship furniture and personal automobiles for those who want to take them along.

The two divisions will take only a minimum of military equipment with them, leaving their heavy gear behind to be used by their replacement outfits.

REDS REPORTEDLY TRIED TO BAR U.N.
TALK BY TRUMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22 (AP)—The Russians attempted in vain to prevent a speech by former President Harry S. Truman at the tenth United Nations birthday celebration, informed sources said yesterday.

These sources said the Soviet delegation sent a junior member to protest to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. The Russians were said to have remarked that Truman represented a policy they did not approve.

Hammarskjold was reported to have replied that he was inviting Truman personally and would take full responsibility.

Truman at first declined to come. It was reported he was invited at a United States State Department invitation for him to come as a private citizen and sit on one side with a group of personalities connected with the founding conference 10 years ago. After he turned that down, Hammarskjold asked him to come and speak to a public meeting of delegates Friday night. He agreed.

Baby-Sitting Grandmother Sues

4-Year-Old 'Terror' for Battery

LOS ANGELES, June 22 (AP)—Four-year-old Teddy Levy, called by his parents "the terror," is the youngest defendant ever sued for battery in Los Angeles superior court.

His grandmother, Mrs. Ann Rubin, complaining that she suffered two fractured vertebrae while baby sitting with Teddy, asked for $150,000 damages yesterday. She named the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Levy and an insurance company as co-defendants.

Mrs. Rubin said she required several weeks of hospital treatment after Teddy vaulted the davenport and landed on her.

Teddy's parents said they called their son "the terror" because of the zest with which he portrays Superman, Dick Tracy and or Davy Crockett as fancy strikes him.

BIG 3 REPORTED AGREED ON AIMS
AT BIG 4 TALKS3-Stage Program Covering Arms Limit, Reich, Security System Involved.

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France are agreed on the main terms of a three-stage program for a European settlement with Russia, informed diplomats said today.

Here's what they say President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden and Premier Bulganin in Geneva next month:

1. That they want an agreed limitation on armaments, perhaps on armies, in east and west Europe. This they believe could become the basis for a wider all-European or global disarmament program which should be negotiated through United Nations machinery.

2. They want a peace treaty settlement which would reunify Germany on the basis of the so-called Eden plan submitted to the Soviets at the 1954 Berlin conference. Russia rejected the plan at the time. It is now under revision in Bonn by American, British, French and West German experts.

3. If and when Germany is reunited in peace, the West would be ready to join in a European security system designed to protect all states against the possibility of unprovoked attack.

The informants stressed that there is little if any chance that these western objectives will be achieved at Geneva, even in the unlikely event of a Russian decision to accept the program as it stands.

They feel long and patient exchanges over months, if not years, will be required both inside and outside the United Nations.

CONVICTED IN KIDNAPING

OF WEST BERLIN ANTI-RED

BERLIN, June 22 (AP)—An East Berlin butcher was convicted yesterday as an accomplice in a Communist kidnaping and was sentenced to five years in prison.

Siegfried Benter was convicted by a West Berlin court of procuring the car used to kidnap Dr. Walter Linse, a prominent anti-Communist, from his West Berlin home in 1952. Dr. Linse was head of the economic division of the Free Jurists, anti-Communist organization. The Communists have denied knowing his whereabouts.

A year ago, Kurt Knobloch, a West Berliner, was convicted of taking part in the kidnaping and sentenced to 10 years.

Argues Peiping's Case.

Red China has been denied admission to the United Nations, Molotov said, because "the People's democratic revolution triumphed in China and the Chinese people embarked upon the building of socialism."

The situation, said Molotov, is "unjust and unlawful," and can no longer be tolerated without undermining confidence in the United Nations.

Molotov demanded that without further procrastination Red China, a nation of 600,000,000 people, must have representatives both in the U.N. General Assembly and the Security Council.

One of the five permanent seats on the Security Council is held by the Chiang Kai-shek Nationalist government on Formosa. Molotov's proposal apparently meant giving this seat to the mainland Chinese.

The Soviet minister called attention to the "dangerous situation" in the Formosa Strait and asserted it is a well-known fact that Formosa and the nearby Pescadores belong to China proper.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Staff Correspondent of the SAN FRANCISCO, June 22—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov called for the withdrawal of all foreign military forces from Germany as a "first goal" toward establishing trust among nations and demanded the admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

In a long-awaited speech to the tenth anniversary session of the U.N., Molotov asserted the great powers should now pass from words to deeds and he listed the following prerequisites for a general reduction in armaments and the prohibition of atomic weapons:

1. Implementation of the U.N. General Assembly "resolution on the termination of war propaganda in all countries."

2. Agreement among the great powers to dismantle military bases in foreign territories.

3. Development of the peaceful uses of atomic energy and technical assistance to underdeveloped countries.

4. Agreement among Soviet Russia, the United States, Britain and France on the withdrawal of their forces from Germany with the exception of small contingents left behind and strict limitation of local police forces in both parts of Germany.

5. Settlement of outstanding Far Eastern problems in accordance with the principles of sovereignty and territorial integrity.

6. Removal of international trade barriers.

7. Expansion of cultural ties and development of "ism."

Steps Opposed by West.

This Russian program is believed to be in large part unacceptable to the West. The proposal on Germany means neutralization, which the United States already has rejected as a policy for Germany. The West is unlikely to agree to the dismantling of bases ringing the Soviet Union. At the present moment the United States will not consent to admitting Red China to the U.N.

Molotov's speech was brimming with expressions of good will and hopes for peace, although implicit in many parts of it was the assumption that the West is an aggressor with designs on Russia.

The Soviet Minister referred to the coming Geneva conference of the Big Four heads of government but did not announce whether the Russians had accepted the procedural suggestions presented to Molotov by the Western Big Three foreign ministers here. Western ministers feel, however, that Russian acceptance will be forthcoming.

Molotov asserted it was the responsibility of the Western powers to make the next move in the reduction of conventional armaments and the elimination of atomic weapons and spelled out in somewhat greater detail the proposals the Soviet government made last May 10 to a U.N. Disarmament Commission subcommittee.

NEHRU, BULGANIN SEND UP NEW TRIAL BALLOON ON CO-EXISTENCE

It Is Aimed at West's

MOSCOW, June 22—Premier Bulganin of the Soviet Union and Prime Minister Nehru of India sent up a new balloon for "peaceful coexistence" in public remarks here yesterday. In effect they admonished the United States, Britain and France to buy the Russian line at the Geneva Big Four talks next month.

Bulganin, who has accepted
Nehru's invitation to visit India and probably will go there next winter, told a sports rally of 100,000 persons held at the Moscow Stadium in Nehru's honor, the Russian people "do not want war... we proceed to Geneva from the fact that the lessening of international tensions and the consolidation of confidence between states is the aim of this conference."

"Peace Is Soviet Objective."
"We shall make every effort to reach this goal," Bulganin said, "and we hope every other participant at this conference will strive to the same end.
Peace remains the objective of Soviet foreign policy."

Bulganin told the huge audience Russia, Communist China and India brought peace to Korea, as well as "an end of hostilities" in Indochina. India, he said, then took an active role in setting up the Asian-African conference of 29 nations at Bandung.

Now, Bulganin said, India and Russia stand for reduction of armed forces as well as a bar on atomic and hydrogen bombs.

"We hope," the Premier said,
"that in the person of Prime Minister Nehru and the Indian government we shall have an ally and a good friend in making progress toward an implementation of the reduction of armaments and in the prohibition of atomic weapons as proposed by the Soviet Union."

Bulganin said "India, like the Soviet Union, is undertaking to settle successfully the question of Taiwan (Formosa) in accordance with the traditional interests of the People's Republic of China and the Soviet Union and India are in a joint struggle to give the People's Republic of China its lawful place in the United Nations and this is calling forth the gratitude of peace-loving peoples everywhere."

Bulganin said the Russians expected that the current United Nations celebration and the talks among the foreign ministers at San Francisco "will be the beginning of new measures to insure peace and international security."

At the outset, Bulganin said relations between Russia and India were developed on a "firm basis" of "mutual respect, territorial integrity, equality, non-aggression, non-interference, mutual benefit, and peaceful coexistence."

He listed "a number of new measures taken by the Soviet government directed toward reduction of tension and removal of mistrust between nations, such as: The state treaty with Austria, the Russian proposal for arms control and prohibition of atomic weapons; the normalization of relations with Yugoslavia and diplomatic and trade talks with Russia and Japan."

Nehru's Remarks.
By the Associated Press.
Nehru spoke in Hindustani, which was then translated into Russian.

"There never was any enmity in India toward the Soviet Union," he declared. "There were things we did not understand about you, just as there were things you did not understand about us. Conditions were not the same."

"The talents of a people cannot develop under alien rule.
There is much we can learn from other nations, but such learning cannot be fruitful if it is imposed from outside. Whatever forms socialism or democracy may assume, it must respect the rights of others."

Nehru and Bulganin Sign Joint Communiqué.

MOSCOW, June 22 (UP)—
India's Prime Minister Nehru and Soviet Premier Bulganin tonight signed a joint communique summing up the results of Nehru's tour of the Soviet Union.
The signing took place in the Kremlin.

The text of the declaration was not disclosed. The foreign ministry notified correspondents copies would be given to them in English at the foreign ministry tomorrow morning.

Informed sources said the communiqué repeated much of the material contained in speeches which Nehru and Soviet officials have made during the Indian Premier's two-week visit here. These sources added that the communiqué will also contain what they described as an important economic section.

Salk Says Properly Vaccinated Children Don't Transmit Polio

Doctor Asserts Contraction Is So Highly Improbable as Hardly to Merit Consideration.

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—
Dr. Jonas E. Salk said today that children "properly vaccinated" against polio do not transmit the disease to others.
He asserted that contraction of polio through association with children who already have received Salk immunity injections
"is so highly improbable as hardly to merit consideration."

The question of "association cases" arose as Dr. Salk, developer of the vaccine, appeared in company with 14 other of the foremost polio authorities before a House Commerce subcommittee.

"It is clear that children who receive properly prepared vaccine do not transmit disease to adults, because they do not have the disease," Dr. Salk said.

Then under further questioning by Representative Don Hayworth (Dem., Michigan), who said authorities of one New Jersey community ordered vaccinated children to keep away from school as potential carriers of polio, Dr. Salk declared there was no evidence to support association contraction.

"Not if the children receive properly prepared vaccine," he said.

But Dr. Salk conceded "there seems to be an association" between contraction of polio by adults who have come in contact with children receiving improperly made vaccine.

Many Cases on Record.
Public Health Service statistics on polio incidence have shown a considerable number of cases among persons associating with others who have received vaccine.

Suspension Asked.
Dr. Albert B. Sabin recommended that inoculations be suspended and the manufacture of Salk vaccine discontinued until the vaccine can be perfected.

Dr. Sabin is with the Children's Hospital Research Foundation at Cincinnati.

He suggested that new polio strains be identified and substituted for the "Mahoney" strain which now goes into manufacture of the Salk vaccine. He said this particular virus is the most virulent of the polio strains and creates the greatest incidence of paralysis.

"The best thing that could be done to insure safety is to replace this particular virus with other viruses not so virulent," he said.

Dr. Sabin said there are already available "polio strains which do not have so much danger as the ones now used."

In substituting new virus strains, he said the experiments can be carried out in the laboratory "and you don't have to go out and inoculate thousands of children to find out."

Dr. Sabin cautioned against proceeding too fast and said "we cannot afford another Cutter incident." He referred to what he said was one lot of vaccine made by the Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., which could pass all tests then required but was pronounced suspect by the Public Health Service when about 60 of those who received it developed polio.

Earlier in the hearing the question was raised whether the Salk vaccine as now manufactured might produce kidney ailments.

Dr. Salk said he had determined experimentally that it would not have any effect on the human kidney.

However, doubts were expressed by some other physicians among 15 outstanding researchers in the field of virus medicine who were before the subcommittee to discuss scientific facts about the vaccine.

In outlining the preparation of the Salk vaccine, Dr. Salk said all polio virus must be destroyed and that "no virus should be detectable" in any of the vaccine injections.

"But there have been exceptions to this," he said.

Dr. Salk said the question has been raised whether virus in vaccine may have come back to life after processing.

"We have never been able to demonstrate that virus will return to life again, so to speak, if the (manufacturing) process has reached the point of no return," he said.

Dr. Salk was asked about Canada's handling of its inoculation program, with the comment that Canadian methods appeared to make the United States look "delinquent."

Dr. Salk said Canada used identical processes and identical manufacturing formulas with only very minor differences involving technical preparation of virus culture.

"It is unfair to the American pharmaceutical industry to say that other people are doing better than our own," he said.

"I can only say on their (United States drug firms') behalf that they have done a perfectly remarkable job."

Chairman J. Percy Priest (Dem., Tennessee) of the House group arranged the session with the idea, he said, of "creating a renewed and well-informed confidence in the program."

The discussion developed that some residual protein from monkey kidney material remains in the vaccine under present manufacturing processes. The polio virus needed for the vaccine is grown in monkey kidney.

Dr. Manfred M. Mayer of Johns Hopkins University said there was no way to tell whether this protein might result at some future time in kidney ailments but he said there was such a possibility and that to guard against it most of the "impurities"—as he referred to the protein—should be removed.

Dr. Salk said an extraordinary amount of kidney tissue was used in experiments on animals and that no kidney damage was demonstrable.

At the opening of the session,
Dr. Sabin told the subcommittee that polio is most deadly to young adults between the ages of 21 and 30. It is "no longer a disease we should call infantile paralysis," he said.

Dr. Sabin said also that paralytic polio strikes more frequently in the higher- and middle-income groups than in any other parts of society.

The subcommittee sought information on the advisability of giving second shots during the summer polio season, the effectiveness of manufacturing safeguards, and like matters.

Mrs. Hobby Defended.
Meanwhile, Senate Republicans rose to defend Secretary of Welfare Hobby from a Democratic charge that she exhibited disloyalty to Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele, head of the Public Health Service, in a Monday remark disavowing responsibility for the Government's part in assuring the safety of the vaccine.

Interviewed on a radio program, Mrs. Hobby said the law placed that responsibility on the health service, which is an agency of her department. However, she stressed she was "not dissatisfied" with Scheele.

Criticizing Mrs. Hobby for this stand, Senator Richard Neu-berger (Dem., Oregon), told the Senate yesterday he believes this demonstrates that the Eisenhower Administration is "direly in need of the quality of loyalty to subordinates."

Coming to Mrs. Hobby's defense, Senator William A. Purtell (Rep., Connecticut), said
"the times must be pitifully barren of political issues" if Administration opponents must make a "whipping girl" of the welfare secretary. Purtell said Neuberger gave "misinformation," adding that loyalty to facts is equally important.

In a statement of his own, Dr.
Scheele said Mrs. Hobby has supported the health service
"fully and unqualifiedly."

NEW VOLUNTEER PLAN TO MODIFY DRAFT PROPOSED

House Group to Seek 6-Months' Service Plan — Reserve Bill Stale-mated.

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—
A House Armed Services subcommittee agreed today to seek a modified teen-age volunteer training program to bolster President Eisenhower's stale-mated military reserve bill.

With one eye on congressional critics, the subcommittee decided to consider later today three separate proposals designed to encourage teen-agers to volunteer for six months' or longer training and reserve duty.

Representative Carl Vinson (Dem., Georgia), author of a compromise bill, proposed that it be amended by permitting youths under 19 years to escape draft duty and reduce the age of their military obligation by volunteering for the reserves and six months' active training.

This and two alternate proposals, all aimed at building up the size of the reserves, were referred to Pentagon officials for their comment later today.

The subcommittee decided also:
1. To recommend that President Eisenhower be given authority to recall into active service up to 1,000,000 active reservists, without reference to Congress, in a presidential-declared emergency.

2. To lower the total period of obligation for active and reserve duty to six years, instead of the present eight.
This was decided, subject to later review, by a 7 to 4 vote.

250,000-Man Limit.
Under Vinson's new proposal youths under 18½ years could avoid the draft by volunteering for the reserves and maintaining satisfactory service until the age of 28. The President would set an annual limit, up to 250, 000 men.

Vinson proposed that those volunteering also for six months' active duty training be permitted to end their total military obligation after eight years' reserve service.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Carter L. Burgess testified that he did not believe the Vinson proposal would attract enough volunteers. Burgess said the President and the Defense Department still want the six months' special training program.

Representative Arthur Winstead (Dem., Mississippi), proposed that youths be permitted to volunteer for specific reserve units until the age of 20, with the understanding they would have to take six months' training.

Representative Overton
Brooks (Dem., Louisiana), suggested that a six months' training program be part of the Army's regular volunteer system.

Vinson proposed also restoring a Pentagon-supported provision allowing the Air Force and Navy to accept volunteers for their reserves who agree to serve two years on active duty

U.S. For Pooling 'Fall-Out' Data To Benefit All U.N. Nations

Lodge's Proposal Heartens Diplomats at San Francisco—Counter Action to Communist Criticism.

By EDWARD A. HARRIS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22—
Government officials and diplomats attending the United Nations meeting here today appeared heartened today by the surprise United States proposal calling for a pooling through the U.N. of information on the effects of radiation from nuclear tests.

Growing concern not only in this country but in many foreign nations over the effects of radioactive "fall-out" on human health and safety is believed to have led to the proposal, even though the American announcement, issued by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., insisted that "properly safeguarded nuclear testing" is not a threat to human health.

The timing of the statement, given out as a news release on the eve of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's formal address to the U.N. commemorative assembly, led to speculation that it was intended to "take the play" away from anything on the subject Molotov planned to say. Lodge is the United States representative to the U.N.

Many U.N. member nations have been highly disturbed by some time over the series of atomic and hydrogen bomb tests held by the United States and the Soviet Union. Washington officials in the past have sought to allay fears that fallout from such tests are dangerous, dispite assertions by several scientists that they might be, and might even have a disastrous effect on children yet unborn.

Lodge, taking note of "concern in several parts of the world" over the effects of radiation from such tests, said there already is much scientific data in existence on the question, and pointed out that United States experts are still making intensive studies of it.

Such data, however, have not and a total of three years in the reserves.

Powell Criticizes Bill.
Representative Adam Clayton Powell (Dem., New York), had said earlier today that House leaders were trying to force through a "dishonest" compromise reserve bill that would bypass his anti-segregation amendments.

Powell, whose amendments have stalled President Eisenhower's reserve program in the House, said he has withdrawn his previously announced support of compromise proposals and will fight them.

Powell, one of three negroes in the House, said in an interview his switch was prompted by a prediction made by House Republican leader Joseph W.
Martin of Massachusetts, Leavbeen collated with similar studies made by other countries.

This should be done, he declared, "so that all nations can be satisfied that humanity is not endangered by these tests."

"We believe that the U. N. can perform an important service in undertaking to bring this about," Lodge went on. "The best place to assemble all available information is the U. N. We think that the next General Assembly should establish a procedure to receive and assemble radiological information collected by the various states as well as the results of national studies of radiation effects on human health and safety."

In what appeared to be a thrust at Communist propaganda about the United States tests, the most recent of which took place at Las Vegas, Lodge said the over-all analysis of the available data by the U. N. "could set at rest unjustified fears, combat sensational distortion in the light of truth, and lead to humanity's learning how to deal best with problems of atomic radiation."

Echo of Japan's Difficulties.
Apparently he was referring in part to the incident of some radioactive material falling on a Japanese ship in the Pacific ocean and on the forced removal of some Marshall Islands people from their homes after a nuclear test by the United States in 1954.

The Lodge statement made no attempt to detail the procedure for the study by the U. N. It was expected that when the tenth General Assembly meets later this year in New York the United States delegation will have ready a comprehensive plan for consideration by the world body.

India's Prime Minister Nehru
still has on the U. N. table a proposal that everyone stop nuclear tests pending agreement among the nations on a system of atomic control.

ing the White House yesterday.
Martin said he expected the final reserve bill to come close to the measure originally asked for by Mr. Eisenhower. The President has publicly indicated his disapproval of the attaching of anti-segregation riders to such legislation as the reserve bill.

Interviewed after the weekly meeting of Republican congressional leaders at the White House, Martin said the final version of the bill to strengthen the reserves would be worked out in separate House and Senate action, then in a conference of the two houses. Martin said also that the President wanted a bill providing for more reserve expansion than would come about under the Vinson

MOVES FOR NEW U.N. MEMBERS REPORTED

Molotov Said to Have Favored Letting in 6 Red, Non-Red Nations.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22
(UP)—Diplomatic moves to end the eight-year bar against letting new members into the United Nations were reported in progress today.

The moves were so delicate that no one would comment directly, but some sources were hopeful that behind-the-scenes discussions could open the way for admitting at least six nations.

The present anniversary sessions of the United Nations may not take any action or consider any formal business. They are supposedly commemorative in nature. But the discussions here were viewed as paving the way to formal action when the United Nations returns to its headquarters in New York.

It was reported that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was favorable to the admission of three non-Communist and three Communist countries to the U. N. The report could not be confirmed.

The countries were said to be Austria, Italy and Finland among the non-Communist nations, and Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania among the Communist countries.

It was also reported that Molotov would be agreeable to the admission of Japan, if that country would sign a peace treaty.

This report also could not be confirmed. Japan's official observer to the United Nations, said he has heard "absolutely nothing" about such a possibility.

It was reported that Victor Belandier of Peru, chairman of the General Assembly's good offices on new members, consulted with Molotov for three quarters of an hour Monday night on the subject of admitting new members.

Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay of France also was said to have held several conferences on the subject of new members, although it was not immediately known whether he took the subject up with Molotov here.

COUNTY COUNCIL CHIEF PROPOSES RESISTANCE TO STATE TAX ORDER

Singer Favors Fighting
All Efforts by Missouri Commission to Enforce Valuation Rise This Year.

The possibility of a court fight over increasing the assessed valuation of real estate in St. Louis county rose today when James A. Singer, chairman of the county council, said he was in favor of resisting any effort by state officials to force the increase this year.

"The county should refuse to comply with any state order to increase the assessments, allow the matter to go to court, and resist all efforts to enforce compliance," Singer said.

The State Tax Commission has announced that it will order assessments brought up to 30 per cent of market value in 26 counties, including St. Louis county, by July 11. County officials have argued that they should be allowed another year in which to make a complete revaluation of property, piece by piece, and thereby eliminate existing inequities.

Hopes for Delay.
Singer said he still hoped for a delay of the order, and disclosed that he had written to the commission yesterday, giving assurance of "our complete co-operation to accomplish our common purpose to equalize assessments."

He asked that a conference of the commission and county officials be arranged whereby a firm is chosen to make a completely new appraisal and revaluation of county property. In response to a question he told a reporter the firm will be selected "within the week."

Meanwhile, county officials disagreed today as to which official is responsible for carrying out an order from the state commission to raise valuations when it is received.

Three officials said County Clerk Leo E. Sievers had that responsibility, but he did not agree and said he would ask for legal advice. Those who expressed the view that Sievers is the responsible officer are Singer, Jean Mason, chairman of the county board of equalization, and William B. Kline, assistant county counselor.

Sievers said he plans to ask the county counselor for an opinion setting forth his duties and responsibilities in this situation. "I shall comply with the laws of the state when the time comes," he said.

Up to Sievers, Says Singer.
Singer is chairman of a special council committee that has been dealing with the tax assessment problem. "If Sievers asks us for our advice we will give it to him," he said. "Otherwise it will be up to him to determine his course of action."

Kline expressed an opinion that validity of an order from the state commission can be challenged in court with a good chance of success. He said it could be attacked as discriminatory in that it does not apply to all counties—an approach that has been successful in other states, he said.

The commission has explained that it chose the 26 counties with the lowest valuations for action this year and plans to call for similar increases in the other counties next year.

Mason, head of the equalization board, figured today that a blanket increase in assessments which County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews has proposed, would result in about 180,000 complaints from taxpayers, and that if they could be heard as rapidly as 10 per hour, it would take nine years to hear them.

The county has approximately 244,000 parcels of real estate, and Mason estimated that two-thirds of the owners would protest an across-the-board increase. His board hears property owners' complaints about assessments.

DOCTORS TO MEET ON SUMMER USE OF SALK VACCINE

Efforts to decide on an official recommendation on use of Salk polio vaccine in Missouri this summer will be made by the Council of the Missouri Medical Association here Sunday.

Physicians have disagreed as to whether the vaccine should be administered during the polo season—about July 15 to Nov. 1—even if it should become available.

Dr. Carl F. Vohs, medical director of the St. Louis-St. Louis county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said today it was his personal judgment that no shots should be given in the July 15-Nov. 1 period.

No vaccine has been available in this area since April, when first- and second-grade pupils received first shots.

WALLET WITH $1100 LIES IN PHONE BOOTH 4½ HOURS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 22 (AP)—A wallet containing more than $1100 lay unattended in a telephone booth 4½ hours before the owner called for it.

After returning to his hotel, Guy B. Harris, Owensboro, discovered the wallet was gone and notified police.

A half hour later, he called again to say that George Grady, bartender at the establishment where Harris had used the telephone, found the money after receiving a call from Harris. As a reward, Grady received $50. "It's going for a new suit," he explained.

PUBLIC NOT READY FOR ATOM ATTACK, GEN. GROVES SAYS

PORTLAND, Ore., June 22 (AP)—The American people are unprepared for an atomic attack and are indifferent to the possibility, Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, retired, said here last night.

He raised the question, too, without answering it, whether they have the steadfastness and courage to strike back after an initial blow.

He said this country has "survived the tensions of the cold war" for one reason only: We are still ahead of Russia in the race for development and production of atomic weapons. As long as we have the power to destroy Russia if she strikes at us—she will not strike. Once we lose that power, we are lost.

Speaking to the Douglas Fir Plywood Association, he devoted much of his remarks to the theme that "there is no guarantee that we will survive" an atomic war.

U.S. REJECTS PROPOSAL TO PROTEST TO ARGENTINA

WASHINGTON, June 22 (UPI)—The State Department today rejected a proposal by Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem.) of Minnesota that the United States protest against Argentine President Peron's "persecution of a church."

Assistant Secretary of State Thruston B. Morton told Humphrey "any intervention on the part of the United States would be inconsistent with our established bipartisan policy of non-intervention."

Morton added, however, that the United States "subscribes fully to expressions by Argentine authorities condemning and deploring the recent burning and looting of churches in that country."

CHILDREN CAUSE $135,000 FIRE WITH BOX OF MATCHES

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 22 (AP)—A nickel's worth of matches in children's hands added up to a $135,000 fire at the D. & D. Millwork Co.

Capt. Merle Brown, head of the arson squad, said yesterday the blaze started after a group of 8-to-13-year-old children lit the matches near the plant Monday.

According to Brown, one boy tossed a box of flaming matches to another boy, who hastily discarded them near the millwork company's fence. The matches caught the grass, the grass set the fence afire and the fence set the millwork afire. The boys ran.

AUDITOR'S DATA ON MRS. LYTZ'S BOOKS STUDIED

Investigators Reported To Have Obtained Valuable Leads From Man's Records.

Records kept by an auditor who checked the account books of Mrs. June Alma Lytz, murdered brothel operator, have been examined by authorities in the investigation into reported pay-offs by her to some policemen, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd, whose office is investigating the alleged pay-offs, declined to disclose the identity of the auditor or what information was obtained from him.

However, it was learned that the man had provided leads of value to investigators. Mrs. Lytz, who was killed April 21, had employed an auditor in the last several years after she found difficulty in keeping accounts relating to her establishments, the Post-Dispatch was told.

Refused Friend's Offer.

A friend had offered to help her, but she refused to disclose the contents of the books to the friend on the ground the information therein was personal business.

A woman friend of Mrs. Lytz told the Post-Dispatch today that she had made loans to Mrs. Lytz totaling $1375—an indebtedness still existing when the brothel operator was killed.

The woman recalled that Mrs. Lytz frequently took walks late at night in the neighborhood of her establishment, known as June's Massage Parlor, 308A North Teresa avenue.

When the friend asked if she were not afraid to go out at late hours, Mrs. Lytz replied: "No, I've got some policemen friends."

On occasion when the woman accompanied the brothel keeper, Mrs. Lytz would often exchange greetings to policemen in passing automobiles, she said.

Shot to Death While on Walk.

Mrs. Lytz, on one of her walks, was shot to death by Guy Nolan, a Negro, who admitted a series of street shootings for which he could offer no reasonable explanation.

Mrs. Lytz's friend, who has appeared as a witness before the circuit court grand jury, said today she saw a tape-recording machine which Mrs. Lytz's obtained to record arguments with her husband, Werner Alexander Lytz, whom she later divorced.

Authorities have not found the recorder among effects in the estate.

FREED WEEK AGO, MAN IS ARRESTED IN NEW BURGLARY

Again Found at Break-In Scene — Released
Earlier When Victim Refused to Prosecute.

Vincent Gendron, of the 5900 block of Theodore avenue, who was arrested in a burglary last week, but was released when the victim refused to prosecute, was arrested again early today in another burglary.

He and two others were found by police who were called to investigate a break-in at Finninger's Market, 5114 Lillian avenue. The others said they were Carl Reagan, of the first block of North Euclid avenue, and William A. Werner, of the 9300 block of Corregidor drive, Overland.

A neighbor who noticed activity at the grocery shortly after 1 a.m. telephoned police, and officers reported that they found Gendron standing in front of the store. A transom was open. Reagan was in Gendron's automobile nearby, and inside the store the officers said they found Werner under a counter.

Thirteen cartons of cigarettes and 24 one-pound bags of coffee had been put in paper sacks.

Gendron was one of three men arrested last Friday morning in a burglary at Ben Zumehehn's grocery, 4013 Venetia avenue, when he was found inside. The owner refused to make a complaint, and all three were released.

Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd said today his office usually does not issue warrants when a burglary victim refuses to prosecute because it is too difficult to get a conviction by a jury except in aggravated cases.

Burglars broke into Metro-Tone Engravers, Inc., 2649 Washington boulevard, last night for the fourth time in four years and hauled away the firm's office equipment. A cash box containing about $30 was not taken.

Entrance was gained by smashing the glass in the street door.

Loot included an adding machine, typewriter, check writer, radio, electric fan and other articles valued by George Enberg, head of the firm, at $600. The burglary was discovered when a foreman arrived for work. In the three prior burglaries cash and clothing were stolen.

REDMOND O'HANLON and his wife with check for $16,000 he received last night after deciding not to go after $32,000 in television quiz program.

Shakespeare Scholar Could Have Tried for $32,000—Woman Biblical Expert at $8000 Mark.

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Policeman Redmond O'Hanlon deferred to his responsibilities as a family man and took $16,000 last night in television quiz show winnings rather than risk it trying for $32,000.

O'Hanlon, 39 years old, a spare-time Shakespeare scholar for 16 years, had run up his winnings with correct answers to questions on the CBS television program, "The $64,000 Question."

Last night the New York City police office was given a chance to double his money by taking a crack at another question. Had he missed, he would have lost the money but would have been given an expensive automobile as a consolation prize. Had he known the answer, he would have won $32,000 and a chance to try for $64,000 next week.

Shortly before O'Hanlon decided to take the money, CBS brought on the next contestant, Mrs. Catherine E. Kreitzer of Camp Hill, Pa., who chose the Bible as her category and she's

ESTIMATE BOARD APPROVES BILL ON EXPRESSWAY

Measure Pertains to Contract on Western End of Mark Twain Highway.

A bill which would authorize St. Louis to enter into a contract with the State Highway Department for construction of the western end of the Mark Twain Expressway inside the city was approved yesterday by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

The bill provides for payment by the city for half of the cost of obtaining right-of-way. The city also would bear the cost of relocating public utilities which must be moved to make way for the road.

The portion of the expressway involved extends from Woodland and Saloma avenues to a point east of Davison avenue. Twelve blocks are involved.

Alderman Raymond Leisure introduced the bill in the Board of Estimate June 10. Approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment is required before the aldermen can act on it because it involves the expenditure of city funds.

Another bill approved by the Estimate Board yesterday would authorize the Board of Public Service to let contracts and proceed with the construction of new headquarters for the fire and police telegraph system in Forest Park.

The headquarters, to cost about $700,000, would be located underground in the southeast part of the park, between the Express Highway and Oakland avenue. Money for it would come from 1944 bond issue funds.

works and all following questions were in that category.

Friends and fellow officers had advised him to try the next question, O'Hanlon said. It was a hard decision, he added, and he had lost nine pounds during the two weeks of the contest.

After all, he said smiling, $16,000 amounted to four years' pay as a policeman. He said he had not checked on the tax involved, but informed friends had estimated it at between $4000 and $6000.

CBS declined to make public the question that O'Hanlon would have been asked had he chosen to go on.

MOLOTOV URGES

been returned to China, and it is the duty of the organization to have that important problem settled at the earliest possible date," Molotov said.

The United States has declared its intention of defending Formosa and the Pescadores from aggression by Red China. It holds that the status of Formosa is yet to be determined. The island was occupied for 50 years by the Japanese until the end of World War II.

Burden of Armaments.

Molotov put out a hint that the Soviet Union might be finding the armament race a heavy burden on its people. He said that "some countries" have become the scene of an unprecedented armaments race "that lays on the masses of the people an enormous burden of military expenditure."

One western theory is that the Russians may genuinely want a period of peace because their leaders are under pressure to give the people more butter and fewer guns.

Contributing to world tension, Molotov said, are largely construction of military bases in foreign territories, which cannot be regarded with equanimity by states near the bases, the agreement to grant sovereignty to the West German Republic and admit it into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and "propaganda for a new war."

On the other hand, in the Soviet view, there are facts that indicate the existence of "favorable paths" leading to peace. The paths enumerated by Molotov were associated in many cases with the idea of national neutrality, a current Russian policy.

Recent Events Mentioned.

Molotov mentioned last month's signing of the Austrian peace treaty, which provides for neutrality on the part of that country of 7,000,000 persons.

President Eisenhower has said Austrian neutrality means an armed neutrality with the Austrians empowered to defend their territorial integrity. The President has ruled out a similar role for Germany.

Continuing, Molotov said an important recent event was the state visit of the Soviet hierarchy to Belgrade to patch up, if possible, Russian relations with Yugoslavia, the only satellite country to break successfully with the Soviet Union.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has described this visit as a "humble pilgrimage," and United States observers interpreted it as part of an effort to neutralize Yugoslavia and prevent it from making further moves toward Western orientation. Molotov called attention to "groundless inventions" circulated in the West to distort the meaning of the journey to Belgrade.

Molotov described the visit of Prime Minister Nehru of India to Russia as of "great importance" for cementing further the friendly relationships between the Soviet Union and India and also for reducing international tensions and consolidating peace.

The welcome given Nehru in Russia has been interpreted as support for the policy of neutralism pursued in Asia by India.

Current Activities.

Molotov also listed among his peaceful signs the termination of the Korean war and the war in Indochina, the Soviet invitation to Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany to visit Moscow to discuss regularizing relations between Russia and West Germany, the current London peace treaty talks between Russia and Japan and the Big Four summit conference set for July 18 at Geneva.

Although Molotov paid tribute to the efficacy of the United Nations, he observed that "everyone will agree that it depends largely on the peoples of the Soviet Union and the United States to consolidate peace and security."

Differences can be resolved, Molotov said, if the Soviet people and the Americans make the necessary effort.

The first reaction to Molotov's speech came from French Foreign Minister Pinay, the United Press said.

"I have heard the same speech at least 10 times," he said. "It is always the same thing. We are the bad ones and they are the good ones. We want war and Russia wants peace. So far as I am concerned Molotov has said nothing new."

By the Associated Press.

Molotov, apparently seeking to avoid a controversy, did not make a specific demand for a formal peace declaration by the anniversary meeting. He had found western opposition to any formal action.

Before Molotov spoke, Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, a former president of the U.N. General Assembly, urged the 60 nations to approve a peace pledge to be known as "the San Francisco declaration."

"I have been impressed," Romulo said, "with the growing feeling that this anniversary meeting should, in some way, produce the words that we need to convince people everywhere to be convinced that we are not only all for peace, that we speak for people who yearn for peace, but that we pledge our governments to the achievement of a peace with security, justice and freedom for all mankind."

Russian Views on Geneva.

Molotov was reported last night to have given the western Big Three foreign ministers a partial reply, their proposals for setting up the summit talks in Geneva next month.

Informed quarters said the Soviet Foreign Minister had made reservations on only one important point, namely the western proposal to limit the talks to four or six days. He was understood to have expressed the belief that no time limit should be placed on the Geneva talks.

President Eisenhower, in opening the U.N. meetings Monday, pledged that the United States would do everything possible to make the Big Four talks a success.

Molotov first brought up the idea of a peace resolution in a private meeting with Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld last Sunday. Later he mentioned it to President Eero von Kieffens. Both told him they did not feel that the San Francisco meeting was the place to adopt resolutions.

Monday night the Soviet foreign minister discussed his plan with the western Big Three and they also objected to a resolution. He gave no indication in any of these talks that he was prepared to alter his position.

Any further meetings of the Big Four foreign ministers appeared unlikely during the present session. British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan planned to leave tonight on his return trip to London.

After today there still remained two more full days of speaking and a concluding evening next Sunday. French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay speaks tomorrow and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Friday morning. Former President Harry S. Truman speaks Friday night.

either in the nation or of the world."

Senator Bridges said every element of the G.O.P. would be represented when Mr. Eisenhower makes three stops for speeches in New Hampshire. He plans also to visit briefly at Lincoln, the home town of White House chief of staff Sherman Adams.

Bridges, who does not see eye to eye with Adams on some political matters, will introduce the President for one talk. Senator Norris Cotton of New Hampshire will officiate at another and Gov. Lane Dwinell at a third.

All this apparently was planned to promote party harmony in a state where the Democrats bid strongly for the First Congressional District seat in 1954, losing by 468 votes out of 107,636.

Senator Frederick G. Payne of Maine, who plans to fish with the President in the latter's stay at Kennebago Me., said he thinks Mr. Eisenhower's visit will "stimulate" the party organization in that state.

"We've got a big job ahead of us to win back the governorship from the 'Democrats,'" Payne said. "The fact that the President is visiting Maine shows his interest in our state and should stimulate the Republicans there."

Senator Margaret Chase Smith (Rep., Maine, who recently expressed some doubts that the President would agree to run again, will introduce Mr. Eisenhower when he speaks at Skowhegan.

Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts said at Washington he had hoped the President also would visit Massachusetts but that the White House could not crowd in any stops there.

"But it's good to have him come to New England, even if he doesn't get to Massachusetts," Saltonstall said. "He is showing his interest in our section of the country and that ought to help the Republicans."

Last year's campaign for state offices in Vermont was marked by some dissension within G.O.P. ranks. Some Republicans apparently deserted Gov. Joseph B. Johnson in his successful race as Democrats made their strongest showing in recent years.

STEVENS RESIGNS,
WILBER BRUCKER
TO SUCCEED HIM

erations" made it necessary for him to leave the Administration. Stevens said he first brought these considerations to the attention of the "President a few weeks ago" and that the President then asked him to continue "for a further period."

Took Over During Dispute.

Stevens—his full name is Robert Ten Broeck Stevens—took over as Republican boss of the army Feb. 2, 1953, right in the middle of the controversy over reported ammunition shortages in Korea.

The ammunition shortage controversy, although it waxed hot for a time, was mild in comparison with Stevens' later controversy with McCarthy.

Stevens and Adams charged that McCarthy and Cohn had exerted improper pressure on them to get favored treatment for Schine, a close friend of Cohn and for a time an unpaid consultant to the Senate Investigations subcommittee then headed by McCarthy.

McCarthy and Cohn fired back with charges that Stevens and Adams were using Schine as a "hostage" to try to get the subcommittee to ease up on its investigation of alleged Reds in the army.

Criticized by Committee.

In their report after the televised hearings, Democratic minority said Stevens failed to run the Army "without fear or favor" but instead tried to please McCarthy and Cohn by granting favors to Schine.

"He thus demonstrated an inexcusable indecisiveness and lack of sound judgment. For that he merits severe criticism," the Democrats on the subcommittee said. But they said McCarthy's charges against Stevens and Adams were "the product of reckless irresponsibility" and totally unfounded.

The Republicans on the subcommittee said Stevens had moved beyond reproach, but "he followed a course of placation, appeasement and vacillation."

Brucker took no public part in the Army-McCarthy fight. When appointed secretary, Stevens was board chairman of J. P. Stevens & Co., one of the largest textile concerns, which was founded by an ancestor. He has held directorships in such firms as General Electric Corp., General Foods, the Owens-Corning Fiberglass Co., and the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York.

Brucker's move to the Army Secretaryship will put Michigan men in the service's three top civilian spots. Assistant Secretary George H. Roderick and General Counsel Frank G. Millard also are from that state.

Brucker has been active in Republican politics for years. He has served as chairman of the Fourteenth Republican Congressional committee since 1944. He was chairman of the Michigan State convention in 1948 and was a Michigan delegate and member of the platform committee at the Republican national convention that year.

He served in World War I with the Michigan National Guard and later saw action in France with the Forty-second Rainbow Division. He was awarded the Silver Star.

advised the public to beware of rumor mongering. He in effect denied there were any disagreements inside the armed forces and the government by saying such reports were "not worth comment."

Lucero also scoffed at rumors he said have been coming from "our friends of Montevideo." Argentine exiles in the Uruguayan capital have said that negotiations were under way in Buenos Aires to set up a three-man junta, including Peron, to govern the country.

The return of the soldiers to their barracks left the powerful national police force to keep order under the existing state of siege—a form of martial law. The police are also under Lucero's command. Before the revolt, they were controlled by Interior Minister Angel Gabriel Borlenghi—one of the cabinet members who conferred with Peron yesterday.

The army announcement disclosed that mobs which roamed the city after the revolt broke into stores and stole guns. It warned that such persons must turn in the weapons by Thursday or face punishment.

The Ministry of Finance said it had instructed national banks to make loans for the repair of damage without affecting normal credit lines.

Most of the damage from the revolt itself was suffered by buildings in the area of Government House, on the central Plaza de Mayo. Roman Catholic church properties in the downtown section suffered vast damage from fires set by street mobs after the fighting was over. Police today permitted automobile traffic to pass around the Plaza de Mayo in front of Government House and the Metropolitan cathedral for the first time since the revolt.

Police announced the arrest of two men charged with setting fire to a Catholic church in a Buenos Aires suburb. They also reported an attempt was made to burn a Catholic school at Mar Del Plata, a resort. Authorities said that several men they identified as Communists were arrested after an exchange of gunfire between police and a group fleeing the Mar del Plata School.

After a one-day omission, the government radio again yesterday made its usual 10:25 p.m. news broadcast "at the hour at which Eva Peron entered immortality." For the first time in nearly three years, the radio tavern pulled us apart and put the man out."

Monday night missed the memorial broadcast in honor of the President's late wife and made a newscast at 10:30 p.m. instead.

Clancy and his wife own and operate a tavern at 2522 Salisbury street. Mrs. Clancy said her husband was out of town on a fishing trip today, and she knew nothing about the altercation between him and Noonan. A half brick was thrown through a window of the Clancy tavern early last Saturday, but Mrs. Clancy attributed the incident to "some drunk."

In the election of aldermanic board officers in April, the north side Democratic faction once headed by former Sheriff Thomas F. Callanan, of which Noonan was a member, favored the re-election of Alderman Edgar J. Feely of the Twentieth ward.

Noonan, who represents the Third Ward, voted for the south side, anti-Callanan faction's choice for the office, Alderman Anton Niemeyer of the Eighth Ward, who was elected.

NEW BELLEVILLE BUS ROUTE

Plans for a bus route to serve new subdivisions in northwest Belleville were outlined yesterday by Belleville St. Louis Coach Co. in an application to the Illinois Commerce Commission and the Belleville City Council.

The route, which would be operated Mondays through Fridays starting Sept. 1, would follow a "figure eight" pattern between Twenty-ninth and Seventy-fourth streets. There would be three transfer points for busses to downtown Belleville and St. Louis.

FIRST OF IGOE HOMES

READY ABOUT JULY 1

Fully-Integrated Project to Take 72 Families in Initial Group.

Tenants will begin moving into the William L. Igoe Homes, first St. Louis Housing Authority project to be operated on a non-segregated basis, about July 1, John J. O'Toole, executive director of the authority, said yesterday.

At a meeting of representatives of several social and religious agencies in the offices of the Mayor's Council on Human Relations, O'Toole said one building of the project will be ready to take 72 families about July 1. When completely occupied, the new project, in the De Soto-Carr area, will house 1132 families.

"A new project is the ideal place to start racial integration on a voluntary basis," O'Toole said, in explaining the reasons for selecting Igoe Homes as the first of the five projects operated by the authority to be open to eligible families regardless of race.

Clinton-Peabody and John J. Cochran projects have a total of 1361 family units for white persons, and Carr Square and Wendell Oliver Pruitt projects provide 2394 units for Negroes. The staff of Igoe Homes will be integrated "all the way through," O'Toole said in answer to a question at yesterday's meeting.

Persons attending the meeting, in addition to O'Toole and other housing authority representatives, were W. J. Duford, commissioner of the human relations council; Virgil Border and Donald Sullivan, representing the National Conference of Christians and Jews; Mrs. Powell B. McHaney, a member of the Mayor's Council on Human Relations; M. Leo Bohanon, executive director, St. Louis Urban League; Myron Schwartz, executive director, Jewish Community Relations Council, and the Rev. A. J. Marschner, pastor of St. Bridget's Church.

KETC MANAGER QUILTS AND AID IS DISMISSED

No Successor to Storck Named—Resignation Effective June 30.

Shelby Storck has resigned, effective June 30, as general manager of educational television station KETC (Channel 9) and his assistant was dismissed today.

No successor to Storck has been named. He was the fourth manager of the station, which began preliminary operations in the fall of 1952 and went on the air last September.

Storck said he resigned his $11,100-a-year job in a disagreement with the St. Louis Educational Television Commission, which operates KETC, over financing.

His assistant, Richard F. Smith, told the Post-Dispatch he was "fired" today. Smith said he was notified of the ouster by Storck, who said he was carrying out orders of the commission's executive committee. No reason for the action was given, Smith said.

However, the Post-Dispatch learned that the executive committee decided to dismiss Smith to give Storck's successor a free hand.

Storck said he submitted his resignation following what he termed "almost total collapse" of a door-to-door fund solicitation for the station earlier this month. He said he thought the commission should have "an opportunity to start anew in putting the station on a sound financial basis."

Philip J. Hickey, acting chairman of the commission and superintendent of instruction for St. Louis public schools, told the Post-Dispatch he considered KETC's financial prospects as "exceedingly encouraging." There is no question about operations for the year starting July 1, Hickey declared.

He said the commission needed only about $56,000 more to meet its $300,000 operating budget for the year. Businesses and individuals have given about $97,000, Hickey said, and school systems in the area have paid and pledged $147,000.

While the door-to-door campaign did fall far short of its goal, he said, response from business, industry and other large givers has been encouraging. He attributed the poor showing in the house-by-house solicitation to bad weather and to the large number of drives by other organizations earlier in the year.

Moreover, because of unfavorable weather on the scheduled campaign dates, many groups postponed canvassing their areas for KETC contributions until fall, he said.

Although Storck declined to spell out his differences with the commission, he indicated he was concerned over lack of long-range financial planning, which he felt was necessary to develop the station properly.

He said he thought the next year would be the station's most critical one. During its first year on the air, Storck asserted, many viewers were attracted out of curiosity. However, he said that to hold and build its audience KETC must offer programs competitive in quality with commercial TV productions.

Hickey said in selecting a successor the commission would seek a person who is an authority on the basic problems of education as they affect educational television.

When Storck leaves, Jack Chenoweth, the station's chief engineer, will take charge of operations until a new manager is named, Hickey said.

Storck became manager in January. He joined the station last September as director of operations, having previously been a producer of industrial films and television programs in Kansas City.

Charles E. Guggenheim was the first manager. He became director of operations and production when Richard J. Goggin was hired as manager in the summer of 1953. Guggenheim was dismissed from the staff last July. Goggin resigned last Sept. 1. Martin Quigley then served as acting general manager—on leave from his duties as vice president of Fleishman-Hilliard Cnc, St. Louis public relations firm—until Storck was appointed.

ISRAEL, EGYPT CONDEMNED FOR TRADING SHOTS IN GAZA

JERUSALEM, Israel, June 22 (UP)—The United Nations announced today that both Israel and Egypt were condemned last night by the Israeli-Egyptian Mixed Armistice Commission for the May 21 exchange of gunfire in the Gaza strip area.

The commission found that an Israeli patrol fired on an Egyptian outpost in the Gaza strip. Egyptians opened fire on a patrol at almost the same time the routine Israeli patrol.

1,500,000 Have Given Up Smoking Of Cigarettes in Last 18 Months

38,000,000 Persons Still Regular Users, Census Bureau Says — 2,500,000 Cigar Smokers.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 22 — More than 1,500,000 Americans have given up cigarette smoking in the last 18 months, but about 38,000,000 persons still smoke regularly, the Census Bureau reported today.

In a study conducted for the Public Health Service's National Cancer Institute, the bureau said a survey based on a representative sampling of about 40,000 persons indicated there were 25,000,000 men and 13,000,000 women smokers in the United States.

The data obtained "will be of value to National Cancer Institute statisticians and physicians who are studying the incidence of cancer in the population — particularly lung cancer—in relationship to smoking habits," the report said.

Sharp Increase Noted.

A sharp increase was noted in the number of persons who have sworn off smoking. Compared with the 1,500,000 persons who quit altogether in the 18-month period since the fall of 1953, about 600,000 gave up smoking in the previous year, from the fall of 1952 to the fall of 1953, the report said.

However, it added that there was no way of telling just how many smokers quit because of fear of possible cancer. In addition, the bureau said there might be some backsliders later.

The report made these observations about the smoking habits of Americans:

About 4,000,000 male cigarette smokers go through less than half a pack a day. The majority of male smokers consume 10 to 20 cigarettes a day. About 500,000 smoke more than two packs daily, and there are about 2,000,000 others who smoke cigarettes only occasionally.

Cigar smokers (one or more a day) number 2,500,000, with another 7,500,000 men trying an occasional cigar. There are more regular pipe smokers—3,500,000 regulars, 4,500,000 occasionals.

2 Out of Every 3 Men Smoke.

Two out of every three men from 25 to 64 years old smoke regularly—either cigarette, pipe or cigar. Non-farm men are heavier smokers than farmers; white men smoke more than non-whites; about two-thirds of the male smokers started before they were 20.

There is greater diversity in smoking habits among women, the report said. In the 25 to 34 age group, 35 per cent of the women smoke, while only 4 per cent of those 65 and over are regular smokers.

The Public Health Service said it is making laboratory and field studies on the question of whether lung cancer is related to cigarette smoking. Several other agencies and institutions are conducting similar studies, the service said.

It emphasized that the Census Bureau's figures were preliminary in nature. They were based on interviews conducted earlier this year by census takers who talked to both men and women smokers over 17. The survey covered 230 urban areas consisting of about 450 counties throughout the nation.

HUSBAND WHO KILLED SELF NAMED IN WIFE'S MURDER

LA JARA, Colo., June 22 (AP)—A district attorney's investigator who committed suicide two days after his wife was killed has been named by Conejos county officials as the killer of the wife.

Deputy Prosecutor Gordon Rowe said Jerry Armijo, 32 years old, killed his wife early Saturday and later took his own life in remorse.

Armijo had maintained his wife was shot down by unknown assailants as the couple stood near their home in this southern Colorado community.

PEARSON TO HEAD AIRLINE GROUP, QUILTS BUDGET JOB

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Harold L. Pearson, assistant director of the Bureau of the Budget, yesterday was elected president of the Air Transport Association of America by the organization's directors.

The association said Pearson has sent President Eisenhower his resignation from the Government post, effective July 1, and will take over his new job on that date. He succeeds Earl D. Johnson, former under secretary of the Army, who has resigned to join General Dynamics in New York City.

The Air Transport Association is an organization of scheduled United States airlines.

Pearson was born in Kansas City, Kan. He has worked with J. C. Penney, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward. Shortly after the fighting began in Korea, he was appointed special consultant to the Secretary of the Army for logistical problems. He became deputy under secretary in 1952 and served in that capacity until February 1954, when he became director of a Hoover Commission task force on "subsistence services." Pearson joined the Bureau of the Budget in May 1954.

ST. LOUIS SCHOOL ELECTION BILL SIGNED BY DONNELLY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 22 — A bill requiring candidates for election to the St. Louis Board of Education to file nominating petitions was among measures signed yesterday by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly.

The practice of requiring candidates for such posts to obtain nomination through filing petitions has been followed for years in St. Louis, but was ruled out in an opinion handed down by Atty. ey General John M. Dalton last November, based upon a Missouri Supreme Court decision involving a law prescribing conditions for nomination of candidates by minority parties.

Four other measures signed

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Wed., June 22, 1955 9 A

by the Governor will provide 14 additional office clerks for the St. Louis county Board of Election Commissioners, increase salaries of regular employees in the office, and raise the pay of election judges and clerks and special deputy election commissioners from $6 to $10 a day.

Applause Halts Molotov 5 Times As He Tells U.N. of Soviet Aims

FOREIGN MINISTER V. M. MOLOTOV of Russia addressing commemorative session of the United Nations in San Francisco today.

Expression of Russians' Good Feelings for People of United States Stirs Heaviest Response at San Francisco Meeting.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22—Looking like a benign college professor patiently explaining why his students should realize there is milk and honey in life, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov five times was interrupted by a appreciative applause in his talk to the United Nations today.

First applause came when Molotov urged the complete prohibition of all atomic weapons. The heaviest response, however, was given when, in the evening, placid tone that characterized his whole speech, he expressed the good feelings of the people of his country for the people of the United States.

A few huzzahs were thrown in when he added, at a moment later, that the Russian people want trust and tranquility between the Soviet Union and the United States and that he is confident this also is the desire of Americans.

The consistently conciliatory tone of the Soviet diplomat, even when stressing the points of greatest friction between East and West, appeared to please not only the delegates at the commemorative session but also the spectators.

Molotov was dressed in a neat gray suit with a dark tie and carried to the rostrum of the ornate gold and rose auditorium a red covered notebook containing his text. He looked up frequently as he spoke, nodding with genial emphasis, and beaming when his words evoked applause. He spoke in Russian, but delegates who could not understand that language, as well as spectators in the galleries, wore earphones enabling them to tune in on the language they understood.

When Molotov first appeared on the rostrum the hand-clapping lasted only six seconds. He was past the midway point in his speech before there was any applause at all. When he concluded, with a mounting emphasis on Soviet conviction that all issues between East and West can be amicably resolved, the applause was fairly heavy, lasting about 20 seconds.

As it continued, Molotov walked briskly to his seat amid the Soviet delegation near the stage. No one congratulated him, but he appeared pleased that the applause was still continuing as he sat down.

If this was part of the new Soviet look, delegates and spectators alike seemed to like it.

NORTH VIET NAM'S RULER LEAVES TO VISIT RED LEADERS

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—President Ho Chi Minh, Moscow-educated ruler of Communist North Viet Nam, left Hanoi today for talks with the Government leaders of Red China and Russia, the New China news agency announced.

Ho's visit, as the head of the Government and of a Communist party delegation, is taking place less than one month before the authorities of North and South Viet Nam are supposed to begin talks for countrywide elections.

These elections, provided for under the 1954 Geneva cease-fire accords, are to take place by July 1956.

SCELBA, CABINET QUIT AFTER SPLIT IN HIS OWN PARTY

at the present state of things—as a sufficient means for reconstituting the understanding between the parties of the democratic coalition.

The party leaders officially attributed the failure to the refusal of the small Republican party to promise support for the government in a parliamentary confidence vote scheduled for Thursday. The key factor really was the split in the Christian Democratic ranks and especially the opposition to Scelba from the right wing.

With his party holding only 262 of the 590 Chamber of Deputies seats, Scelba has relied on a coalition with three minor center parties for the votes necessary to put his policies over.

Reliance on Monarchists.

The rightist Christian Democrats, headed by ex-Premier Pella, want to do away with the coalition and form a cabinet only from their own party, presumably relying on the 39 Monarchists in the chamber for the needed votes. This group has been after Scelba's scalp for months.

Scelba's coalition also has been running into opposition from left-wing Christian Democrats who favor an "opening toward the left"—a tieup with the fellow-traveling leftwing Socialists headed by Pietro Nenni.

President Gronchi is a member of this wing. There was some speculation that he might pick a Christian Democrat at agreeing with his views as a premier-designate.

The Republicans, with five chamber seats, were the smallest of the center parties that lined up with Scelba when he became premier in March 1954. They split with the government three months ago on a land reform question. Scelba tried to woo them back but the party turned down his proposals last Sunday.

G.M. ANNOUNCES $500,000,000 EXPANSION PLAN

Says Growing Auto Market Requires New Machine Tools, Facilities, Floor Space.

DETROIT, June 22 (UP)—General Motors Corp. today announced a new expansion program of $500,000,000 for its automotive divisions to meet the needs for an expanding market.

This brings to two billion dollars the total of G.M. expansion programs made public in the last 18 months. The corporation has budgeted four billions for capital investment since the end of World War II.

President Harlow H. Curtice said the newly announced expenditures are slated for new machine tools, presses and other facilities, plus the building of 6,300,000 square feet of additional floor space.

Auto Output Race.
G.M., world's largest manufacturer, now is in a race with second-place Ford and third-place Chrysler. Last year G.M. produced more than one out of every two cars in the nation.

"This new expansion program," Curtice said, "is being undertaken at this time to assure General Motors adequate capacity to enable us to keep pace with the normal growth of the market as we appraise it for the future."

"It will help provide a solid foundation for our position in the industry, create expanding job opportunities and further protect the investment of the owners in the business."

Curtice said the new $500,000,000 outlays will be "substantially completed" by the end of 1956.

Ford's Outlays.
Ford Motor Co., G.M.'s biggest rival, has spent or allotted more than two billions on expansion programs in the last 10 years.

Announcement of the new G.M. plans came 10 days after the company reached a new three-year agreement with the CIO United Automobile Workers providing for a guaranteed wage plan for more than 400,000 hourly employees.

In January 1954, Curtice announced a one billion dollar program to enlarge capacity for G.M.'s automotive divisions and, a year later, followed this with the disclosure that the program would come to $1,500,000,000.

EAST GERMANY SAYS SOVIET SUPERIORITY DETERS ATTACKS

BERLIN, June 22 (AP)—Communist East Germany noted the fourteenth anniversary of Hitler's attack on Russia today with the assertion that Soviet military superiority is holding would-be aggressors in check.

Neues Deutschland, official organ of the East German Communist party declared: "Western politicians and military men must admit the Soviet Union today has available tanks and jet planes which are far superior to the weapons of the imperialists."

The newspaper also boasted that Soviet atomic bombs, carried by long range jet bombers, can reach "the aggressors in every one of their hiding places."

ESSAY WINS 'A' FOR EFFORT AND $5 FROM THE BANK

MONTAGUE, Mich. (UP)—When a 16-year-old Arlene Meinert filled a school assignment by writing an essay on "some unusual person" she received an "A" for her effort and a $5 check from Hackley Union National Bank.

Arlene created a fictitious little character named Tom Pinky ("because he is no bigger than your little finger"), who lived in a safe deposit box at the bank.

The girl's story said Tom Pinky became a mascot of the bank employees, and the kind-hearted bank president paid the monthly box rental for him.

Model Won't Appeal Death Sentence for Killing Her Lover

Only Hope for British Mother of Two Rests With Queen — Jealousy Plea Rejected.

LONDON, June 22 (AP) — Mrs. Ruth Ellis's attorney said today the blond model will not appeal her death sentence for murdering her playboy Mayfair lover on Easter Sunday.

"It was finally decided this morning. There won't be any appeal," Defense Counsel J.G.A. Bickford reported after a long conference with his client in the condemned cell.

The 28-year-old divorcee's only chance now to escape the hangman's noose rests with the Crown. Queen Elizabeth II can grant a reprieve on the recommendation of the Home Secretary.

Mrs. Ellis, mother of two children, appeared resigned to her fate as the judge, wearing the traditional black cloth cap, pronounced sentence yesterday— "hanged by the neck until you are dead."

Father Is Only Visitor.
So far in the death house she has had only one other visitor—her father.

The date for execution has not been set but under law it must be "in the week following, the third Sunday after sentencing"—in this case July 10-16.

MRS. RUTH ELLIS

Mrs. Ellis has a 10-year-old son—born out of wedlock after a wartime romance with an American Army officer soon after she came to London's gay West End as a girl of 17. She has steadfastly refused to give the name of the American. She told friends he was killed in action.

Five years later the attractive model married a quiet middle-aged dentist. He divorced her last February for cruelty. They had a 3-year-old daughter who was awarded to her.

Details of her gay life in fashionable Mayfair came to light only after her conviction for shooting David M. Blakely outside a London tavern.

Racing Car Enthusiast.

She met Blakely, 25-year-old racing car enthusiast and son of a doctor, on becoming manageress of a plush after-hours drinking club in Kensington.

She admitted fits of jealousy when he ran around with other women—and testified up to the time she shot him both "loved and despised him."

Several times they split up and she even acquired another lover—quieter business man—but still saw Blakely. She lived alternately with both men.

She shot Blakely when he tried to break away for good. Her defense was rare—a plea of manslaughter based on a claim that jealousy and provocation made her emotionally upset.

When the judge rejected this, the defense counsel did not even bother to make the usual final plea to the jury.

REUTHER SAYS UAW OPPOSES INDUSTRY-WIDE BARGAINING

DETROIT, June 22 (AP)—Any attempt at industry-wide bargaining by the automobile companies will be fought by the CIO United Auto Workers, union President Walter P. Reuther said yesterday.

Reuther was commenting on a suggestion made 24 hours earlier by Henry Ford II that the motorcar firms join forces in future dealings with the big auto union.

"I don't think industry will accept it, and I know the UAW-CIO will not accept it," Reuther asserted.

"We are opposed to industry-wide bargaining. That's just a way to make small crises into big ones."

Ever since the auto industry was organized, the UAW has dealt with each company individually, attempting to use gains won from one as a wedge at the others.

HENNINGS GROUP BEGINS INQUIRY ON CIVIL RIGHTS

Senate Committee
Studies Alleged Violations and Ways to Deal With Inequities.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 22 — The Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights began a study today, which eventually will mirror the Bill of Rights in the light of present day conditions.

Under the chairmanship of Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem., St. Louis), the three-member group directed its staff to study all material available on questions involving free speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of movement and due process in administrative matters.

At the moment, the staff has on hand a mass of material relating to wiretapping, refusals to issue passports, postal censorship, members of the armed services being dismissed because of alleged membership of relatives in now-proscribed organizations and other administrative actions against persons on the "guilt by association" theory.

In addition, the subcommittee has received numerous complaints from individuals who claim that their rights have been contravened by government agencies. Senator Hennings said that several of these complaints may warrant investigation by the subcommittee but many of them belong in the courts for adjudication or require action by the executive branch of the government.

As the study progresses, Hennings said, the subcommittee will hold a series of general meetings to obtain the views of leaders of government, business, labor, education and civic organizations on what subjects within the subcommittee's jurisdiction require investigation. "Judging from the information received," Hennings said, "Many of our leaders feel that we should examine closely a number of questions concerning constitutional rights. They appear to believe that some old situations need new laws, that some old laws do not fit new situations. We want to determine by full exploration how these witnesses think we can be constructive, strengthen our country's security and our nation's morale and deal with inequities which may have developed. In every field of legislation there is a need for periodic review by legislators."

Hennings said specific investigations and hearings will be held on those subjects which the general meetings indicate are most important. The yardstick the subcommittee will use in measuring present-day conditions will be the Bill of Rights—the first 10 amendments to the constitution—which dates back to Dec. 15, 1791.

In addition to Hennings, members of the subcommittee are Senators Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Dem., Wyoming) and William Langer (Rep., North Dakota). Counsel to the subcommittee is Marshall MacDuffie.

STIFFER PENALTIES IN SMITH ACT URGED BY HOUSE GROUP

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Stiffer penalties for seditious conspiracy and advocating overthrow of the Government are provided in an Administration bill approved yesterday by a House Judiciary subcommittee.

The measure, requested by Attorney General Herbert Brownell and approved by the American Bar Association, amends the Smith Act to increase penalties for seditious conspiracy from $50,000 to $200,000 fine and from 6 to 20 years in prison, and for advocating overthrow of the Government from $10,000 to $200,000 fine and 10 to 20 years in prison.

It provides also additional penalties of $200,000 fine and 20 years in prison for conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the Government, and makes anyone convicted of such charge ineligible to work for the Government for five years.

SOFT DRINK STRIKERS REJECT WAGE PROPOSAL

A wage offer and proposed five-year contract were rejected unanimously yesterday by the 200 soft drink bottlers who are on strike against 11 firms.

The strikers, who walked out June 1, are demanding a wage increase of 34 cents an hour, to $2.39. The wage offer they rejected at a meeting at Painters Hall called for an increase of 8 cents, with 2 cents the first year and 1 1/2 cents in each remaining year of the agreement.

State Senator Edward J. Hogan Jr., business representative of Soft Drink Workers Local 203, said the union was willing to meet employers in further negotiations any time. Hogan said the offer made by the firms proposed a reduction in paid holidays. Nine firms have temporary agreements with the union and are operating.

FORMULA FOR FIGURING COST OF OPERATING AUTO

BOSTON (UP)—Want to know how much that automobile of yours is costing?

The Massachusetts Division of the AAA says it works like this—allow $1.65 a day, plus 3 1/2 cents per mile you drive. That compares with $1.55 a day and 3 1/2 cents per mile of just one year ago.

"Of course," said the division, "other factors, such as the individual motorist's driving habits, speeds and the type of territory in which he travels, will affect his driving costs."

BEIRUT TO NUMBER HOMES, HOPING TO SPEED MAIL

BEIRUT, June 22 (AP)—The mail should go through quicker when the government of Lebanon carries out its plan to number houses in this city.

Letters are now addressed in such ways as "Abdoud building, beside Bala grocery, near Italian consulate, Ras Beirut quarter." This enables the postman to locate the general vicinity and he wanders at random making inquiries until he finds the exact house.

AIM FOR IMPOSSIBLE, IS WRITER'S CREED

Helen Worden Erskine Here for Meeting of Women Journalists.

"Aim for the impossible" is the creed of journalist Helen Worden Erskine, a society writer turned crime reporter, who is here attending the Theta Sigma Phi convention for women journalists.

Now a contributing editor for Colliers Magazine, traveling 50,000 miles annually, she said when interviewed today that St. Louis, Kansas City and Malta are the three friendliest cities she has visited. The green lawns and parks of St. Louis have impressed her, she said.

Gracious, alert and graying, Mrs. Erskine said her work as a correspondent was keeping her young. "My journalistic family didn't want me to write, because they said it was a hard life," she explained. "Instead they sent me to Paris after World War I to elad the sheltered life of an art student."

"Women are better reporters than men, because they are more curious," Mrs. Erskine holds. "I believe woman's place is in the home, although in the past four years I've been more in airliners than in my New York apartment." She is the widow of John Erskine, a pioneer in the Great Books program at Columbia University.

The news story of which she is proudest is an exclusive interview with Jovanka Broz, wife of Yugoslavia's dictator, Marshal Tito. She describes her as a shrewd, naturally beautiful woman, and a strong Marxist. "Never underestimate the power of a woman," she cautions in regard to that country's affairs.

FREED FLYER GIVES PLAQUE TO LODGE, HAMMARSKJOLD

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22 (AP)—One of four airmen recently released by the Chinese Communists presented a plaque yesterday to Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations as formal thanks for the flyers' freedom.

Capt. Harold E. Fischer Jr. of Swea City, Ia., made the presentation to Lodge, United States ambassador to the U.N., on behalf of the World Veterans Foundation.

Accepting, Lodge said "we must keep the faith with our prisoners." Then he commented Hammarskjold's "intelligent and persistent" efforts to free Americans still held in China.

PLANE IN FLIGHT COLLIDES WITH A STEER AND CRASHES

BREMEN, Ind., June 22 (AP)—Robert E. Unsicker, 19 years old, flew his plane low over an uncult wheat field yesterday, helping his cousin, Eldon Roeder, hunt for a missing steer.

He found it the hard way. The steer jumped out of the tall wheat and banged its head on one of the plane's wheels.

Unsicker crashed into a tree but escaped with a bump on the forehead. The steer was killed.

Two Hurt By Shell Blast.

TOKYO, June 22 (AP)—The army said today two soldiers were seriously injured yesterday in the premature explosion of a shell from a recoilless rifle. It withheld names. Both were members of the Seventh Cavalry Regiment.

3 BIG STEEL FIRMS AGREE TO PAY RISE

Amount Not Yet Decided by Companies—Union Wants Substantial Boost.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 22 (AP)—The basic steel industry moved another step closer today to a definite wage offer which may determine whether 600,000 CIO United Steel Workers will strike.

Three of the industry's top producers have promised a wage increase. They have not said yet how much.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. scheduled resumption of wage talks today with the U.S.W. The three producers who committed themselves this week to pay increases are U.S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Republic Steel Corp.

The steelworkers, who now earn an average $2.33 hourly, will be free to strike at midnight June 30 if no agreement is reached.

U.S. Steel is expected to spell out its offer either tomorrow or Friday. It usually is the pacesetter of the industry.

David J. McDonald, president of the union, has said only that he wants a "substantial" wage boost.

McDonald has indicated he expects the companies to offer about 7½ cents an hour increase. He made it clear such an offer would be rejected.

The current talks are being held under a wage re-opener clause of the current contract, a two-year pact signed last June. Under that agreement, only wages can be discussed this year.

McDonald is taking personal charge of the talks with the major producers here in Pittsburgh. Other negotiators are talking with smaller steel firms around the country.

Both sides have expressed optimism about a settlement before the strike deadline. Most observers feel the union will agree to an increase of from 12 to 15 cents an hour.

BURGLAR CAN'T GET OUT OF SHOP, PHONES POLICE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 22 (UP)—"I want to report a burglary," the voice on the police telephone said. Dispatcher Bill Dowling said today he told the caller he would switch him to the detective division.

"Well, you wait a minute — I'm the burglar," the voice said. The caller said he was at a certain music shop and Dowling asked the man if he was going to stay there.

"Sure I'm going to stay here. I can't get out."

Officers arrived, found a man sitting calmly inside the store, and held him as a burglary suspect.

WOMAN JUROR CAN'T MAKE UP HER MIND IN 23 HOURS

SANDUSKY, Mich., June 22 (AP)—The refusal of a woman juror to join in a guilty verdict resulted in a hung jury last night in the trial of Harry Smith, former Sandusky superintendent of schools.

The foreman reported the jury, after deliberating 23 hours, had voted to convict Smith of embezzling $25,000 in tuition and transportation money.

Defense counsel demanded the jury be polled. Mrs. Charlotte Murray said she could not make up her mind. Circuit Judge Arthur Bach discharged the jury after it deliberated two more hours.

BUDGET-BALANCING STUDY GROUP NAMED

Special House Subcommittee Will Take Up Administration Proposals.

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—A special House Appropriations subcommittee was created yesterday by Representative Clarence Cannon (Dem., Missouri), to study ways and means of balancing the budget. Cannon is chairman of the appropriations committee.

Among other things, Cannon said in a statement, the subcommittee will consider a proposal advanced by the Administration to amend procedures of the committee and the House "with the view to balancing the budget."

The proposal, committee members said, was advanced informally by the Treasury Department and the Budget Bureau and provides that Congress hold up final action on all money measures until it determined how much revenue the Government will have.

The idea is that Congress then would slash the appropriation bills to fit anticipated revenue. "It would afford a fine opportunity for log-rolling," commented representative Taber of New York, senior Republican on both the full committee and the subcommittee.

"The question would boil down to 'whose bills gets cut,'" he said.

Presumably, Taber said, both the Senate and the House would continue to pass 12 or so separate appropriation bills but, instead of sending them to the President, would hold them all on Capitol Hill until Congress adjourns.

Then the budget-cutting would start.

The special subcommittee will be headed by Representative Mahon (Dem., Texas), and will include, besides Taber, Representative Andrews (Dem., Alabama), Gary (Dem., Virginia), and Wigglesworth (Rep.), Massachusetts.

The appropriations committee has rejected the "one-package" money bill idea repeatedly since Congress tried it out in 1950.

Denver Mayor By 766 Votes.
DENVER, June 22 (AP)—Will F. Nicholson, Republican state senator and friend of President Eisenhower, was elected Denver Mayor by a margin of 766 votes in the Colorado capital's first run-off election Tuesday. He polled 60,505 votes to 59,739 for his opponent, District Attorney Bert Keating, Democrat.

FELDMER PLEADS GUILTY OF EMBEZZLING FROM FIRM

Louis A. Feldmer, former credit manager for the Julius Seidel Lumber Co., yesterday pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge James E. McLaughlin of embezzlement. Sentencing was deferred until June 30, pending Feldmer's application for probation.

He was charged with taking $20,000 from the firm at 2323 South Vandeventer avenue between January 1953 and December 1954. He did not explain how he got the money or what he did with it.

Feldmer is 59 years old and lives in St. Clair, Mo. Judge McLaughlin indicated he will deny the probation application. Maximum punishment is five years in the penitentiary.

SON OF FORMER ST. LOUISAN KILLED IN WEST AIR CRASH

Frederick Hill Atkinson, son of Mrs. Frederick G. Atkinson, a former St. Louisan now living in New York, N.Y., was killed in the vicinity of Seattle, Wash., when the plane he was piloting crashed in fog in a mountainous region, it was learned here today.

Atkinson, 20 years old, was a student at Columbia University. His father, Frederick G. Atkinson, is a vice president of Macy's Department Stores. Surviving also is his grandmother, Mrs. Bransford Hill, until recently of St. Louis but now living in New York.

SEGREGATION CRITIC
WITHOUT A PULPIT

Christian Methodist Preacher Passed Over in Mississippi Assignments.

JACKSON, Miss., June 22 (AP)—A Methodist minister who spoke against segregation in the church, charged yesterday that he is without a church at the request of the Christian Methodist church members of this state.

The annual Mississippi Methodist conference ended Sunday with assignment of churches. The Rev. Roy C. DeLamotte was unassigned.

In a letter to the Clarion Ledger, he said he had been assigned a tentative church when he spoke against separate churches for Negroes and whites. He said he asked the conference delegates to give "at least a protest vote against Methodist's Jim Crow jurisdictional system."

After the speech, he said, delegates from his tentative assignment told him the congregation would neither pay him nor listen to his sermons. The cabinet, which makes church assignments, agreed to remain in session until a church could be found to accept the Rev. Mr. DeLamotte.

"However," he said, "they seemed to feel that none could be found and asked me what I wanted them to do. I replied that the congregation ought to agree to hear me preach what I believe to be the word of God when I believe He wants me to preach it."

He said he could not accept any church on other terms. "Therefore, I am being left without appointment in one sense at my own request," he said.

In another and perhaps more accurate sense, I am being left so at the request of the Christian Methodist church members of this state."

Asked for comment on the letter, Methodist Bishop Marvin Franklin said, "I don't believe I want to make a statement at this time."

El Paso School Board Votes to End Segregation.

EL PASO, Tex., June 22 (AP)—The El Paso School Board voted last night 6-1 to abolish segregation in the public schools.

El Paso thus became the first major Texas city to end segregation in accordance with the historic Supreme Court decision.

There were 712 Negro pupils in El Paso public schools last school year. There is a single Negro school in this metropolitan area of more than 182,000 persons.

REPLY MADE TO PROTESTS
OVER TAX OFFICE TRANSFER

Numerous protests from St. Louisans over the proposed transfer of technical supervision of estate and gift tax unit of the Internal Revenue Service from here to Kansas City (Mo.) were answered today by Assistant Commissioner of Internal Revenue Service Paul K. Webster at Washington, D.C.

In a letter to District Internal Revenue Director Gus Koehler, Webster said there would be no change in authority of district directors here with respect to general administration of the tax enforcement program.

"Estate and gift tax agents, under the new policy, will work under the technical supervision of a group supervisor at Kansas City, central point in the Omaha tax region," the letter stated.

In cases where a dispute arises, the group supervisor will go to St. Louis to assist in settling the case, the letter continued. Most recent protest of the proposed transfer came from Aloys P. Kaufmann, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce. The new policy is scheduled to begin July 1.

LAYING OF FIRST OCEAN TELEPHONE
CABLE UNDER WAY

CLARENVILLE, Newfoundland, June 22 (UPI)—A ship flying the Stars and Stripes and the British Union Jack today began laying the world's first transoceanic telephone cable which will stretch from Clarenville to Oban, Scotland.

The first length of cable was drawn from the huge cable tanks of the British telegraph ship Monarch and connected in a land-based building that will become the western terminus of the cable system.

The telephone line, when completed, will stretch some 2,000 miles across the ocean floor. The system is a joint undertaking of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the British Post Office and the Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corp.

Officials of the three companies said the first cable will be in place by the end of the summer. A second line of the twin cable system will be laid next summer. The system was expected to be in operation by late 1956.

Orange Trees Sprout and Grow 4000 Feet Down in Idaho Mine

Seeds Dropped From Miner's Lunch Pail Grow by Artificial Sunshine From 10 Light Bulbs.

KELLOGG, Idaho, June 22 (UP)—Orange trees which sprouted from seeds dropped from a miner's lunch pail have survived for six years 4000 feet below the earth's surface and now stretch limbs toward the artificial sunshine furnishing the only light in the "orchard."

There are two trees, growing in the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine here. Officials hope they will grow even longer than a lemon tree which lived 15 years in the old mine.

Seed for the largest orange tree, a four foot leafy growth, was dropped before a strike in 1949. Seeds had been dropped in the mine many times before and none expected another of the "lemon tree freaks" would sprout.

But, through the hard rock where the seeds had fallen, there appeared green foliage. Herman Heier, a shift boss, and James Allen, assistant foreman, found the sturdy little plant thrusting its way through the ground between track ties on the level. They transplanted it to a coffee can. It grew so they moved it to a nail keg, then to a larger box.

Heier brings plant food in his lunch for the tree that has never seen the sunlight. Its sunshine is the light supplied by 10 bulbs of 100 watts each.

"I even carried angle worms down to put in the soil around the tree," Heier says. "They keep the earth from packing too tightly around the roots."

The old lemon tree lived 15 years without so much as a single ray of sunlight. It began to die a few years ago after it was moved to a spot where caretakers thought the air was better. It reached a height of eight feet and had to be pruned because it reached the ceiling of its rocky tomb-like home.

Digging Things Up in Russia. MOSCOW, June 22 (AP)—Soviet scientists are embarked on one of their biggest archeological years—nearly 1000 archeologists in 25 expeditions are digging all over the country. Major projects are excavations in ancient Russian towns in the Crimea, the Caucasus, Moldavia, Central Asia, Siberia, the Baltic area and the Far East.

CONTRACTORS INVITED TO BID ON WELDON SPRINGS PROJECT

Invitations to bid on sub-contracts totaling about $2,000,000 for construction of four buildings at the Atomic Energy Commission's Weldon Spring project were announced yesterday by Fruin-Colton Contracting Co. and Utah Construction Co., joint contractors.

Structures to be built are a two-story administration building and single story building, maintenance and stores building and paint shop, all of concrete block construction. Lump sum bids covering erection of each or all four of the structures will be opened Aug. 1 at Weldon Spring.

The work is part of the $39,800,000 expansion program of the AEC at Weldon Spring and at Mallinckrodt Chemical Works in St. Louis uranium feed materials production and processing plants.

U.S. TAX CLAIM AGAINST LIQUOR CONCERN UPHeld

WASHINGTON, June 22—A federal income tax claim of $4568 against Paramount Liquor Co. of St. Louis has been upheld by the tax court of the United States, it was learned today.

The government charged that the company, a wholesale firm with offices at 2103 Pine street, claimed an unreasonable deduction on its 1949 corporate income tax for an addition to its reserve for bad debts. The amount added to the reserve fund was $9232.

The court upheld the government's contention that the firm's reserve for bad debts was sufficient without the additional sum. Money already on hand in the reserve fund would have been sufficient for a 40 per cent

Wins Trip to Spain—She's There. PHILADELPHIA, June 22 (UP)—Mrs. Walter Bradhering was not home when radio station WPEN called to inform her she had won first prize in a fur shop's guessing game, a trip to Spain. The studio was told Mrs. Bradhering was vacationing in Spain.

G.O.P. BADLY SPLIT, KEFAUVER DECLARES

He Tells Salem (Ill.) Audience That Rift Hampers Government.

SALEM, Ill., June 22 (AP)—Senator Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, said last night the Republican party is "split straight down the middle" and effective government is thereby made almost impossible.

"What this nation needs—what we must have—is not the kind of confused, temporizing administration that we have had, but a positive policy in both domestic and foreign affairs," he said.

Kefauver's remarks were in an address for "Democratic day" at the Soldiers and Sailors Seventy-second Reunion.

Referring to what he called the Republican party "split," he said:

"On one hand are the ancient-minded people. On the other hand are the modern-minded Republicans—and there are some of them. They are the progressive-moderates, or whatever term it is that Mr. Eisenhower is using now."

"But the two wings of the Republicans are at such variance in their views that they have come near to making effective government impossible."

Kefauver said Republicans are "split in precisely the same way" as those in Congress.

"And that split," he added, "is in part responsible for the failure of this Administration. Sometimes Government departments do deliberately what they should know the President would not approve."

"The President," Kefauver continued, "manages to ride above the mistakes and errors of his Administration. He usually takes the ground that he knows nothing about them, or that they are departmental matters of no concern to him. This may be a smart thing to do from a political standpoint. It is anything but smart from the point of view of a well-ordered government."

Kefauver advocated Democratic policies to help farmers and small business men and to develop natural resources.

On foreign affairs, he said the Western alliance is the "real bulwark of our strength in the world," but it has taken "a back seat" for the last two years while the Administration has been "negotiating with the so-called 'war party' within" the Republican party.

"We simply got to again re-invigorate our Western alliance," he said. "I think we are moving in that direction at last."

FRANKLIN COUNTY POWER FIRM SOLD FOR $49,014

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Missouri Power & Light Co. of Jefferson City has been authorized by the State Public Service Commission to buy a small electric utility in Franklin county for $49,014.

The little system, serving 268 customers in and near the village of Leslie, has been owned and operated by Edwin and Martin Segelhorst.

They offered the plant to Missouri Power because the area is growing in population but they did not feel they could afford to make improvements necessary to meet the increased demand.

CURIOSITY ABOUT FOLIC ACID LEADS TO ITS DISCOVERER

PASADENA, Calif., June 22 (AP)—What's folic acid? A reporter spotted the term yesterday in a paper presented to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Pacific division.

Folic acid wasn't in his science dictionary or in Webster's. He began calling professors at California Institute of Technology to find out. He talked to six biologists. All knew it was a vitamin, but each referred him to another scientist for specific details. Finally somebody suggested Dr. Herschel K. Mitchell. "It's one of the B vitamins, found chiefly in liver," said Mitchell, professor of biology at Cal Tech. He ought to know. He discovered it, in 1941.

Overseas Travel Count.

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The Commerce Department reports that 900,000 Americans traveled last year to countries other than neighboring Canada and Mexico. The report on overseas travel said 430,000 Americans traveled last year to the West Indies and Central America. Some 420,000 visited Europe.

MASKED MEN DISRUPT NEGRO-WHITE RALLY

Alabama Governor Tells Law Officers to End 'Hooded Terrorism.'

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 22 (UP)—Masked men broke up a rally of Negroes and whites at Little Southern Union College Monday night. Today Gov. James E. Folsom ordered state law enforcement agencies to end "hooded terrorism."

"People wearing masks are nothing more than lawless highwaymen, an offense punishable by death," Folsom said in commenting on the race incident at Wadley, Ala.

Some 30 white men, some of them masked, swarmed over the small campus and broke up an International Relations Institute with a threat, "Get these niggers out of here or we'll blow the place up."

Mobsters Recognized. Police were summoned and some mobsters were recognized, but no arrests were made and no warrants were issued.

Folsom said he had directed all state law enforcement agencies "to enforce the law against masked highwaymen."

"If people wearing masks are permitted to roam our highways, then every family and every business in this state is in danger," he said. "The nature of the meeting is unimportant."

College president Clyde C. Flannery said four masked men entered the chapel during the meeting and said, "We'll give you 30 minutes to get these niggers out of here."

Second Warning Obeyed. Flannery said he recognized the leader as a Wadley man and "tried to reason" with him. Flannery said "they finally agreed that if we moved the Negroes from one of the dormitories everything would be all right."

However, he said, "a truckload and several carloads" returned shortly afterward and the leader demanded, "get these niggers out of here or we'll blow the place up."

Flannery said the Negroes complied to avoid violence. He said the leader told him, "It would be better if you packed your bags and left, too."

G-E FILTER-FLO Is Terrific!

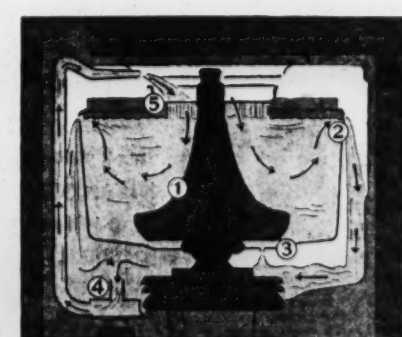

"Filter-Flo really cleans clothes clean," says Mrs. Karches. "For example, I put my new G-E Automatic Washer with Filter-Flo to a real test by putting in a shirt with a few cigarettes in the pocket. In just a few moments, the cigarettes were removed, and filtered from the wash water. And you can see it happen right before your eyes. G-E Filter-Flo washing is really amazing!"

Here's How  "Filter-Flo" Works

- Dirt loosens as clothes are individually dipped, flexed and cleansed by thorough G-E Activator Washing Action.
 - Floating lint and soap scum are carried away as wash-basket continuously over-flows into outer tub.
 - Heavy sand and silt are flushed out here.
 - Pump continuously forces water up through filter (5) back into washbasket.

Conferees Agree to Boost Pay Of Federal Employees 7 1/2 Pct.

Bill Affects 1,073,262. Most of Them in Civil Service — Senate Had Favored 10 Pct. Rise.

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Senate House conferees agreed today on a bill increasing salaries of 1,073,262 federal employees 7 1/2 per cent retroactive to March 1.

The Senate conferees obtained only a few minor increases in the boosts voted by the House. The Senate originally had passed a 10 per cent pay increase measure; the House on Monday voted for 7 1/2 per cent.

Some of the conferees said they had been told President Eisenhower would accept no more than 7 1/2 per cent.

The increases, which will total about $328,000,000 annually, apply to 983,057 classified civil service employees and about 90,205 related workers.

Senator Olin D. Johnston (Dem., S. C.), who said earlier the Senate would fight to give the rank-and-file federal employees an 8 per cent pay rise.

The 500,000 postal workers already have been given a rise averaging 8 per cent.

A Republican senator who asked not to be identified by name pointed out that the 8 per cent for the postal workers was an average. Actually, each worker got at least 6 per cent. Then there was a job reclassification provision which meant 2 per cent additional, but this will be distributed unevenly so that some will get more than 8 per cent, others less.

"If we give all of the classified employees 8 per cent, then some of the postal workers who got less than that are going to be right back asking for more," said the Republican.

Security Changes Pushed.

On another congressional front, Democrats pressed ahead over Eisenhower Administration objections to plans for social security changes to help older women and disabled workers.

Chairman Jere Cooper (Dem., Tennessee), said he hopes the Democratic-controlled House Ways and Means Committee will finish work on a new bill by the end of the week. He called the committee into a second closed session on the plan, which the Democrats have approved in principle.

Representative Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio indicated he and other Republican members would have to let the Democrats run the show for the time being "because there weren't enough of us" to force broad-scale hearings.

Jenkins referred to the committee's 15-to-10 straight party-line vote yesterday against his move for open sessions on a wide range of social security proposals.

While the committee went ahead behind closed doors, Republicans were quoting President Eisenhower as favoring "public hearings" and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Oveta Culp Hobby called for "a thoroughgoing review and inquiry."

Would Lower Ages.

The Democratic plan, sponsored by Cooper, would lower from 65 to 62 years the age at which women could qualify for social security benefits. Totally disabled persons covered by social security would get benefit payments at any age rather than at 65, as would disabled children whose benefits are now cut off at age 18.

Democrats contend that women need the retirement benefit at an earlier age than men and that it isn't fair for disabled workers, until age 65, to be cut out from the benefits to which they've contributed.

The Republican argument, as voiced by Mrs. Hobby in a letter to Cooper yesterday, is that there are other worthy proposals for social security changes and that all major revisions should get full study.

She estimated the Democratic-sponsored proposals would cost the social security trust fund more than two billion dollars a year.

Just what the changes would cost, what social security tax increases would be needed to pay for them and how many people would be affected were matters to be detailed by Government technicians at today's committee session.

Benefits Soar.

Meanwhile, the Social Security Administration reported that 7,339,359 persons received social security checks in April totaling $369,642,000—a boost of about 1,000,000 persons and $100,000,000 over April 1954.

The increases were attributed to the social security broadening and liberalization voted by the Republican-controlled Congress last year.

Representative Frank Chelf (Dem., Kentucky), told a House Judiciary subcommittee yesterday he thinks former Presidents should become Senators-at-large, with the privilege of debating and consulting, but without having the right to vote.

Chelf's point: Presidents have had experiences that are invaluable to this country, but the moment they leave office we have no way in which we can satisfactorily use them.

This is an excellent time to act on his bill, Chelf believes, when there are two former Presidents, one a Democrat, the other a Republican.

Financing Bill Passed.

The Senate passed and sent to the House yesterday a bill authorizing United States membership in a new international lending organization for the free world. The measure would place this government in the International Finance Corp., which is being established to participate jointly with private investors in loans too risky to qualify for loans from the World Bank.

The U.S. share of the $100,000,000 revolving fund would be $35,168,000. The State Department, urging approval of the measure, had termed IFC an experiment which could bring far-reaching civil war benefits by encouraging Western capital investments in underdeveloped areas and thus strengthening the free world.

By the United Press

House Democrats handling highway legislation have agreed tentatively on a 47 billion dollar 12-year road-building program. Their proposal is more in line with President Eisenhower's recommendations than a Democratic-sponsored program already approved by the Senate. Mr. Eisenhower had asked for a 10-year 39 billion dollar program. The Senate passed a five-year 18 billion dollar plan.

The Senate passed a $27,166,300 appropriation bill yesterday to pay the President, run the executive office, and finance small government agencies in the coming year. The bill, approved by a voice vote without debate, provides $9,747,700 for the executive office of the President. The Senate-approved bill is $5,275,600 more than appropriated by the House and $1,611,400 less than requested by the Administration.

EX-TREASURY AID TESTIFIES AGAIN IN U.S. TAX INQUIRY

Edward Foley, former Under Secretary of the Treasury, continued his testimony Wednesday before the federal grand jury investigating tax scandals in the Truman Administration.

Chief purpose of the inquiry is to learn who was responsible for efforts to whitewash early phases of an investigation into the activities of former Collector of Internal Revenue James P. Finnegan, who last week was released from federal prison after serving 18 months of a two-year sentence for misconduct in office.

Testifying Tuesday were two former officials making their first appearance before the grand jury. They were Charles Murphy, a Washington lawyer, who was special counsel for former President Harry S. Truman, and H. G. Morison, also a Washington attorney, a former assistant Attorney General. The jury plans to hear additional witnesses Thursday.

2 CHARGED WITH POISONED LIQUOR DEATHS OF 6 IN BAR

NEW YORK, June 22 (UP)—Police today charged the woman operator of a Harlem bootleg bar and a restaurant keeper who supplied her with four gallons of wood alcohol with killing six persons with poisoned liquor.

The only survivor of a seven-man drinking party, a brother of one of the dead men, told police he had taken only one drink because he had to meet his wife.

Mrs. Madeline Robinson, 43 years old, known also as "Punch," and Fred Dalton, 55, who operates a Harlem restaurant, were arrested. Both are Negroes, as were the other men who died. Police said Mrs. Robinson's "juice joint"—an informal bar selling 50-cent-a-pint liquor—in the heart of Harlem had been closed by police in March. She re-opened on June 8, Detective Lt. Thomas McCabe said, and the seven men came around to celebrate June 11.

CANADA'S PAPER MILLS SIGN NEW CONTRACTS WITH UNIONS

MONTREAL, June 22 (UP)—All but one of about 40 major pulp and paper mills from Manitoba to Newfoundland have signed new union contracts giving their employees pay raises of 5 per cent and other benefits, a union official said today.
Marcel Franck, a spokesman for the AFL Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, said the final pact was expected to be completed soon with the Baie Comeau (Que.) mill of the Ontario Paper Co.

30 Non-Communist Newsmen In Russia Now, More on the Way

MOSCOW, June 22 (AP)—The Soviet Union is being visited by the largest number of non-Communist newsmen since the end of World War II, except for such special occasions as the foreign ministers conferences of 1945 and 1947.

The present total of about 30 will be boosted, in a few days to more than 40 with arrival of a group of Canadians.

In addition, Moscow and other parts of the U.S.S.R. virtually are crawling with foreign cultural and trade union delegations from both the East and West. This number will increase as the summer advances.

The permanent news corps of five United States correspondents, two Britons, two Frenchmen and one Italian has been boosted by the arrival of five additional American reporters on temporary visas.

COUNTY POLICE OFFICE PROPOSED IN CLAYTON HALL

Matthews to Ask Council to Lease Space in Masonic Lodge at $550 a Month.

St. Louis County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews proposed today that headquarters space for the county's new police department, scheduled to begin operations July 1, be in the Clayton Masonic Lodge Hall, 9 North Meramec av.

Matthews said he would ask the County Council, which meets this afternoon, to consider leasing the brick structure for a five-year period at a rental of $550 a month.

The proposed headquarters site, which has 4000 square feet of floor space and is northwest of the courthouse, has not been approved by the Board of Police Commissioners but the new superintendent, Albert E. DuBois, said it looked acceptable to him. Agreement on the Masonic hall as the headquarters site would solve one of several problems that face the county as the new police department prepares to begin its duties under a charter amendment.

Matthews and the County Council originally had planned that the police department would occupy ground-floor space in the new courthouse now occupied by the County Highway Department, which was to shift to offices of the Board of Election Commissioners in the old building.

The Board of Election Commissioners refused to move, however, and the county could not accept terms for rental of new election board offices in the 8000 block of Maryland avenue.

An appropriation of $247,667 for the police department's first six months of operation is expected to be voted by the council this afternoon, but the new department still is under a legal cloud pending clarification of its status by the Missouri Supreme Court.

Sheriff Arthur C. Mosley said today he would continue his law enforcement functions until the Supreme Court has ruled on a friendly suit challenging validity of the charter amendment setting up the new police department. DuBois, meanwhile, is proceeding with plans to take over July 1.

TWO BOMBINGS ON CYPRUS BY PRO-GREEK TERRORISTS

NICOSIA, Cyprus, June 22 (AP)—Pro-Greek Cypriots exploded bombs at two points on this British colonial island in the eastern Mediterranean last night. It was the second successive night of such attacks. One bomb, dropped in a police station mailbox in Nicosia, killed a Greek bystander and wounded 13 other persons—two Greeks, nine Turks, and two Armenians. The police station was damaged extensively.

A bomb explosion outside the home of a British brigadier did slight damage.

Pro-German's Body in Statue

Statue of Sir Winston Churchill which drew a reproachful remark from him after it was unveiled in London yesterday. The head is Churchill's but the body is that of author Gerald Hamilton, who was interned as pro-German in both world wars. He served as model, although he found it "a bit strange," when Churchill was too busy to pose for the 60-odd sittings sculptor Oscar Nemon required. "Couldn't they pick anyone else?" Churchill asked.

2 SUSPECTS TRAILED BY WOMAN, SEIZED

Pointed Out by Witness Who Followed Pair From Market Holdup.

Two men suspected of holding up a market at 3909 St. Ferdinand avenue shortly before 6 p.m. yesterday were arrested a few minutes later after a woman who saw the holdup pointed them out to police.

They said they were Albert A. Cole, of the 2700 block of Dayton street, and Wallace Martin, of the 1200 block of North Garrison avenue. Both are Negroes.

Mrs. Anne Kelley, a Negro, 4017 St. Ferdinand, was in the store when the robbers took $30 from the owner, Saul Slumsky, after displaying a revolver. She left before they did, and followed them after they came out.

A short distance from the store she stopped a boy and told him to tell Slumsky she was following the holdup men. The boy ran to the store, where police had arrived, and the suspects were arrested at Warren avenue and North Market street.

Police said Martin had Slumsky's wallet with $5 in it, and that Cole had $46, including two silver dollars the grocer said were taken from the cash register. Nearby, in a paper bag, the officers found a loaded revolver. Both denied the holdup.

REMARRIES HER EX-HUSBAND MARIE (THE BODY) McDONALD

HOLLYWOOD, June 22 (AP)—Actress Marie (The Body) McDonald has remarried her favorite allergy.

Her mother said yesterday that Miss McDonald phoned to say that she and her former husband, shoe manufacturer Harry Karl, were married a week ago in Yuma, Ariz.

After their Las Vegas, Nev., divorce last November, the actress said that she was allergic to Karl. "When I am with Harry I get sick," she said.

Twelve days later they decided to get married again. They tried five times in Europe and Africa but were blocked by technicalities. When they got back to Hollywood in January Marie said the wedding plans were all off.

'MARGARET SANGER STORY' IS PRESENTED TO LIBRARY

An autographed copy of "The Margaret Sanger Story," a biography of the woman who for years has strongly advocated birth control, was presented to the Central Public Library by the Planned Parenthood Association of St. Louis, it was announced today.

The book, by Lawrence Lader, is the life story of Margaret Sanger, who in her fight for adoption of birth control procedures was "abused, jailed and persecuted."

MOLOTOV GIVES ANOTHER 'VELVET' U.N. LUNCHEON

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov entertained six Middle Eastern and Asian delegates at luncheon yesterday at the sumptuous suburban estate he rented for the United Nations tenth birthday party. The guests were from Egypt, Indonesia, Iran, Syria, Pakistan and India. Molotov had entertained delegates of Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Sweden, Denmark and Luxembourg to day before.

Some of the delegates agreed Molotov's conduct was "velvet." The luncheon featured caviar from Moscow.

Molotov has daily lunches and dinners for U.N. delegates at the estate some 20 miles from the Opera House where the U.N. meets. The estate rent was reported to be $4000.

SETTLEMENT APPEARS NEAR IN BRITAIN'S DOCK STRIKES

LONDON, June 22 (UP)—Breaks appears today in Britain's two dock strikes and settlement seemed imminent in both.

London members of the National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers voted last night to return to work Monday. Dockers at Garston and Rochester were expected to return, too, and it was hoped that strikers at Liverpool, Manchester and Hull would follow.

The wildcat walkout of Cunard line crewmen was losing force, also. Strikers at Liverpool were reported signing up for work and a harbor official said all ships were being manned.

MANY CEYLONESE GIRLS HAVE 'ECLIPSE SICKNESS'

COLOMBO, June 22 (UP)—Scores of young Ceylonese girls, struck by "eclipse sickness" after drinking a "beauty potion," refused hospitalization today because they were ashamed to make themselves known.

Most of the girls were said to have received the so-called elixir from their boy friends.

More than 6000 persons were made sick by the "magic" potion suggested in a newspaper by a Hindu doctor. He suggested they drink the mixture during the total eclipse of the sun Monday to bring them beauty, wisdom, health and vitality.

HOT BONN DISPUTE
ON REICH ASSETS
ROW WITH AUSTRIA

BONN, June 22 (AP)—The quarrel between Austria and West Germany over settlement of the German assets question provoked an angry scene in the Bonn parliament yesterday.

Stung by criticism of the government's handling of the dispute, Chancellor Adenauer angrily retorted.

"Nowhere was Hitler received with such enthusiasm as in Vienna," he said.

This sally drew vigorous applause from his supporters and some criticism from Socialists. The recently signed Austrian state treaty provided that no German assets were to be returned except that individuals could be compensated up to $10,000. Cultural, charitable and religious properties were excepted.

This drew a quick official protest from the Adenauer government. The only West German diplomatic representative in Vienna, head of the trade mission, was recalled.

The parliamentary exchange was set off when Socialist Carlo Schmid attacked the government policy in Bundestag debate.

AT REPUBLIC STEEL

Still Chairman While President C. M. White Takes Over Direction.

CLEVELAND, June 22 (AP)—Tom M. Girdler stepped aside yesterday as the chief executive officer of Republic Steel Corp. and turned over that task to the firm's president, C. M. White. Although Girdler retained his title of board chairman, it was understood that White now would be at the active helm of Republic's management.

Girdler relinquished his duties as chief executive officer at a directors' meeting, and White immediately took over.

Girdler, short in physical stature, bold and direct in speech and action, often crossed swords with unions. He was one of labor's strongest opponents when the CIO was trying to organize steel workers in the so-called "Little Steel" strike in 1937.

He was quoted at that time as saying, "Before I sign a CIO contract, I'll go back on the farm and dig potatoes."

South Chicago Shooting. After a Memorial Day in which 10 strikers were killed and 60 wounded in South Chicago by city police and other struggles in Cleveland, Youngstown and Warren, O., Girdler contended:

"I was doing the best thing for my country when I fulfilled my obligation to the corporation."

John L. Lewis, then head of the CIO, blamed Girdler for the 10 deaths at South Chicago. Girdler blamed "CIO arrangement."

Girdler was an outspoken foe of the early New Deal. He declared that the New Deal destroyed confidence and held back long-term financing. He said one of his greatest dislikes was the impetus which the Roosevelt Administration gave to activities of organized labor.

Change in Sales Policy. As head of Republic, one of his early theories was that steel was no longer a standard commodity like wheat or coal. He launched Republic on a program of specialization centering largely around uses of steel in and around the home, such as in kitchenware. He directed Republic's advertising directly to the housewife.

Justifying his ideas, Republic turned a $3,450,000 loss in 1934 into a net profit of $4,450,000 the following year. The firm never has faltered since that.

Girdler, 78 years old, a country doctor's son born on a farm in Clarke county, Ind., has been board chairman of Republic ever since several independent steel companies in midwestern states were consolidated into the Republic Steel Corporation in 1929. From 1930 to 1937 he also served as Republic's president.

White, 64, became assistant vice president in charge of operations for Republic at its inception in 1930. He is the son of a lumberman and was born in Oakland in the Alleghenies of western Maryland.

CASE INVOLVING EX-OFFICER TO GO TO GRAND JURY AGAIN

The case of former University City patrolman Harry Schlewing, said to have admitted taking $22 March 20 from Giovanni's Fine Foods, 375 North Big Bend boulevard, University City, will be presented to the St. Louis county grand jury again tomorrow, Prosecuting Attorney Edward W. Garnholz said today.

Garnholz said the grand jury would be asked to reconsider the Schlewing case, on which it returned a no-trial bill yesterday in the court of Circuit Judge Franklin Ferriss. Garnholz said a new witness, not heard in the grand jury's previous consideration of the matter, had been found. The 30-year-old former police officer lives in the 6600 block of Bartmer avenue.

Police Chief Peter Gaffney of University City said Schlewing was dismissed from the police force immediately after admitting he took money from the cash register of the restaurant. No warrant was sought at the time because John Simcoe, operator of the establishment, refused to sign a complaint, police said.

MOLOTOV'S TALK WITH CALIFORNIAN
ENDS IN A TIE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22 (UPI)—The scene was a reception in the Mark Hopkins Hotel and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had just met California Attorney General Edmund G. Brown.

"You have too kind a face for a prosecutor," Molotov told Brown. "What political party do you belong to?"

"I'm a Democrat," said Brown. "The only top elective office held by a Democrat in this state is the attorney generalship."

"There isn't any difference between the two parties, is there?" Molotov asked.

"We think there is," Brown replied. "At some times, our unanimity may seem to show little difference, but there are many differences. . . . We especially believe in the party in power being subjected to constructive criticism from the party out of power."

"I don't want to be critical of your system, but we believe our system is the better."

"And we believe that our system is the better," Molotov retorted.

WHEN WHITFIELD GIVES ANSWERS

Congressional Group
Asks AEC Nominee
About His Handling
Of Bank Stock Sale.

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Senator Anderson (Dem., New Mexico), said today a hearing will be held on President Eisenhower's latest appointment to the Atomic Energy Commission as soon as the nominee replies to a series of questions.

The nomination of Allen Whitfield, Des Moines attorney, to be an AEC member has been pending for more than three months. It was sent to the Senate March 16.

Anderson, chairman of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, said in an interview that investigators have been busy in the meantime.

He said "hundreds of pages of material" had been accumulated by the investigators on a matter involving Whitfield which was called to the committee's attention and on which it wanted light before asking him to appear.

Bank Stock Sale.
This matter, the Senator said, concerns the Valley Bank and Trust Co. of Des Moines. Whitfield is a trustee of the estate of a partner who owned the bank's stock and the matter involves the sale of this stock.

Anderson said, without giving details, the committee chairman said he had been told that Whitfield wanted an opportunity to clear up issues in the matter.

A letter containing a number of questions therefore was sent to Whitfield, Anderson said, adding that when a reply is received a hearing will be scheduled on the nomination.

Efforts to reach Whitfield for comment were unsuccessful. The nine Senators on the joint committee, five Democrats and four Republicans, must pass on Whitfield's nomination, recommending to the Senate that it be confirmed or rejected.

Carmino Bellino, an accountant who has worked for the Senate Investigations subcommittee in various inquiries, has been hired by the Atomic Energy Committee to assist in the study of the Whitfield appointment.

Anderson said Bellino would help put into shape the material gathered by the investigators so that Whitfield could be cross-examined about it at the hearing.

The Iowa lawyer first was named by Mr. Eisenhower on March 16 to fill out an AEC term expiring June 30. That term appears certain to end before he could be confirmed.

Full 5-Year Term.
However, on April 1 the President submitted Whitfield's name for a full five-year term starting July 1.

Representative Price (Dem., Illinois), a member of the Atomic Energy Committee, said in a House speech March 28 that Whitfield was a "political appointee" and urged that the name be withdrawn.

Price said the appointment was made after Whitfield and another member of the Iowa State Republican Committee had urged that state be given more patronage recognition.

An AEC commissionership is one of "the most important posts in the country," Price said, adding that the agency should "not be used as a political dumping ground."

JAPANESE SABOTEUR'S
DEATH SENTENCE UPHeld

TOKYO, June 22 (AP)—In an 8-to-7 decision, Japan's Supreme Court today upheld a death sentence for Keisuke Takeuchi, leftist labor leader convicted of sabotage deaths in the country's 1949 rail strike crisis under American occupation.

Defense attorneys for Takeuchi, 34 years old, said they would ask the court to review its decision. About 500 Communists thronged around the court building although Takeuchi was not a party member.

Takeuchi was specifically accused of deliberately starting an unmanned train car in a runaway ride that killed six and injured 20 at the Mitaka freight yard in western Tokyo June 15, 1949.

Flashes of Life

It Strikes Twice.

WHITNEY POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Auggie Tappan was sitting in his home watching television, when an electrical storm broke. Lightning struck his house, damaged several timbers in the attic and blacked out his TV set. Two minutes later Tappan received a phone call informing him that a concession stand he owned, about 15 miles from his home, had been smashed by lightning and had blown away.

This Modern Age.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A visitor attending the American Association for the Advancement of Science meeting wondered why his tuna sandwich was taking so long to toast at the California Institute of Technology campus coffee shop. Mrs. Florence Lyall, manager of the shop, explained: "That darned atom smasher here saps all the electricity and slows down the electric toaster."

Can't Yell Back.

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP)—Otis Morley's power mower got away from him and went chugging across a highway all by itself. Morley said a motorist narrowly missed hitting the wandering mower, then reacted in the fashion of annoyed motorists around the globe. He honked his horn at it.

ARMS SURPLUS REPORTED IN SOUTH VIET NAM

Material Said to Total $100,000,000 — U.S. Believed to Be Shipping It to Pacific.

SAIGON, SOUTH VIET NAM, June 22 (AP) — The United States has uncovered a $100,000,000 surplus of its arms, equipment and munitions in South Viet Nam and is shipping it to American defense installations in the Pacific, usually reliable sources said tonight.

The mountain of military materiel is made up of guns, tanks, bombs, bullets, transportation and electronic equipment handed over to France in the last years of the Indo-China war. The continuing inventory of these contributions which reached a billion dollar a year peak toward the end of the war, has only scratched the surface so far. The surplus being reclaimed by the United States is moving from the port of Saigon to American bases in the Philippines, Formosa, South Korea and Japan.

So far $25,000,000 worth has been loaded into American-owned transport ships based in Japan and moved elsewhere.

After the huge inventory has been completed there still will remain enough military "hardware"—the arms and explosives needed in war—to supply the Viet Namese armed forces as well as those of the neighboring states of Cambodia and Laos.

The process of inventorying these American donated munitions and supplies is the chief job of the small military aid and advisory group under the direction of Lt. Gen. John O'Daniel, who also is responsible for the training and reorganization of the Viet Namese armed forces.

The reorganization program originally called for the reduction of the 217,000-man army to 100,000 by the end of this year. The Viet Namese now have asked the United States and France to revise that figure upward to 150,000 in view of the rapidly diminishing size of the French expeditionary corps and the need to absorb troops of the various private armies of the free south.

The private armies would have 30,000 men in the national army instead of the 20,000 first planned.

France has given up any responsibility for talks with the Communist Vietminh concerning next year's unification election in Viet Nam, an informed source said last night.

The French have told both the Vietminh and the International Armistice Control Commission, this source said, that free South Viet Nam is the sole authority able to discuss the question with the Vietminh of North Viet Nam.

Meanwhile, the Viet Namese national army announced it has successfully concluded operations against the rebel forces of the Hoa Hao religious sect in the far western part of the country. The fighting is now centered close to Hatten on the Gulf of Siam where the dissident leader, Gen. Ba Cut, was reported to be directing a last stand.

2 NORTH KOREANS WHO BOLTED MADE DECISION ALOFT

SEOUL, June 22 (AP)—South Korean air force sources said today the two North Korean flyers who landed an old Russian-built Yak fighter here made their quick decision to quit Communist Korea after they were airborne.

Republic of Korea air force sources said Capt. Lee On Yong, the Russian-trained pilot, proposed yesterday, "I've been wanting a real chance to desert. I think now is the time. What do you say?"

Lt. Lee Eun Sung, the navigator, agreed.

American and Korean intelligence officers still are questioning the two. A press conference has not yet been scheduled.

ROK sources said the two would be given "protection and special treatment in the ROK Air Force if they do desert."

WILEY AND 5 OTHERS URGE ADMITTING SPAIN INTO NATO

WASHINGTON, June 22 (UP)—Senator Wiley (Rep., Wisconsin) and five co-sponsors introduced a resolution yesterday calling for the admission of Spain to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Wiley, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, acknowledged that some European countries are vigorously opposed to adding Spain to the alliance because of past political differences with the Franco government.

But Wiley described Spain as a vigorous opponent of Communism and as "an indispensable defensive position in Europe." He said it has a tough army of 22 divisions which can be counted on to give a good account of itself if there is ever a showdown with Communism.

THOUSANDS SEEING ANTI-RED DISPLAY NEAR U.N. SESSION

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22 (AP)—Sponsors of an anti-Communist exhibit by Russian-American organizations in San Francisco said yesterday thousands of persons have been seeing the display daily.

The organizations, represented by "Crusade for Truth," have installed in a Market street location a series of photographs from behind the Iron Curtain. The exhibit is near the San Francisco Opera House, where the United Nations is in session.

The organization is distributing leaflets purporting to describe slave labor camps in Communist nations. Crusade for Truth charges that more than 15,000,000 persons are held in such camps.

CHURCHILL VISITS EDENS

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill dropped in today at No. 10 Downing street, his former official residence, and had lunch with the new tenants — Prime Minister and Lady Eden.

It was sort of a family party. Eden's wife is Churchill's niece. Also present was Miss Sally Churchill, niece of Lady Eden and a great-niece of Sir Winston.

Rhee Decorates Ferenbaugh. SEOUL, June 22 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Claude E. Ferenbaugh, retiring deputy commander of the Eighth Army in Korea, today received the military order of Merit, Taeguk, with silver star from President Rhee.

Dictograph Home Music System

149⁵⁰
COMPLETE

Check your savings! Prices if purchased separately:

Amplifier	100.00
Diamond Needle in the G-E Cartridge	25.00
Collaro Changer	50.00
Speaker separately enclosed	75.00
Cabinet Work	50.00
	300.00

The best hi-fi news ever for connoisseurs and hobbyists! This system is assembled, ready to plug in and play! Yet you save well over $100 in comparison to what it would cost you to assemble such a unit — and you save countless hours of work as well! Furthermore, from its diamond stylus to its separate speaker system, it's built to specifications by a great audio research laboratory — so you're in no danger of ending with component parts that don't match.

It's superb quality high fidelity! Hear your favorite music as it really sounds! Hear the rich notes of the cello, the clear singing of the violin, the lovely treble of the flute, as if they were being played right in the room! Notice how the instruments of an orchestra become sorted out, so you can distinguish each clearly!

An Outstanding Value at This Low Price! We haven't found anything at anywhere near this price, that can match the performance of the Dictograph system! The secret is the separately enclosed speaker. You can put the speaker where it will give the best acoustical results. Try it, for example, in different parts of the room, and at different heights. See what an amazing effect this has on sound quality. Furthermore (apartment dwellers and those with near neighbors note), you don't have to play this system at top volume; it "whispers down" beautifully!

The Diamond stylus outlasts 30 sapphires! The Dictograph system has a diamond stylus. It will give you 1500 hours of safe play! Compare this to the ordinary needle, which may gouge your valuable records after only 50 hours of play! You also get the famous G-E magnetic cartridge, used by the finest FM stations!

Dictograph Amplifier uses the famous Williamson-type circuit! This amplifier incorporates the noted Williamson-type circuit that's used in custom systems costing as much as $1000! It's powerful enough to operate TWO speaker systems simultaneously. It has separate bass and treble controls, and a record compensator that brings out the full quality of every make of record. The imported 3-speed record changer is made by a leading British precision manufacturer, and has a stylus pressure of less than 1/3 of an ounce, so that records get minimum wear!

Wired for FM, Tape and TV! You can build a complete home entertainment system around the Dictograph. The controls and connections already engineered into the unit make it a simple matter to connect an FM or AM tuner, a tape recorder, or the audio section of your television set!

Completely assembled, ready to play! There's not a single thing to do to your new Dictograph Home Music System. Just take it out of the carton, plug it in—and you're set for endless hours of the finest in music. There are no loose components for you to put together!

Attractively housed! The Dictograph system comes already housed in a sturdy wood cabinet and separate speaker enclosure, covered with an attractive leather-grained fabrikoid. Extra speakers available in three models.

Hear it at Famous' three stores now! Hear for yourself what a marvelous system this is! Now you can have the real thing in high fidelity at a budget price, instead of having to settle for phonographs that at best can only approximate high fidelity.

$1,433,000 BILL FOR LEGISLATIVE EXPENSES SIGNED

Donnelly Makes No Changes—Fund $158,000 More Than for This Biennium.

Post-Dispatch Jefferson City Correspondent.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 22.—The Missouri Legislature's appropriation of $1,433,000 for legislative salaries and other expenses in the two-year fiscal period beginning July 1 was approved yesterday afternoon by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly without change.

In keeping with virtually all other fund bills passed by the assembly in the somewhat stormy session terminated last May 31, the authorization for legislative pay and expenses for the pending new period is greater than the corresponding one for the current two-year period ending June 30.

The new appropriation is $158,000 more than the $1,275,000 appropriated for the 1953-1955 biennium, which included one regular and two special legislative sessions.

Specific legislative fund items in the $1,433,000 fund for 1955-1957 include $573,000 for salaries of members of the legislature for two years, $325,000 for contingent expenses of the state Senate, $500,000 for contingent expenses of the House, and $35,000 for joint expenses of the two houses.

$1500 Salaries.

The 157 House members and 24 Senate members receive salaries of $1500 a year, payable in monthly installments of $125 whether the legislature is in session or in adjournment.

Other items in the bill for activities related to the legislature, include $250,000 for the committee on legislative research, fact-finding agency for the legislature; $50,000 for publication of the 1955 statute supplement to the revised statutes of Missouri; $20,000 for expenses of the Missouri Commission on Interstate Co-operation, and $6000 for travel mileage of legislators during sessions.

Motor vehicles more than 25 years old, which are used only for exhibition and educational purposes, may be permanently licensed in Missouri for a $10 registration fee, under a bill signed by Gov. Donnelly.

The bill, effective Aug. 29, prescribes an eligible motor car must be one "owned solely as a collector's item." In the event of transfer of title by the owner, the permanent registration would be canceled by the state and the license plate recalled by the State Department of Revenue.

Vehicle Title Bill.

Another bill signed by the Governor authorizes the state to issue a certificate of title of ownership for motor vehicles and trailers which have been repossessed by a mortgage holder, either under terms of the sale contract or by legal action in court.

Donnelly approved a bill providing heavy penalties for an individual who maliciously and willfully administers poison to a dog. The bill adds dogs to the list of animals in an existing statute prohibiting poisoning of cattle, hogs, sheep, goats, horses, mules and other domestic animals or fowl.

Penalties under the act range upward from a fine of not less than $100 and a jail sentence of not less than three months, to a maximum of not more than three years in the penitentiary.

Other measures signed included bills to:

Pay state collector of revenue $8000 a year instead of $6000.

Give the commissioner of agriculture power to regulate the manufacture and sale of insecticides and other economic poisons.

Forest Croplands.

Raise the state grant paid in lieu of taxes on state owned forest cropland from 4 to 5 cents an acre and on privately owned land from 2 to 5 cents.

Provide a means of reorganizing school districts when a river shifts its course and splits a district, as the Missouri river did in Buchanan county.

Increase the pay of probate judges, in counties of 30,000 to 70,000 population to a new range of $4800 to $7800, depending on assessed valuation.

Increase the magistrate court fee on preliminary hearings in criminal cases from $2.50 to $5.

Increase the pay of magistrates to a new range of $4800 to $7200, depending on population.

Release From Jail.

Provide automatic discharge of county jail prisoners when they complete three-fourths of their sentences—same as the law covering penitentiary inmates.

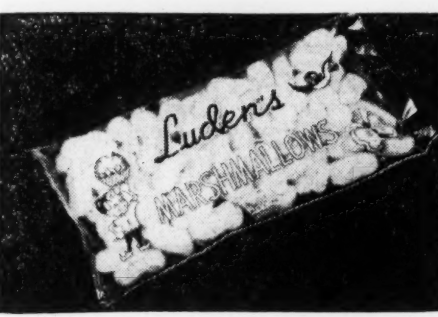

Let retired teachers do substitute teaching without endangering their retirement benefits.

Give jurors seven cents a mile instead of five and $3 instead of $1 for attending coroner's inquests.

Let first class cities levy 50 cents instead of 30 cents on each $100 assessed valuation for library, hospital, public health, recreation and museum purposes if a majority of the voters approve.

Allow railroads to pay executive and professional personnel monthly instead of semi-monthly.

GRANDMA GOING BACK TO MARINE TRAINING CAMP

Mrs. Jean Wells, who has five grandsons she hopes will become Marines, is setting them an example by going back to Marine training camp herself. As one of the country's 325 stenotypers taken into the Corps as "Marinettes" in World War I, she served in Washington from September 1918 to November 1919.

Mrs. Wells, of 416 South Gore avenue, Webster Groves, said she was "thrilled" yesterday when informed she had been made an honorary member of the St. Louis Women Marine Administrative Platoon for the San Diego (Calif.) summer camp July 9 to 23.

Although the Marinettes of World War I used to march around the foot of the Washington Monument for an hour a day, Mrs. Wells isn't going to volunteer for such duty at San Diego.

"I'll just do whatever they ask of me," she said.

BILL TO EXTEND VETERANS' HOUSING LOANS SIGNED

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower signed into law yesterday a bill extending and broadening the program of direct Government housing loans to war veterans.

The measure continues the program an extra two years to June 30, 1957, with new authority for loans to acquire or build farm homes as well as urban residences where other financing is not available.

KING FAISAL OF IRAQ FLYING TO TURKEY FOR STATE VISIT

BAGHDAD, June 22 (AP)—King Faisal II of Iraq flew to Beirut, Lebanon, today on the first leg of a journey to Turkey for a five-day state visit. The Turkish and Iraqi governments recently signed a mutual defense pact.

The young King, accompanied by his suite, was to board the royal yacht at Beirut for the rest of the trip.

After the state visit the young King will tour the Mediterranean, then visit in Switzerland, France and Britain until mid-October.

MOSCOW, June 22.

PRIME MINISTER NEHRU of India handled his multi-language press conference late yesterday like a veteran professional and made a speech in Hindustani at the Dynamo sports stadium where nearly every one of the 80,000 seats was taken.

The news of his press conference was that he had invited Prime Minister Bulganin of the Soviet Union to come to India, that the invitation had been accepted and that the trip probably would be made next winter.

Nehru has just completed a two-week, 12,000-mile trip through the Soviet Union, almost entirely by airplane and will leave tomorrow for Warsaw. He asserted that international tensions now are less than some months back, but said there are still some danger spots.

Praises Bandung Parley.

He praised the results of the Bandung conference which he said could not be weighed or measured and that the meeting of Asian and African representatives had had a healthy influence. He drew special attention to the declaration issued at the conference observing that it served as an example to others. Replying to questions, he said he had not discussed Soviet-Indian co-operation on the development of nuclear energy but added that the subject might come up in the future. He noted there would be an international conference in Geneva in August on the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

He was hopeful that the Big Four meeting of heads of governments would find ways to settle international problems but, like President Eisenhower, said this would be a gradual process.

Asked what specifically he would like to have discussed at the summit meeting, he hesitated before observing that any subject he discussed and that the Far Eastern situation needed attention as well as the European.

Appears Cautious.

He appeared cautious in answering questions put by Russian reporters on the amount of economic aid India expected to get from Russia, remarking that cultural, economic and trade contacts were valuable. He pointed out that Russian experts are now in India and that his country would pay for the Russian equipment it received.

Nehru said India is in the fourth year of its first five-year program to increase agricultural production and to install hydroelectric projects. The second five-year program, now being drawn up, would, he said, emphasize heavy industries.

The press conference was held in the marble-lined music room of what used to be called Spiridonovka palace, built by rich merchants before the Bolshevik revolution. It is now known as Foreign Office place on Alexievskii street. Averell Harriman, while ambassador to Russia, and other American officials conferred here frequently with the Russians during the war.

PLEA TO LET CHILD
IN U.S. APPEALS TO U.N.'S SPIRIT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22 (AP)—A department store sales clerk who fled from Europe in 1948 pleaded ardently by mail today with Czechoslovakia's foreign minister to let his motherless 10-year-old daughter join him in the United States.

Philipp Heller, 39 years old of Sacramento, came to San Francisco in hope of winning diplomatic backing from United Nations leaders to fulfill his wish. He found people sympathetic, but "awfully busy." He didn't see the Czech foreign minister, Vaclav David.

His letter tells the pathetic story: "Excellency—The United Nations is commemorating a great occasion—the tenth anniversary of the charter signing of the United Nations.

"My daughter is also 10 years old. But her mother, my first wife, died at Prague and my child was put in an orphanage. "Aren't you of the opinion that it would be in the spirit of today's United Nations celebration if your government would grant my daughter, Vera Anita Hellerova, an exit permit, so that she could live with her father?"

TWO MAU MAU 'GENERALS' CAPTURED WITHOUT A SHOT

NAIROBI, KENYA, June 22 (AP)—Police raided the suburban hideouts of two fugitive Mau Mau "generals" yesterday and captured them without a shot.

An announcement in Nairobi said the anti-white leaders, Generals Chotara and Mumbo, were arrested within two hours of each other in Indian homes at Parklands. They fled from Manyani detention camp 100 miles from Mombasa on May 8 after climbing the electric fence on a water hose stolen from a police truck.

How Far to Go and How to Bargain With Russia
At 'Summit' Are Critical Problems for the WestMoscow's Objectives Are in Areas Where Big Three Can't
Yield.By GEORGE H. HALL
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22. S THE GENEVA Big Four "summit" conference approaches, the West faces the critical problem of deciding how far it can go toward meeting possible Russian demands without giving up or weakening its own fundamental position.

It is felt that over-all Soviet policy is directed toward two goals—the breakup of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the withdrawal of the New World (the United States and Canada) from the Old (Europe).

The West cannot grant major concessions in either of these areas but still must try to devise plans that will alleviate Soviet anxieties.

The key to the situation is considered to be Germany, for which the Russians are proposing a neutrality that has been rejected by the United States.

Germany, western diplomats insist, must be kept inside the western system for the future protection of the world. It is necessary, therefore, to invent long-range plans for Germany because, while West German Chancellor Adenauer is a staunch friend of the West, he will one day pass from the scene.

It is not likely these problems will be solved in four or five days of meeting at Geneva starting July 18.

Immediate Objective.

What is now hoped, after meetings here of the Big Four foreign ministers—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan, French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay and Soviet Foreign Minister M. V. Molotov—is that a system of diplomacy will be re-established.

The western Big Three do not know for a certainty whether the Russians really want to get down to business. They have noted the small relaxation on the part of the Russian delegates of the tenth anniversary session of the United Nations. They feel there is something in the air, but they still ask, "Is this reality?"

The conclusion reached by diplomatic observers is that the Russians hope to transact some business at Geneva but that they have not made up their minds exactly what they want. They appear to be pursuing two or three policies but have not decided just where to make a stand. They are feeling out the West just as the West is trying to feel out the Russians.

This will make the Geneva talks an extremely difficult assignment for the western Big Three heads of government—President Eisenhower, Premier Faure of France and Prime Minister Eden of Britain—as they confer with Premier Bulganin of Soviet Russia. The conference will be a sparring and a feeling-for-advantage, and a search to find out whether machinery for peaceful settlements can be set in motion.

Far East Problems.

The West will concentrate on Europe and disarmament but

Women in mink wraps offer contrast to sober appearance of FOREIGN MINISTER V. M. MOLOTOV of Russia and an aid at reception marking tenth anniversary of the United Nations at San Francisco last night. Invitations specified formal attire, but Molotov and his group came in familiar dark business suits with plain ties. They arrived more than an hour late and remained for only a few minutes, but in those few minutes Molotov was treated like a movie star, almost mobbed by the crowd of political and social notables eager for a close look at him.

there seems to be little doubt that Far Eastern questions will be brought up by the Russians. One reason is the unique relationship that exists between Soviet Russia and Communist China.

In the century before the first world war the British built up an enormous exportable surplus and made their weight felt around the globe. The United States now is the nation with the great exportable surplus. The Russians have no exportable surplus with which to industrialize China and supply it with war materials, so there is an assumption that the Soviets genuinely desire a period of peace in which to perfect the China relationship.

The Western Big Three are determined to stand together should the Russians attempt to divide the world over questions involving Red China and a relaxation of tensions in the Far East. The British have recognized Red China diplomatically, the United States has not; British and American Asian policies are often in conflict.

It is not known, of course, how far the Russians may try to press consideration of Asian affairs but it is thought significant that when Moscow accepted the Western invitation to the Geneva meeting the Russians did not demand inclusion of China questions. Such a demand probably would have killed the conference, and the fact that it was not made is one reason the West thinks the Russians may be in earnest.

A further reason for crediting the Russians with sincerity is the possibility that the Soviets are alive to the menace of the hydrogen bomb. One opinion is that the Russians felt they could absorb 50 or so atom bombs and several million deaths because of the vast size of Russia. But now, because of the great scope of destruction that can be wrought by the hydrogen bomb, Russia is no more secure than smaller concentrations of power.

Diplomats describe what is likely to occur at Geneva as a process of definition rather than negotiation. If there are down-to-earth conversations, however, each side will get an idea of what the other wants. It is hoped that in the course of general talks someone will say something that will lead to productive discussions.

The situation was put somewhat in this way by one source:

"What inducements might be offered to Soviet Russia, for example, for a withdrawal from East Germany? It would not be necessary for the West to lay a plan on the table, but it would be important to have at least hypothetical plans in mind so they could be raised in the process of feeling about. Much thought, in fact, is being given to the East German problem.

Bargaining Methods.

If the West had a precise plan to get Russia out of East Germany, there still would remain the problem of tactics. Keeping in mind the Russians are Oriental bargainers, should the West start with its plan or try to finish with it? Should the West, for example, bid for $200 expecting to get $80, or start with $80 and expect to end up with $200?

After two or three days of diplomatic give and take and the discussion "without prejudice" of various hypothetical plans, it should be possible to tell whether the meeting is likely to be fruitful. If both sides spend their time in campaign oratory, then the Geneva conference will be a failure.

One problem that may be decided is whether to bring in other countries for further talks, or whether subcommittees should be set up for additional studies. If the Geneva meetings are successful the hope is that there will be an adjournment and another gathering of the Big Four

STOCKHOLM, June 22.

A S A MODEL of neutrality, Sweden has in recent years been bending over backward to prove that it is not allied with either side in the struggle between East and West. It is a posture difficult to maintain with the armed might of Soviet Russia so close at hand and with Sweden's neighbors on the north and south, Norway and Denmark, both partners in the North Atlantic alliance, but the Swedes have worked hard at their neutrality with the earnestness and the remarkable capacity for organization typical of everything they undertake.

When Andrei Gromyko, deputy Minister for Foreign Affairs in the Soviet Union, recently visited Stockholm to congratulate Sweden on its neutrality and, according to some sources, to suggest that it might be helpful if the Swedes were to start recruiting other members for a neutral belt, the Stockholm government was slightly miffed. Gromyko was politely informed that Sweden had its own brand of neutrality which was independent of either side in the cold war.

For many months after the NATO alliance was formed six years ago, great pressure was applied to bring Sweden into the largest population and the most advanced industry in Scandinavia, into the Western bloc. Those efforts were strenuously resisted, many Swedes offering as an explanation the need to stand by Finland which had suffered heavy losses under the peace imposed by Russia. The theory was that with Sweden in NATO Finland would be left alone at the mercy of the Soviets.

Stubborn Neutrality.

Sweden's stubborn neutrality has been particularly resented by military planners who have looked enviously at a military establishment which is far greater than anything else in Northern Europe. The Swedish Air Force is still judged fourth in size in the world, coming after the United States, Russia and Great Britain. France, with planes supplied from America, is a close rival.

What is even more remarkable is that this military force is largely sustained by Sweden's own industry. The twenty fighter groups in the Swedish Air Force are equipped with the J-29, a jet fighter made in Sweden which is considered equivalent to the F-86 and the MIG-15. A new trans-sonic jet fighter, the Lance, is now in production to replace the J-29. Some planes and Centurion tanks have been bought from Britain.

This is a rather remarkable record for a country of some 7,000,000 people. Sweden's atomic program is also being rapidly advanced. One experimental atomic reactor judged of excellent design is already in operation, a second with a power potential of 20,000 kilowatts is being built and a third large enough to have commercial value has been approved. This development is in accord with careful studies showing that waterpower resources will be fully exploited by 1970 and therefore atomic sources of power must be ready.

It is this meticulous planning, along with Sweden's neutrality, that is intensely irritating to apostles of free enterprise. The Labor party, now in coalition with the Farmer party, has governed for more than 20 years. They have continued to push welfare measures with compulsory health service on the British pattern of free enterprise. With booming prosperity—full employment and even over-employment—the Government's fiscal experts are trying to damp down inflation with more restrictive credit policies. If they are able to sustain this level of prosperity, and they believe they can, they will wage next year's elections on the theme of prosperity and peace and do not risk a change. It worked for the Conservatives in England and

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

As to the China Lobby

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Your issue of June 8 has a two-column article headed: "Kohlberg Sues to Force Treasury to Ease Bar on Red China Goods."

The first paragraph of the story then says that I am "seeking to break down regulations aimed at keeping goods manufactured in Communist China off the American market."

Both the headline and the statement are untrue, as the rest of the story in the Post-Dispatch would make clear to anyone who read it carefully.

The trade papers carried the story straight, but I. F. Stone's Weekly, published in Washington, under the date of June 6, devoted its whole back page to the item under the heading: "Exclusive: China Lobbyist Hoist on His Own Petard. Kohlberg Complains Rules Against Red China Trade Unfair." This is not quite as inaccurate as the Post-Dispatch headline, but the article in Mr. Stone's Weekly is more accurate as to the facts.

Mr. I. F. Stone was the author of a book entitled: "The Korean War" in which he made the charge that the Americans were guilty of germ warfare. I did not read his book, and therefore do not know whether he was referring to the kind of warfare the St. Louis Post-Dispatch has been carrying on against me since 1949.

Maybe the Post-Dispatch could learn from I. F. Stone.

No Fences for Ike

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Ike doesn't want a second term because, like any other intelligent human being, he doesn't enjoy being fenced in, as one would cage an ape at a street carnival. Nor does he enjoy being pelted with sticks and stones by a band of cheap gag writers, and cartoonists.

Menace of Moline Creek

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

As the hot days of the summer are approaching, I wish to again call your attention to the drainage ditch, formerly known as Moline creek and also known as Rat creek, on River-view boulevard at Edna street, City Block 6311, where it drains into the unprotected five-foot opening of Moline creek sewer.

Repeatedly, attention has been called to the danger of the large rats running in the sewer opening in Hathaway Hills into the open ditch draining into the Moline creek sewer, also to the terrific odor during the hot summer days emanating from the opening in the Moline creek sewer.

On Oct. 20, 1952, the Division of Health, Department of Health, advised as follows: "This ditch is not only unsightly, but is a breeding ground for mosquitoes and rats and a safety hazard to the children of the area."

It was again condemned in 1954. A sad mistake was made by those in command when they permitted Hathaway Hills to run a sanitation sewer through this creek and did not require provision of a flood-water sewer.

When I gave the City of St. Louis the easement, it was understood that the Hathaway Hills folks would provide a combination sanitation and flood-water sewer from the city limits into the Moline creek sewer. However, the present condition was a result of a sad mistake.

This is the fourth year that I have endeavored to have the city correct this positive nuisance condemned by one of its own departments.

Basic Cause of the Trouble

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

If one out of 15 men in the Armed Forces, or 247,000 men, were subject to courts-martial, it would seem necessary that some "substantial revision" be made somewhere. The fault lies not in the Uniform Code of Military Justice but in the basic nature of the armed forces.

These Senatorial Funds

A new senatorial "expense fund" has been disclosed, and another United States Senator, all innocence and bland self-justification, has defended his use of the device.

This time it is Senator Prescott Bush of Connecticut who is revealed as having accepted a $25,000 fund, subscribed by friends and others, and used principally to finance publicity for the Senator between election campaigns. Like Vice President Nixon, who defended his own $18,000 fund when it became a 1952 campaign issue, Senator Bush professes to see nothing wrong in this kind of political financing.

Senator Bush's fund can be considered calmly, free of the emotions that surrounded the Nixon disclosure. So considered, his conduct seems to us reprehensible, for several reasons.

Funds like this are usually secret, or at least poorly publicized, until some enterprising newsman digs them out. Thus, they violate the spirit of corrupt practices legislation which is meant to expose political contributions to public view.

It is usually said that contributions between elections are different from campaign contributions. Maybe so. But it seems to us that a fund got up between elections is if anything less defensible than a campaign fund.

The purpose of the latter is clear and within limits legitimate—to pay for the unavoidable costs of running for office. Its beneficiary is a candidate, not a public official. But when the purpose is to pay for expenses incurred while a Senator is in office, the contributors to the fund are in effect investing in a public official who belongs not to them but to his constituency.

Senators are paid a salary, and granted liberal expense allowances, on the theory that their work as legislators is a proper public charge. If they accept additional funds from private sources for their personal or political benefit while in office, they are in effect selling what ought not to be for sale—selling a piece of their position, standing and influence as members of the United States Senate—and doing so even if none of the contributors to the fund receives a direct and personal favor in exchange.

"They are the kind of people who are willing to contribute to get the kind of government in Washington they believe in," said Senator Bush of the subscribers to his fund.

We do not doubt it. On the other hand, the kind of government which any group or any individual believes in is something that ought not to be purchasable by a contribution to a Senator's personal expense fund.

Gov. Stevenson, while in office at Springfield, had a personal fund which has been erroneously equated with the Bush-Nixon type of fund. The differences were that Gov. Stevenson did not know who the contributors were, and that he used the fund not for personal political purposes but to supplement state salaries of certain appointees.

Nevertheless the principle was bad. Public officials should get their public compensation from the public treasury and from that source only. They may properly accept fees for lectures or writings or law practice or other personal professional services. But in their capacity as Senators and public officials they should not be financed in any respect by private interests.

In 1927, the United States Senate twice refused a seat to Frank L. Smith of Illinois, who had accepted $125,000 from Samuel Insull for his campaign. What the Senate said about that campaign contribution holds doubly true, we think, for contributions made not to a candidate but to a Senator:

"... contrary to sound public policy, harmful to the dignity and honor of the Senate, dangerous to the perpetuity of free government."

Ice Cream, Flavors Wild

It's an open question whether there are more colors in automobiles or flavors in ice cream these days. One firm reports 100 flavors for ice cream in stock, among them Dutch apple, cranberry, Dutch spiced raisin, banana puree and peanut butter swirl. At this rate, tasting like ice cream would mean tasting like almost anything. The rather un-ice-cream-like flavors mentioned are presently the darlings of the moppet set.

As with politics, a taste in neckties and other adjuncts of living, however, so it is with ice cream, that childhood's radical ages into adulthood's conservative. Regardless of how much peanut-butter-flavored ice cream he may have taken on, the youngster grows up to prefer vanilla first and chocolate second, like his parents and grandparents before him.

We think this speaks well for the steadiness of the race upon its course, which is not to be deflected by either a cone of banana puree or a sundae of Dutch spiced raisin.

Four Minutes Is a Long Time

Former President Harry Truman came to St. Louis for the dinner of the Communication Workers of America. He was given about $10,000 for his library and a four-minute ovation. And we have a notion that the ovation was more warming than the check.

A stop-watch man knows that four minutes is a long time—long enough to run a mile nowadays. We had almost come to the belief that palms had grown too soft for four minutes of handclapping—try yours and see—when we heard about this applause for Mr. Truman.

It is gratifying to know that the old American vigor has not abated—and even more gratifying to know that there is still appreciation for a man who has served his nation in its most difficult office—instead of just abuse and criticism and blame because he did not manage to please all the people on all the issues all the time.

An Early Start a Good Start

Strictly speaking, it may make no great difference just when and in what order the recently approved bond issue projects are undertaken—just so long as all are completed in due course and with regard for the pledge that they shall not involve more than a 5-cent tax increase.

Yet it is good psychology—and good public service—for the Citizens' Supervisory Committee to announce that contracts for a fair number of these improvements will be signed by the first of next year. It will be even better to get dirt flying where people can see it.

Paving the Rock Island right-of-way to connect with Millbrook boulevard, for example, or starting the Art Museum addition, building the Spring avenue viaduct, illuminating park playing fields and changing the street lighting on such thoroughfares as Lindell, Grand, Manchester, Gravois and Natural Bridge will be heartening signs to thousands and thousands of St. Louisans that no time is being lost in getting on with the municipal improvements they have authorized. Each contract signed, each project started is an earnest that the remaining work will be brought into hand with promptness.

This is not said to suggest any doubt about eventual completion of this great undertaking. It is rather a compliment on avoiding that delay which can be so discouraging in a municipal rehabilitation. We in St. Louis have in the riverfront an example of how delay can deaden the enthusiasm for improvement.

The citizens gave their approval to these bond issue projects with alacrity. Getting the work under way with a similar alacrity can contribute to a high spirit of civic revival which may well run beyond the program now on the books. It can quicken the desire for even greater progress.

When Mrs. Hobby Found Out

Secretary Hobby's discovery that she was not legally responsible for the Government's actions on Salk polio vaccine comes very late indeed.

Back in mid-April, when plans for distribution of the vaccine were being made, many a word was said about the responsibility being Surgeon General Scheele's instead of Mrs. Hobby's.

It was Mrs. Hobby, in those days, who posed for photographers signing the official orders licensing production and distribution of the vaccine. It was Mrs. Hobby who spoke a few well chosen words for press and newsreels. And not one of those words, as we recall, suggested that Dr. Scheele rather than Mrs. Hobby was officially in charge.

During that first rosy week, when excitement ran high and the headlines were forecasting vaccination of 57,000,000 Americans before mid-summer, the name of Dr. Scheele was still relatively unknown. When the White House announced that President Eisenhower had ordered a survey to assure fair supplies of vaccine for all sections of the country, it was Mrs. Hobby and not Dr. Scheele who was directed to make the survey.

So far as we know, Mrs. Hobby first announced that Dr. Scheele was legally responsible for the vaccine enterprise on June 20, when she was asked in a radio interview whether she had any apologies for the way the enterprise had been handled.

By that date, the project had become a fiasco. By that date, difficulties had turned up and the results of Government indecision and lack of advance planning had become plain for all to see. By that date, it was evident that relatively few children, instead of the millions so hopefully talked about in April, would get Salk protection against polio this year.

It was at this point that Mrs. Hobby, adding another remarkable episode to a remarkable record on polio vaccine, decided that the responsibility belonged on Dr. Scheele's shoulders.

Acting on Bad Advice

President Eisenhower has taken off from Washington on a six-day trip through Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine. The Associated Press reports that in addition to making several speeches, the purpose of the trip is to enable the President to promote Republican party harmony and to get in some fishing.

Not state pride but simple honesty requires us to note for the record that Mr. Eisenhower could have made a much better choice of area as the object of his current attention. Surely there is no party disharmony in rock-ribbed Upper New England that comes even close to the donnybrook raging these many months in the G.O.P. top command right here in Missouri. And as for fishing, who ever before thought that all the angling in Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine put together equaled one float down the Current with its Ozark dawns, fried bass suppers and twilight campfires?

All we can say is that Mr. Eisenhower has just received about the poorest advice yet!

'As It Looks From Moscow'

We publish under the cartoon today a statement issued by the official Soviet news agency giving the Moscow viewpoint on the forthcoming Big Four conference.

Before anybody writes in to inform us that this statement contains self-serving Communist propaganda, we want to say that we know it. Why, then, is it published? For a simple and persuasive reason.

If there are going to be meaningful negotiations between the Western powers and the Soviet Union, and if those negotiations are to earn the public understanding which they deserve, it is essential for "our side" to know and appreciate the views of "their side." If there is to be an accommodation of views—and such there must be for peace—it can come only by adjustment on both sides. And to understand what compromises can be made without sacrifice of principle, the people must comprehend the issues and the position that each side takes.

Of course there is propaganda in the Tass statement. But along with propaganda there is a point of view which, though we may not agree with it, must be fully understood by conscientious citizens who want to understand the Big Four negotiations. This is why we publish "As It Looks From Moscow."

Excellent Work in Illinois

The people of Illinois can be proud of two votes in their House of Representatives. One defeated outright a bill to set up an official state board to censor school textbooks. The other vote had one of the Broyles bills beaten until the rollcall was stopped in an effort to keep the so-called anti-subversion measures alive.

Madison county's first-term Representative, Paul Simon of Troy, summarized the argument against the American Legion-supported bill to set up a commission under the State Superintendent of Instruction for "evaluating school books for content antagonistic to American ideals and principles." As he said: "No one wants Communist textbooks in our schools but in essence this bill is censorship and would restrict the free flow of ideas."

Only 45 members voted to fall in with this patently dangerous scheme. Almost twice as many, 77, had the sound judgment to vote No.

The perennial Broyles bill to require loyalty oaths of everybody and his brother in public employment, including school teachers, was about to fall short of the number of votes required for passage. In a maneuver sponsors stopped the rollcall and postponed the final outcome in the hope of winning meantime enough votes to put it over. A second Broyles bill, which seeks to duplicate dubious legislation passed by the last Congress and as yet untested, was not called up in view of the House's unfriendly reception of the first.

The Broyles bills have been up at Springfield four times in eight years. They failed to pass in 1949. They were vetoed by Adlai E. Stevenson in 1951. They were vetoed by Gov. Stratton in 1953. Now they have had a cold shoulder turned on them again. It should stay cold enough to freeze them out for once and all.

POLITICAL PARALYSIS INSIDE

As It Looks from Moscow

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Official Soviet news agency replies to Dulles's remarks on Big Four conference by denouncing 'conditions' for negotiation; resists discussion of Eastern Europe or activities of world Communism; charges these questions are a diversion from real issues.

A Statement by Tass, Soviet News Agency

The following article is from the official Russian news agency, Tass, and is reprinted here to show our readers something of the perspective from which the Soviet Union looks at world affairs.

Mr. Dulles, United States Secretary of State, made the other day a statement to the press regarding the forthcoming conference of the heads of governments of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France. That statement contains an allegation that the success of the conference will depend primarily on whether or not the Soviet Union is willing to put a "new constructive spirit" into the solution of international problems.

Mr. Dulles tried to cast doubt on the earnestness of the Soviet Government's intentions with regard to this conference. In his statement, Mr. Dulles also said that the United States intended to bring up for discussion at the conference such questions as "the problem of the countries of Eastern Europe" and the "activities of international Communism."

In connection with this the following has been stated in authoritative Soviet circles: "Mr. Dulles's statement is a continuation of the same line which was pursued formerly in pronouncements of the leaders of the United States and the insolency of which has already demonstrated in the note of the Soviet Government to the United States Government of May 26, 1955."

Approaching the forthcoming conference of the heads of governments from the standpoint of the notorious "positions of strength" policy and seeking to depict the situation as though the success of the conference will primarily depend on the position of the Soviet Union, Mr. Dulles, as also some other American statesmen, thereby show that their efforts are aimed not at facilitating the work of the conference, but at raising obstacles.

Yet, the success of any international conference depends on the willingness of all its participants to facilitate the settlement of outstanding issues. The intention to face one of the parties with some kind of conditions for negotiation is absurd. With regard to the Soviet Union such methods, as in the past, cannot be successful.

Statements to the effect that the conference should discuss such questions as the problem of the countries of Eastern Europe or "the activities of international Communism" also can have nothing in common with the desire to achieve constructive results at the conference. It should be clear to all that no "problem of the countries of Eastern Europe" exists because the people of these countries, having overthrown the rule of the exploiters, have established in their countries a people's democratic government and will not allow anyone to interfere with their domestic affairs.

As for the question of the "activities of international Communism," it is permissible to ask how would Mr. Dulles regard the raising at the four power conference of the question of "activities of international Communism?"

Is it not clear that all these statements of Mr. Dulles cannot be considered otherwise than an attempt to divert the attention of the public from the really urgent problems of international affairs, such as reduction of national armaments and prohibition of atomic weapons, the establishment of a system of collective security in Europe, the safeguarding of peace and security in Asia and the Far East, the restoration of the rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations, etc.?

The new steps of the Soviet Union, taken by it with the object of easing international tension, have exerted a profound influence on the situation. These steps are the conclusion of a state treaty with Austria, the proposal of the Soviet Government on a reduction of armaments, the prohibition of atomic weapons and removal of the threat of another war, the Soviet-Yugoslav negotiations, which have resulted in the normalization and improvement of relations between the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia; the proposal for the establishment of diplomatic and trade relations between the Soviet Union and the (West) German Federal Republic, the negotiations with Japan.

All this has been a big contribution by the Soviet Union to confidence between states, strengthening peace.

If in these conditions the American leaders deem it suitable to stress that the United States has no intention to go to the conference of the heads of governments with any constructive proposals aimed at easing international tension, but expects some kind of "concessions" on the part of the Soviet Union, this merely shows that not all people like the reduction of international tension which started as a result of the Soviet Government's efforts. Some people would like to keep up this tension, expanding the arms drive, which is a heavy burden for the peoples.

As the Soviet Government repeatedly has stated, it holds that the task of the conference of the heads of the governments of the four powers is to lessen international tension, to promote confidence between states. Constructive results at the conference can be achieved if all the states concerned strive for such results, not in words but by deeds.

Toll Fight on the Blue Ridge Parkway

From The Asheville (N.C.) Citizen

The Citizen has gathered together some excerpts of editorial comment on Blue Ridge Parkway tolls from Western North Carolina newspapers. (The National Park Service proposes tolls, for maintenance, of $1 a car for 15 days or $2 annually.)

Almost to a man, the editors are opposed to taxing tourists on a scenic highway and thrice taxing North Carolinians who bought the land and bore their share of the cost of road construction.

All over North Carolina protests are rising against the toll scheme. State and local governments, civic clubs, chambers of commerce, community organizations and spokesmen for hefty blocks of public opinion are making themselves heard. The North Carolina and Virginia delegations in Congress are equally vocal.

Reasonable unanimity has been reached on these points: Tolls were not contemplated when Parkway rights-of-way were purchased by North Carolina.

The Park Service and the Interior Department are guilty of a breach of faith.

Tolls will hinder tourism.

The toll decision was made in Washington, not Roanoke or Richmond. Washington is far away. Will it hear North Carolina's pleas and protests?

Miracle and Mystery

VERDI: MIRACLE MAN OF OPERA. BY T. R. YBARRA. (Harcourt, Brace & Co., 312 pp., $4.75.)

Verdi continues to elude his biographers, as he hid from reporters during his lifetime. Although the central facts of his career are known and as a human being he was unaccompanied in a way that genius seldom is, he nevertheless never quite comes to life in the books about him.

This is true in spite of his mercurial vitality and a lifetime filled with incident. But he was a secretive man and the inner force and glow of his being remain a mystery. In his attempt to make Verdi plain, Franz Werfel made him the central character of a novel, called simply "Verdi," but this different approach to the problem wasn't successful, either. Werfel's preoccupation with the man and his supposed emotional involvements left little room for Verdi the composer—except for a false insistence on Verdi's acute awareness of walking in the shadow of Wagner.

On the other hand, Francis Toye—in "Giuseppe Verdi: His Life and Works"—places first emphasis on Verdi's music. Even so, his book is the best on Verdi and one can only account for the new, briefer biography by T. R. Ybarra, "Verdi: Miracle Man of Opera," as being intended for readers frightened by musical analysis and notation.

Ybarra, author of "Caruso: The Man of Naples and the Voice of Gold," presents the facts of Verdi's life in a straightforward, pedestrian manner and adds little to what others have written about this composer of 29 operas in 87 years. He does point up the element of rebellion in Verdi's early works.

Verdi, born in the village of Le Roncole in 1813, lived first under the French and then the Austrian occupation. Italians fiercely desiring independence responded to Verdi's operatic sparks of revolt. And Ybarra causes one to marvel again that a composer so many youthful failures should suddenly have created such rousing works as "Rigoletto," "Il Trovatore" and "La Traviata," and should then have grown and gone on to the supreme masterpieces, "Otello" and "Falstaff," in extreme old age. Precisely how all this came about remains Verdi's secret.

Brushy Bill's Claim

ALIAS BILLY THE KID, BY C. L. SONNICHSEN and William V. Morrison. (University of New Mexico Press, 134 pp., $4.)

When Billy the Kid stepped into the darkened bedroom of Pete Maxwell, a vague uneasiness seized him. "Quien es?" he demanded sharply and Sheriff Pat Garrett, hiding there, answered his query with a shot. The Kid felt dead with a bullet through his heart and at the same time a legend was born. Dirty little killer he may have been, but there was something about the Kid that stirred people's imaginations.

But did Billy die that fateful night of July 14, 1881, or was someone else the victim? Throughout the years rumor has persisted that Billy the Kid was still alive.

When Attorney William V. Morrison came upon evidence that Billy the Kid might still be living, he lost no time in getting to Texas to meet the man known as Brushy Bill Roberts. He interviewed Brushy Bill, went over the Kid's old stamping grounds with him, checked all the old legal documents in the case and finally became so convinced that Brushy Bill was Billy the Kid that he consented to represent the 81-year-old Roberts when he sought a pardon for his past crimes from the Governor of New Mexico.

All the arguments pro and con are contained in this book.

Relaxation Without Peace or War

BEFORE THE PARLEYS IN SAN FRANCISCO BEGAN, the frame within which the four Foreign Ministers are now working had become visible. For one thing they are no longer the big four: there are now eight powers which will take part as principals in at least some of the coming talks. They are, in addition to the Big Four of World War II, West Germany, Red China, Japan and India.

Dr. Adenauer made that very plain indeed for West Germany during his recent visit to this country. It has been evident for a long time that since the last winter—ever since we began talking through intermediaries with Mao Tse-tung, Japan is now negotiating directly with the Soviet Union for a peace treaty.

Adenauer

Within recent weeks it has become clear, I think, that all these principal powers are in basic agreement on three general propositions.

The first is that war, which now means thermo-nuclear war, is impossible, and that there is no alternative, if not to peace, as the President has said, then at least to the avoidance of war.

The second proposition is that while the great powers must not wage war, they cannot now make the concessions which would be needed if they were intending to settle the big issues.

The third proposition is that, unable to fight and unable to settle, they must nevertheless find ways to relax the more severe and dangerous of the tensions.

The Formosa Strait Formula.

At least in the West, this has not been the popular view, and Mr. Dulles, Dr. Adenauer and Mr. Macmillan have all shown much concern over the fact that what the public expects differs so much from what they think can and should be done in the coming talks.

The popular view is that in order to relax the tensions, it is necessary to settle the big issues—such as German reunification and Formosa. The official and, as it were, inside view is the reverse: that it may be possible, and that it is most desirable, to relax the tensions before the settlement of big issues can begin.

This is in fact the formula that is being used in the Formosa Strait—the place of highest tension between the two armed coalitions. There are very strong indications that variants of this formula will be used in the coming negotiations at Geneva and beyond.

There is, I submit, no doubt that the underlying cause of all the recent diplomatic activity is that the competition in armaments has come to a stalemate. War, and the threat of war, cannot under the existing conditions be used as an instrument of national policy.

Adenauer Would Wait.

Under the present conditions the fact that the principal powers cannot fight means also that they feel no compulsion to make big concessions in order to settle the big issues. What they want to talk about, what they are impelled by their interests and by their public opinion to talk about, is not settlement of the big issues, but ways of making it more certain that this stalemate, this cease-fire before hostilities, this pre-war armistice, will endure.

Enough has already been said by each of the principal powers to show that none is now ready for, that none now really expects or desires, to strike the bargain which would make for settlement.

This was made indisputably clear on the Western side during Dr. Adenauer's visit. He does not want—and the Western governments have agreed with him—to negotiate now for German reunification, and a German peace treaty.

Dulles Tactless, Provocative.

Even if we make allowances for the tactless and provocative way in which Secretary Dulles raised the vital issue of the satellite states, the Soviet reaction made it clear that they will not negotiate now about the military status of their satellites.

That does not mean that, following the affair with Tito, they will not themselves do something to alter the status of their satellites. But just as Dr. Adenauer has declared that his military arrangements are not negotiable, so also have the Russians declared that their arrangements are not negotiable. And yet, yet, all the powers are already engaged in negotiations. About what? About one may say, the little issues which exasperate people and provoke hatred without in fact having anything decisive to do with the big issues.

They are issues of the prisoners of war, of detained civilians, of the nuisances and the cruelties of the iron curtain, of the trade embargoes, of the aiming shooting in the Formosa Strait, of the fabricated accusations and of the propaganda of preventing war—the provocative deployment of armed forces, and all manner of sideshows of the cold war.

A general policy of negotiating the removal of the little issues fits the needs and the present political capacity of all concerned. They cannot and they will not now build a new and stately mansion of peace. But they can fix the room, they can remove the fire hazards, and they can repair the plumbing in their separate dwellings which they will be occupying for a long time to come.

JOB REHABILITATION FOR 2,000,000 URGED

One-Fifth of Them Need Comprehensive Aid, Therapist Officer Says.

There are about 2,000,000 Americans who need vocational rehabilitation in order to work in suitable jobs, it was reported today by the executive director of the American Physical Therapy Association, which is meeting in convention at Hotel Jefferson.

Miss Mildred Elson of New York City, who is also president of the World Confederation for Physical Therapy, said that one-fifth of these persons, about 400,000, need comprehensive rehabilitation services at specialized facilities.

Chronic disease accounts for 88 per cent of disabilities, she said. Other causes she listed were occupational accidents, 5 per cent; other accidents, 5 per cent; and "congenital conditions," 2 per cent.

Miss Elson said 61,308 persons were rehabilitated in jobs during 1953, earning $114,000,000. In the amount of federal income taxes they pay, she added, they make up in two and one-half years the total federal funds invested in rehabilitation work for 1953.

The figures were drawn from a compilation prepared by Eugene J. Taylor of New York, chairman of a special office of Defense Mobilization committee studying personnel shortages in fields associated with medicine. Taylor addressed the convention earlier in the week.

FRED CONWAY A FINALIST IN $10,000 MURAL CONTEST

Fred Conway, St. Louis muralist and advanced painting teacher at Washington University, is one of five leading American artists named today as finalists in a competition to design a United Nations building mural for which "not less than $10,000" will be paid. The mural is to be 14 feet high by 35 feet long.

For small sketches in all color, the National Council for United States Art, Inc., will pay Conway and his competitors $1000 each. Others in the contest are Stuart Davis and Jacob Lawrence, New York; Kenneth Callahan, Seattle, and Mitchell Jamieson, Herndon, Va. These were named finalists by a five-member jury of artists from a longer list submitted by the nation's museum directors.

Conway, painter of murals in the St. Louis area and throughout the country won the $31,000 Tulsa (Okla.) bank mural contest, largest of its kind to date, in 1951. He will leave St. Louis Tuesday or Wednesday, he said, to study again the United Nations building in New York before starting to work on his mural sketch.

MRS. FRANKLIN J. TRANNETT HEADS THETA SIGMA PHI

Mrs. Franklin J. Trannett, a radio-television script writer of Columbia, O., was elected president of Theta Sigma Phi, professional fraternity for women journalists, at its national convention at Hotel Chase today. The group voted yesterday to adopt a program for improving children's literature, and radio and television programs for young people. It announced it would address parents groups on the subject, distribute good books, work with legislative bodies and seek co-operation of publishers and sponsors to achieve this goal.

LLOYD STRYKER DIES, NOTED TRIAL LAWYER

Defender of Alger Hiss at First Trial Succumbs at 70 to Hemorrhage.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 22—Lloyd Paul Stryker, a trial lawyer of the old school, died yesterday at the age of 70 of a cerebral hemorrhage he had suffered Sunday.

In almost a half century at the bar, Mr. Stryker typified the trial lawyer of the popular imagination—a nimble wit, a keen knowledge of legal technicalities and laymen's reactions, resourcefulness in the face of courtroom emergencies and, above all, a gift of oratory that combined an almost Victorian courtesy with righteous indignation.

So flamboyant were his courtroom tactics in certain notorious cases that although the bulk of his large and successful practice was civil, his reputation was as a criminal lawyer.

Defended Hiss.

His most famous cases in recent years were the defense of Alger Hiss at his first trial, his defense of James J. Hines, former Tammany leader accused of protecting Dutch Schultz's policy racket and his defense of Brooklyn District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan.

His only public office came early and gave him sound trial experience. In 1910 Elihu Root got him an assistant district attorneyship under Charles Whitman, later Governor. During his two years in this post he lost his heart to the drama of the courtroom.

"A trial," he said once, "is still an ordeal by battle. For the broadsword there is the weight of evidence; for the battle-axe, the force of logic; for the spear, the blazing gleam of truth; for the rapier, the quick and flashing knife of wit."

While serving as an artillery officer in World War I he kept his hand in as defense counsel at countless courts-martial. A decade later he spurned the professorship of criminal law at Harvard to remain a lawyer.

Nominated By Coolidge. Although he was nominated to a federal judgeship in 1929 the Senate adjourned before confirming any of President Coolidge's nominees and Mr. Stryker did not again consider public office.

His cross-examination technique in his defense of district attorney Geoghan was so brilliant that it was inserted in Wellman's classic book on "The Art of Cross-Examination." His defense of Hines in two trials against then district attorney Thomas E. Dewey resulted in a mistrial at the first trial but a conviction after the second, a defeat Mr. Stryker considered his most bitter.

"Trying a case the second time," he remarked at the time, "is like eating yesterday morning's oatmeal."

His defense of Alger Hiss at the former state department employee's first trial for perjury was considered masterly and his four-and-a-half-hour summation, directed against the government's star witness, Whittaker Chambers, was acclaimed, as was his forthrightness in undertaking an admittedly unpopular defense. It resulted in a hung jury.

There was no explanation of Hiss's failure to retain Mr. Stryker for his second trial, which ended in his conviction.

97 Per. Victorious. Among the legal records he established was that of emerging victorious in 97 per cent of the more than 200 cases he argued as counsel for the New York State Medical Society.

Mr. Stryker wrote several books. These included "Andrew Johnson—A Study in Courage," published in 1929, a defense of Lincoln's successor.

In the course of writing this book, he so convinced himself of the sins of the Republicans that he left that party and became a Democrat.

In 1932 he wrote "Courts and Doctors," in 1947, "For the Defense," a biography of the 18th century English lawyer Thomas Erskine, and in 1954 "The Art of Advocacy," subtitled "A Plea for the Renaissance of the Trial Lawyer."

NEW AND FLOWERY OZARK TALE BASED ON ICE AGE THEORY

Ozarkers had scientific basis for another tall tale today. If strangers ask why wildflowers bloom there in greater variety than in northern Missouri, they can smile mysteriously and say the great ice sheet never reached the Ozarks.

The Ozarks were not flooded by continental seas and have not been invaded by glaciers for millions of years, Julian A. Steyermark writes in the current issue of the Missouri Botanical Garden Bulletin.

Steyermark, an honorary research associate of the garden and a former St. Louisan, made a field trip through Missouri late in April following his return from an expedition to Venezuela for the Chicago Museum of Natural History. He is curator of the museum's herbarium.

Both northern Missouri and the Ozarks are happy hunting grounds for wildflowers, Steyermark reported, but many Ozark plants are missing north of the Missouri river. Reason: they were destroyed by the ice sheet in Pleistocene times.

Contributions to the 1955 Jewish Federation Welfare Fund drive totaled $1,500,000, Samuel J. Bronstein, general chairman of the drive, announced last night at a meeting at Chase Hotel. Donations to the drive, which started in April, were $100,000 more than the amount collected last year.

Bronstein paid tribute to individual leaders and campaign workers, "without whom leadership would have been impossible." He said funds raised will be used to benefit 40 Jewish health and welfare agencies.

Plaques were presented to Bronstein and other men division chairmen and silver trays to women division chairmen. The awards were received by John M. Schoenberg, special gifts division; Herman B. Mayer, trades, industry and professions division; Sam Shalkewitz, metropolitan; Mrs. Wallace Kolbrenner, women's division; Mrs. Morris A. Shenger, women's initial gifts; Mrs. Arnold S. About 1300 drive workers attended the wind-up meeting and were entertained by a "command performance" of the musical "Hit the High C." Forty-five persons participated in the musical play, which was originally presented in May at a $100 a plate luncheon of the women's division.

Reports from a major portion of the Ozarks indicate a bountiful squirrel population. But bagging the bushytails when the season opens July 1 will be more difficult than it has been in many years. Abundant rainfall since early spring has made the difference. The foliage on the oak, gum, and hickory trees is dense and luxuriant. If it affords a hiding place for the squirrels that makes it almost impossible for them to be sighted from the ground. Only the experienced hunter will be able to find the animals once they become frightened and "freeze" in a thick cluster of leaves for long periods.

Favorite "tree dogs" will be accused by their masters of being bigger liars than some of Vance Randolph's mountaineer characters, when they insist that the squirrel they recently tracked on the ground went up the tree and is still cowering in its branches. Finally, the hunter will persuade the dog to move on to more fertile territory when the sharpest eyes fail to locate the quarry. Only persistence and patience will assure the hunter who uses a dog to locate the game, a full bag of most squirrels.

Most squirrel hunters in the Ozarks prefer to "still" hunt in the summer months when the leaves are heavy on the trees. A dog, especially one that barks when trailing, will alert every squirrel nearby and they will immediately leave the ground and ascend the largest and most luxuriant-leaved tree they can find. Expert "still" hunters silently move along through the woods and seldom make a sound when trailing. Their chances, they claim, are greatly enhanced by using this method.

Mulberries Are Gone.
The season formerly opened a month earlier than the present season, and mulberries are gone. Squirrels also are fond of blackberries which usually ripen about the opening of the season. A dense thicket of ripe blackberries, located near a woods, will often reward the hunter with a profitable hunt. The berries of the black gum tree also are a favorite food.

Hickory nuts and acorns furnish a major portion of the squirrel's diet. In late July and August the squirrels start cutting on hickory nuts. The experienced hunter hunts out every hickory tree in the scope of woods he is traveling and carefully examines the ground under the trees for "cuttings." These cuttings are the shells of the nuts that the squirrel has cut with its sharp incisors to get to the kernel, or meat, of the nut. When abundant cuttings are found the hunter should expect to find a likely spot in proximity to the tree and waits for the game to come to him. Acorn cuttings are seldom found in as great numbers as are the hickory nuts, but often an oak bearing a large number of acorns will produce almost as much game as the hickory.

Shotguns Predominate.
Time was, in the Ozarks, when a majority of the hunters used only rifles to bag the bushytails but, today, shotguns predominate. The expertise of the pioneer riflemen in accurately pinpointing their shots was a marvel to behold. The story is told of the venerable hunter who felt that he was wasting entirely too much meat if the bullet struck the squirrel in any part of the body other than the head. On one occasion, it was said, he bitterly complained because the pellet had missed the squirrel's eye after he had taken deliberate aim. He turned to his companion and said, "I'm goin' to whale the daylight out of some of the younguns when I get home; they've been messin' with my rifle sights again!"

Fox squirrels are usually easy targets for the riflemen but it takes a shotgun to bring down the elusive grays with any degree of certainty. In north Missouri, fox squirrels are often found in greater numbers than grays. In the lowlands the grays predominate. The grays are seldom still, and the most expert use a .22 caliber rifle on them. Usually the shotgun is used because of clean kills, and little game is wasted by using shot instead of a single bullet.

The ample rainfall has produced a huge population of ticks and chiggers, and a repellent is a "must" with the hunters who go afield. These insects are more abundant than they have been in many years. More shot is expended on squirrels in Missouri than on any game other than rabbits and quail. Mid-day hunting for squirrels produces little game. Early mornings at sunrise and late evenings at sunset are the favorite hours for the bushytails to be on the move.

Young squirrel, rolled lightly in flour and fried in bacon drippings is a delicious dish. Add to this a large bowl of "sawmill" cream gravy, complemented by feather-light fluffy biscuits, and you have a dish that will please the most exacting epicure. Whether it be fried squirrel, squirrel stew, or squirrel and dumplings, any of these dishes will take much of the sting out of the chigger bites acquired on the hunt.

Moore Makes 175-Lb. Limit; Olson 170¼ for Tonight's Fight

Archie 1-2 Favorite To Retain His Crown

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—Light rain fell in New York this afternoon at 3 p.m., accompanied by thunder, and the skies turned dark. The forecast for tonight is a chance of scattered showers, but there was no indication that a postponement is being considered for the Olson-Moore light heavyweight championship fight.

By W. J. McGoogan
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

NEW YORK, June 22—Archie Moore, light-heavyweight champion of the world, put an end to all speculation with regard to his weight for his fight tonight with Carl (Bobo) Olson, middleweight titleholder, when he stepped on the scales today and hit the 175-pound limit right on the head. Olson weighed 170¼ pounds.

Moore wore his trunks and a pair of socks, taking off his shoes before he weighed. Olson also wore socks and trunks. A physician representing Olson asked for permission of the New York Commission to give Olson oxygen between rounds but was refused. Dr. Mal Stevens, chairman of the medical advisory board, said Bobo could breathe the gas at the Polo Grounds where the 15-round match is to be held.

The price on Moore among the betters remained at 1 to 2 and was not expected to increase much, if any, by fight time. It was a hot humid day but the forecast was for clear weather tonight.

The International Boxing Club advised that the ticket sale had picked up somewhat and that a gate of about $200,000 was expected.

Archie has appeared to advantage in his training. He has proved himself sharp in his boxing and the only question in the minds of most fight followers has been whether he would be able to pare down from the 165½ he weighed for Nino Valdes in Las Vegas, Nev., on May 2 and remain strong. He has demonstrated that he can do this and there is hardly a doubt left in anybody's mind that he will be strong.

Archie Harder Puncher.
Moore is expected to prove just too much for 160-pound king, who is a busy, relentless fighter but without sufficient power to halt Moore. Archie can take him out with a punch in any round of the 15, although it is generally expected that the match will go the limit and the preponderance of opinion is that Moore will get the verdict.

Should he win, there is no question that he will get his wish to face Marciano in a September bout for the heavyweight crown. He has been promised this, tentatively, by Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club.

There is great interest in tonight's contest, seemingly everywhere but where it counts—at the box office. The apathy of the fans has been strange in the face of the fact the bout has been considered at least the second best match which could be arranged in the world today. The top one would be Marciano and Moore.

Television, of course, comes in for a share of the blame among boxing people who point out that the out-of-town ticket buyers are few indeed. So instead of a gate of $350,000, which had been anticipated when the bout was signed, the I.B.C. now thinks it will be lucky to reach $200,000 gross, which means about 25,000 people at seat prices of from $5 to $30, with general admissions going on sale today at $3.

There is also a fee of $100,000 for the television rights. Olson keeps throwing. And that brings it back to a contest between the two champions for Moore's title. And Olson has been told that if he beats Moore for the light-heavyweight crown, he will be forced to vacate his middleweight throne. Whether this can be made to stick is also something only the future will tell.

But the fight itself promises to be a humdinger. Olson is not a terrific puncher but he keeps an opponent working for three minutes of each round that the fight goes. This is regarded as his best asset against Moore, who is over 38 years old; Olson is only 26.

Archie has never been hit with punches like Moore throws and it is too much to expect that the smaller man can take that punishment and still have enough left to win.

Moore's Impressive Record.
Moore's record since he started as a professional in St. Louis, in 1936 is, of course, very impressive.

In 143 fights, Archie has won 119, 81 by knockouts, lost 19 and boxed five draws. He has been stopped three times and his current winning streak now numbers 20, starting after Dec. 10, 1951, the date he was last defeated.

And in the string is the one over Joey Maxim at the Arena in St. Louis, Dec. 17, 1952, when he won the 175-pound crown. He defended that last in August of 1954 when he knocked out Harold Johnson in the fourth round.

Olson, too, has a wonderful record. He started boxing pro-professionally in 1945. In 69 fights he has won 63, 30 by knockouts, and has lost six. He has been knocked out once, that time by Ray Robinson who was then in his prime as a middleweight. Robinson also handed Olson a defeat by decision and that was the last bout Bobo lost. He has won 21 straight since, winning the middleweight crown from Randy Turpin, Oct. 21, 1953 at Madison Square Garden.

Olson's three most recent bouts were over the middleweight limit. He defeated Ralph Tiger Joones, Joey Maxim and Willie Vaughan.

New York Scoring System.
The difference in ages is about the only physical asset which Olson will have. Moore is a bigger man all around than Bobo.

Moore is to receive 30 per cent of all net receipts and Olson 27½ per cent of the net, which probably will mean about $85,000 for Moore and about $80,000 for Olson. If so, that will represent the biggest payday for Moore in all his years in the ring.

"And after that the big ones," declares Archie.

Scoring will be under the New York rules which two judges and two judges scoring by rounds with a supplementary point system. And the majority opinion of the three officials determines the winner.

The winner of each round is given credit for that round. An even round is scored even. And the winner in each round gets credit for from one point to four.

If at the end of the match one boxer has won more rounds than the other, he gets the decision of the official. If neither has won a majority of the rounds, then the points are used and the one with the greater number of points wins on the card.

But it is the majority of the opinions of the three officials which gives credit for the winner and not the total number of rounds or points on the cards of the three.

Auto Racing Driver Is Sued for $100,000
PARIS, June 22 (AP)—A $100,000 lawsuit by the widow of one driver against another driver claiming he was responsible for her husband's death added a unique twist yesterday to one of the most tragic of all automobile racing seasons.

The law suit here was brought by the widow of Guy Mairesse, who was killed a year ago at Montherly track during a trial run, against a driver named Jean Gamot.

Mrs. Mairesse claims Gamot, driving a smaller car, refused to let Mairesse go by during a test run. Mairesse swung out to avoid Gamot, the suit claims, and overturned, killing himself and a girl spectator.

In his answer Gamot said no action can be taken against a race driver because "everybody accepts risks."

Woodling Says He'll Quit If Oriole Deal Is Canceled

BALTIMORE, Md., June 22 (UP)—Gene Woodling, traded to the Cleveland Indians last week, threatened today to "do what Billy Cox did" if he is sent back to the Baltimore Orioles.

A former teammate, Billy Cox, quit baseball last week after being traded from Baltimore to Cleveland.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick may have to settle the disposition of the trade which sent Woodling and Cox to Cleveland for Outfielders Wally Westlake and Dave Pope and cash. Manager Paul Richards of the Orioles refuses to pay the Indians the amount of money they demand in place of the retired Cox.

Asked if he would quit baseball completely if sent back to the Orioles, Woodling replied: "Well, I'll certainly take three weeks to a month to think it over."

Woodling said he is "tired of being pushed around."

"I've moved my family once and I'm not going to move them again," Woodling said. "I didn't mind playing for the Orioles before and I wouldn't mind playing for them again, but I've got my family to think about. I gave up one home there and I'm not going to look for another."

Richards said yesterday he would cancel the deal rather than give the Indians the amount of money asked by General Manager Hank Greenberg.

Jeanie Dobbin Loses In District Golf Play

By Robert Morrison
ALGONQUIN GOLF CLUB, June 22—Mrs. Lucien Fouke, a St. Louis Country Club golfer who has been a District semi-finalist twice in recent years, provided the current tournament with an upset today when she defeated Jeanie Dobbin, 2 and 1.

Miss Dobbin, who had won the Women's District crown three times in the past, was tripped up on a day when her chipping and putting performance was one of the worst she had experienced, she said.

Mrs. Fouke's victory, however, was well-earned with a four-over-par effort that saw her never down against the trim Norwood Hills girl. Miss Dobbin had been a finalist in four of the past five tournaments.

Mrs. Culver 8-6 Victor.
It was a quarterfinals day when St. Louis Country Club scored heavily. Mrs. Harrison Culver of that club, relatively inexperienced in the District competition, moved ahead with an 8- and 6-triumph over Mrs. Lester C. Haackel, Triple A.

This set up one semifinal match tomorrow between the Country Club women. The other semifinal will match the title-defending Marilyn Herpel Conroy, who defeated Mrs. J. M. Peterson, Sunset, 6 and 4, and Mrs. Ray Schwartz, Westborough, who won from Joan Greenberg, 5 and 4.

The defeat of the 17-year-old Miss Greenberg left the tournament without a youngster of potential winning ability.

Mrs. Conroy One Under.
Mrs. Conroy continued as the heavy tournament favorite with a one-under-women's-par performance against Mrs. Peterson. Mrs. Conroy was only 1 up after nine holes but she won all five holes on the back nine to close out the match.

Marilyn started that winning streak with a Birdie 4 on the No. 10 water hole. She was on green in 3 after carrying the lake with her second shot, where most women will play the percentage and not attempt that. She then made a four-foot putt for a 4 after an excellent approach.

Another birdie, a 3 on No. 11, where she was pin high to the right of the green and chipped within one foot, got her well started on the winning streak. She had three-putted twice going out but she also had holed out 20 and eight-foot birdie putts.

In the upset match of the day Mrs. Fouke and Miss Dobbin both believed the turning point came at the fourteenth hole. There, typically enough, Jeanie was short with a chip and Mrs. Fouke easily got down in 2 from the edge to win the hole.

Tee Shot Hits Trap.
That put Mrs. Fouke 2 up again and though she lost the fifteenth, she won the seventeenth to defeat Miss Dobbin. Jeanie trapped her tee shot on No. 17, hit across the green in getting out and took two more strokes to get down. Mrs. Fouke, on the fringe, chipped up and holed out her putt for the winning 2.

The match had been even at No. 9 and Mrs. Fouke won the eleventh and twelfth holes to go 2 up. She birdied No. 12 with a six-foot putt. But she lost part of her lead when she lost the thirteenth hole.

Red Sox Have 25-8 Mark With Tardy Ted in Game; His 3-Run Homer Wins, 5-4

BOSTON, June 22 (AP)—If Ted Williams doesn't call it quits for good this season, the Boston Red Sox management is going to be in one heckuva pickle—how can you give a raise to a guy already making a hundred grand?

A player in that salary bracket (which means Williams, although he's getting a scaled down check because of his late start) doesn't figure to get a bonus no matter what he does.

Take last night. The Red Sox made it 12 out of 14 by beating the fourth-place Detroit Tigers, 5-4—but it was Williams's home run with two on in the eighth that did it. That left Boston just two games shy of the Tigers after picking up six games on Detroit in the last 14.

Here's what Williams has meant in the Red Sox surge: When he came back May 28, Boston was 17-24 for the season. They won seven of the next 13 with Williams, still getting into shape, appearing only infrequently.

Then, 10 games ago, Williams took over left field as a regular. Boston has won eight of the 10, pulling up to .500 at 32-32. Ted has hammered seven home runs, driving in 14 and batted .429 for the 10 games.

Homer on 3-0 Pitch.
The homer last night was his ninth of the season—No. 35 for the Williams career—and it came on a 3-0 pitch by Ned Garver. That was it, with Ellis Kinder, another old pro like Williams, coming on in relief in the ninth to preserve Tom Hurd's victory.

Williams's home run was "only" a 390-foot job, but it overshadowed the 486-foot blast Mickey Mantle leveled as the New York Yankees beat Kansas City 6-2 to stay two games up in the American League race.

The second-place Chicago White Sox beat Washington 6-1 and third-place Cleveland trimmed Baltimore 3-1.

In the National, Brooklyn boosted its lead to 12 games over Chicago as Don Newcombe won his twelfth by beating the Cubs 7-2 in 11 innings. Milwaukee moved to within one and one-half games of the runner-up Cubs by trimming Pittsburgh 6-4 and Cincinnati gave the sliding New York Giants another shove 10-1.

Mantle's homer was one of the longest ever belted in Yankee Stadium, hitting the extreme center field seats—virgin territory according to veteran press box witnesses. The ball cleared a 30-foot barrier.

Tommy Byrne Again.
Alex Kellner, losing his seventh straight to the Yanks, was the victim of Mantle's blast with none on in the first. He left in a four-run Yank fourth after a 47-minute delay because of rain. Tommy Byrne won his fifth.

Washington gave the White Sox three unearned runs and Chicago took it from there. Bob Porterfield was the loser while Virgil Trucks won his eighth of the season and his sixth straight. Bob Lemon, retiring with a leg injury after seven innings, became the first American League hurler to win 10 this season. Al Smith's two-run homer in the fifth supplied the edge against the Orioles and loser Jim Wilson.

Newcombe was sent into overtime for his 12th triumph in 13 decisions after being tagged for a homer by Ernie Banks in the seventh that knotted it at 2-2. The Brooks broke out for five runs in the 11th, chasing Warren Hacker as Roy Campanella led off with his fourth hit, a double. Newk, who whiffed nine and walked one, drove in two runs in the rally with his second double of the game.

Bob Buhl tossed a six-bitter for the Braves and Eddie Mathews and Joe Adcock homered to put it away. The Pirates got their first hit off the right-hander in the fourth, after Buhl had retired nine in order.

PITTSBURGH, June 22 (AP)—Frizie Zivic, former world welterweight boxing champion, was arrested on a drunken driving charge yesterday after police said his auto struck another car. The driver of the second car, 32-year-old Robert A. Kuhn of Pittsburgh, suffered slight head injuries. Zivic was released on $2500 bond pending court action.

Schaeffer's Three-Hitter Hands Walnut Park First Defeat

Stockham Wins, Ties For Lead

By John J. Archibald

Husky Don Schaeffer, who puts in about eight hours on the tennis courts before he goes out to pitch, found the switch from base lines to baseball no problem last night as he hurled Stockham Post back into the Legion race. With his fast ball crashing into Catcher Rich Rogers' mitt, Schaeffer held previously unbeaten Walnut Park to three hits as Stockham won, 7 to 1, in a Leo Browne League game at Fairground Park.

The time Schaeffer devotes to tennis isn't as a player. He is a park department employee, and one of his main jobs is keeping the courts rolled out, but the heavy work doesn't seem to bother Don, a 6-foot-2 190-pounder.

Of his fast ball, Catcher Rogers said, "It's got so much on it, I never know where it's going to hit. Sure feels good when I catch it though!"

The only run off of Schaeffer was unearned. Gary Schoen led off the third inning with a double and scored a moment later on a too-powerful throw from right field. Walnut Park's other hits were a pair of singles in the seventh inning.

Schaeffer struck out 11 batters and walked two. His performance was in contrast to his first appearance against Walnut Park, when poor control and loose fielding combined to rout him in the first inning.

Stockham took a 1-0 lead in the first frame on a two-base error, a sacrifice, and an out. It wasn't until the fourth, however, that Stockham was able to do much against the pitching of Walnut's Rich Beumer, and even then it took some poor fielding by Beumer's mates to set up much of the scoring.

Two well-placed bunts which went for hits, two infield errors, a walk, plus four clean hits resulted in five runs for Stockham in the fourth. A single by Schaeffer drove in two of the markers. Stockham's final run came in the seventh, when Bert Barth tripled and scored on Larry Anderson's hit.

In the other Leo Browne match, St. Louis No. 4 handed Missouri-Pacific its fifth straight loss, 16 to 5.

Meet Again June 30. Walnut Park and Stockham are now tied for the league lead, each with 4 and 1, and they will meet again June 30.

There was an upset in the Zera-Smith League, when Pine Lawn suffered its first loss, 4 to 3, at the hands of Thomann-Boothe, in a night game at Ballwin. Andy Reed pitched the victory for Thomann-Boothe, which draws its players mainly from Ritenour High.

Ray Wilson singled in two runs for Thomann in the sixth and Bob Butts drove in the other two with a double in the eighth. A triple by John Jones and a passed ball gave Pine Lawn a run in the fourth, and last year's league champions came within a run of tying in the last of the eighth when Steve Lewis singled. Gene Kammer tripled, and Kammer then scored on a ground out.

Earlier, Thomann-Boothe tied Pine Lawn, 5-5, in a game that has not been replayed. Against other teams, Thomann has lost two out of three contests.

Kirkwood and Maplewood both won in the South County League, setting the scene for their second meeting Thursday on the Maplewood field. Kirkwood, which had to come up with three runs in the last of the eighth to edge winless Donald Monroe, 5 to 4, now has a 5-0 league record.

Maplewood has a 4 and 1 mark after its 9-1 victory over Gardenville-Afton. George Clements held Gardenville for seven innings, then had to leave the game when he sprained his ankle while fielding a grounder.

In the Scully-Menzie-Dorrill League, Aubuchon-Dennison ran its record to 4 and 0 with a 13-7 victory over Anheuser-Busch.

Riches Await Fleck, Surprise In U.S. Open

DAVENPORT, Ia., June 22 (UP)—Jack Fleck, a week ago just a guy who ran two municipal golf courses, came home to a tumultuous welcome as National Open champion.

The 32-year-old soft-spoken Fleck, who showed steady calmness in out-dueling mighty Ben Hogan for the open crown, was overcome with emotion when a cheering crowd of 2000 turned out to welcome him yesterday. Tears welled up in his eyes as he said, "I wish to thank everyone from the bottom of my heart."

Fleck, accompanied by his wife, Lynn, and their four-year-old son, Craig, who had met him in Chicago, was swirled up in a hero's welcome as soon as he stepped from the plane.

A huge sign on the airport

hangar read: "Congratulations. We're proud of you, Jack." Fleck stepped to a microphone, and said he didn't know what to say, except that it had been a long, tough week and there was a "longer road ahead" as champion.

"I wish to thank everyone from the bottom of my heart," he said "I think God helped me win the title. He gave me power. It's hard to realize I am the National Open champion."

Fleck added that "I want to thank my darling wife, Lynn." The crowd applauded as Fleck wiped the tears from his eyes. The handsome golfer then pushed through the crowd to embrace his 67-year-old father, who had been sitting watching from a chair nearby.

Then he was hustled into the lead car of a 55-car caravan for a parade through nearby Bettendorf and back through Davenport.

After the parade, Fleck went to his home to rest. But more honors were in store for him.

President Eisenhower has invited him to lunch at the White House July 11—perhaps to pick up a few tips from the man who finally hit the jackpot after years of being an also-ran. The President probably will want to play 18 holes after the lunch. Newspapers here also reported that their drive to collect donations to buy Fleck a new car was "coming along great" with about $2000 collected in two days.

That was only part of the riches expected to pour into Fleck, who had only $3 in his pocket when he won the Open. Although he had checks totaling more than $8000 when the big tournament was over, he didn't have enough cash on hand to pay his locker bill.

He should make a fortune in the next 12 months from endorsements and exhibitions.

RECREATING?

In behalf of "time off"

In this in-between era . . . in between the sixteen-hour work day of the past and the two-hour work day of the future . . . the allotted "time off" is receiving some highly intelligent attention from all sides. The value of leisure time is lost, the savants say, unless it is put to regenerating body and soul for the big job of keeping body and soul together!

Fortunately, most folks have found that out all by themselves and so long evenings and two-day and three-day weekends are spent in activities that do the most for keeping them in top form for the job.

If you want to be in top fashion form during your recreating time, let Jarman show you how to do it. For the best looking, most comfortable shoes that ever strode a fairway, stepped on the gas or scooted under a do-it-yourself workbench, come to Jarman where you'll find everything you could ask for in shoe style. If a two-tone moccasin style like this is your choice, ask for Style No. 334. It is all hand sewn and can be had in smooth black calf with white buck, in all-brown or all-black calf for just $9.95. Other Jarman styles $9.95 to $18.95.

Mays, Back In Game, Fails to Hit Safely

CINCINNATI, June 22 (UPI)—Woeful Willie Mays was back in the lineup but not yet back on the beam.

The Giant outfielder and National League's "most valuable player" for last season, went hitless in four trips to the plate against Lefty Jackie Collum of Cincinnati last night and his batting average dropped from .279 to .275.

He was the only Giant regular who failed to get a hit. Manager Leo Durocher had benched him for two days, claiming Mays had been playing "confused baseball."

Missouri Jockey Rides Two Winners at Fairmount Park

Jimmy Barnes, a 26-year-old rider from Ellington, Mo., was the star performer among the jockeys on last night's Fairmount Park race program. A winner in only two previous races, Barnes was home first with Paul H. ($680) in the third and Burma Girl ($720) in the fifth.

Incidentally, Burma Girl, owned by James F. Edwards, president of the Fairmount Park Jockey Club, was claimed by the Virginia Stables, Inc., for $2500.

That a change of owners some times helps was evinced in the case of Drucilla L. The three-year-old was in the Rita Cue barn trained by E. B. Shipp. Shipp was not satisfied with the filly's workouts and was given permission to sell her. So she was sold to W. H. Fryar and in her first start for her new owner won and paid $2180 to win.

Mary Jane G. owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Triplett, overlooked in the betting, took over at the half-mile post and then romped to a three-length victory in the six-furlong feature race. Ridden by Charles Billeaud, she won by three lengths

DeMarco to Undergo Operation on Nose

BOSTON, June 22 (AP)—Former world welterweight champion Tony DeMarco is scheduled to undergo an operation on his nose today at Massachusetts general hospital.

Dr. Maurice Evans, a nose specialist, will perform surgery to correct a deviated septum. In such a condition the nasal passage is restricted by bone.

DeMarco's nose started bleeding in the first round when he lost his title to Carmen Basilio, June 10 and his rapid rising after the eighth round has been attributed by Dr. Evans largely to his difficulty in breathing.

DeMarco is expected to remain in the hospital for several days following the operation.

Operation on Spine Due for Babe Zaharias

GALVESTON, Tex., June 22 (AP)—Athlete Babe Didrikson Zaharias will be out of golf at least three months following spinal surgery, her physician said yesterday.

Mrs. Zaharias will undergo surgery to correct a ruptured disc "within a very few days," Dr. S. R. Snodgrass said. The operation will be at John Sealy Hospital by the professor of neurosurgery at the Medical Branch of the University of Texas.

Snodgrass said X-rays had been completed and Mrs. Zaharias had agreed to the operation. She was believed to have hurt her back when she tried to push her car after it got stuck in sand in south Texas about three months ago.

Dr. Snodgrass said she would be out of golf three to six months. He said "if only the removal of the ruptured disc is necessary, it will take about three months before she will be back on the greens. But if it is necessary to make a spinal fusion (taking bone from the adjacent area) of the hip and putting it across where the disc is ruptured to keep it immobile) it will be six months before she can take part in sports."

Dr. Snodgrass said the Babe was "very, very uncomfortable." He emphasized the injury has nothing to do with the successful cancer operation she underwent two years ago.

Three College Stars Signed by Athletics

KANSAS CITY, June 22 (AP)—Three collegiate baseball stars were signed by the Kansas City Athletics yesterday and farmed out within the Athletic's system.

Two of them, Bob Davis, a pitcher, and Hugo Guidotti, a fielder, are from Yale University. The third, Miki Schwartzkoff, is a pitcher from Western Michigan.

Schwartzkoff was assigned to Columbus of the International League. In his high school and college career, the 21-year-old Utica, Mich., right-hander won 50 and lost five games, pitching six no-hitters and averaging 15 strikeouts a game.

Davis, 21, another right-hander from Great Neck, N.Y., was assigned to Savannah in the Class A Sally League. The Athletic's outbid seven other major league clubs for his services. General Manager Parke Carroll said.

Guidotti, who captained the Yale team this year, is also 21. The Hudson (Mass.) player bats and throws lefthanded and weighs 195 pounds. He was assigned to Burlington, Vt., of the Class C Provincial League.

Look what Mr. Peterson told those financiers!

Mr. Alfred G. Peterson, a forthright man, addressed the convention of the Savings Associations League of N. Y. State and boldly discussed the matter of advertising—of his own free will.

Mr. Peterson, who is president of the National Savings and Loan Association of Greenwich, Connecticut, spoke as follows:—

"I feel that advertising is a very profitable investment. But we should not buy advertising blindly. We should give careful consideration both to the appeals and the media we use."

And listen to this!

"The medium which tops the list is the medium that reaches the greatest number of people at the lowest cost. It is my opinion the newspaper is that medium..."

But that isn't all...

"I place the newspaper at the top of the list because it reaches the local market. All of us are really conducting local businesses.

"We may be bound together into a national industry, but our spheres of influence are entirely local.

"The newspaper reaches precisely the people we want to reach."

Ah, Mr. Peterson—you are a man who knows his investment!

Last year the institution headed by Mr. Peterson invested 5% of its gross income on advertising, and more than 60% of that went into newspapers.

In only ten years this Association multiplied its total resources eight-fold!

Gosh! If savings and loan people themselves advertise, think how they must feel about lending money to people who work for sound companies who advertise soundly—in newspapers.

All business is local...and so are all newspapers!

JAMES ROOSEVELT IS DIVORCED AT DEFAULT HEARING

PASADENA, Calif., June 22 (UP)—Mrs. Romelle Roosevelt has obtained a default divorce from Representative James Roosevelt, whom she once accused of infidelities with a dozen women.

Roosevelt was in Washington when Mrs. Roosevelt obtained the interlocutory decree yesterday, but was represented by counsel at the brief, uncontested hearing before Superior Judge Kurtz Kauffman.

The hearing was called without the case ever having been placed on the court's calendar. Judge Kauffman explained attorneys for both parties had asked for the immediate default hearing.

Mrs. Roosevelt obtained the decree on an amended complaint which merely accused the Democratic Congressman of mental cruelty.

The former nurse received sole custody of their three children, James Jr., 9 years old, Michael Anthony, 8, and Anna Eleanor, 7, with Roosevelt granted the right to visit them only at their home.

Mrs. Roosevelt said Roosevelt stayed away from home frequently, sometimes several nights a week, without explanation. She also charged he took extended trips out of town and failed to keep in touch with his family, causing them "mental suffering."

Judge Kauffman approved a property settlement.

Today Greece signed a similar agreement with the United States. Under it, Greece also is

It's like a famous designer's label on a lady's favorite party dress.

It's like sterling on silver, 14 carat on gold, or like those little silk threads in an honest-to-gosh dollar bill that no counterfeiter can ever quite copy.

It's the Fisher coach—world-famous emblem of Body by Fisher. You'll see it on the sill of a Motoramic Chevrolet when you open the door. You'll see it on some of America's most popular high-priced cars, too. But that's all. Not on any other low-priced car.

The other cars in Chevrolet's field just don't have that clean, fresh look that comes from beauty that's built in—not bolted on! In fact, there are very few cars that do have it—no matter what they cost.

And the other low-priced cars, of course, don't offer any of these advantages of Fisher Body. Not that strong, solid Fisher Unisteel construction. Not those fine quality fabrics and materials. Not the High-Level ventilation system that provides cleaner, fresher air—or such considerate touches as separate little cranks for the ventipanes.

You can choose your own new Chevrolet with Body by Fisher from 190 different combinations of models and colors. That's like having it custom built just for you—without the custom-built price! Come on in and get all the good news on the model you like best.

The makers of Super-Refined No-Nox, the clean-burning gasoline, now bring you a new super-refined motor oil...

New Gulfpride H.D. Select

Available in 3 grades—SAE 10W, SAE 20/20W, SAE 30. Lets you follow your car manufacturer's recommendation for each season.

...the only motor oil in the world super-refined by the Alchlor Process for modern high-compression engines.

A completely new motor oil that controls carbon—and stands up because it has “natural” viscosity. Contains no artificial thickeners that break down in service.

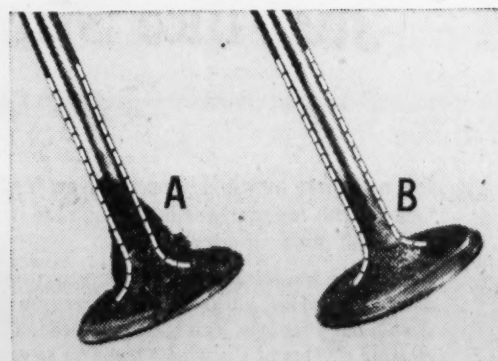

New Gulfpride H.D. Select—made possible by Gulf's exclusive Alchlor Process—is available in three grades... to give today's high-compression engines the finest protection, the lowest oil consumption in every season.

- Controls carbon—cause of knock, pre-ignition, valve failure and loss of power in high-compression engines.
- Combats corrosive acids, rust and deposits that build up on engine parts. Keeps hydraulic valve lifters quiet and free-acting.
- Assures lower oil consumption than the multi-viscosity “all-season” motor oils, because it has natural viscosity and contains no artificial thickeners that break down in your engine.
- Provides the toughest protective film ever developed in a motor oil... assures better engine protection for all cars under all driving conditions.

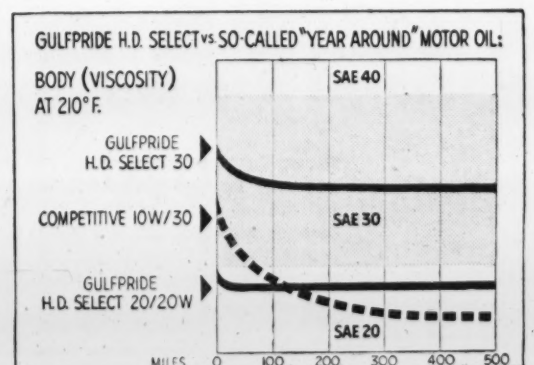

Now! For the ultimate in working octane performance and engine protection, always use Gulf's super-refined gas-oil team...

New Gulf No-Nox Gasoline
New Gulfpride H.D. Select Motor Oil

“Coked” valve A is from engine using a so-called “all-season,” multi-grade oil. This coke-like carbon deposit is a common cause of sluggish performance and ultimate valve failure. Clean valve B is from engine using new Gulfpride H.D. Select.

See how Gulfpride H.D. Select holds its “body” (viscosity). This new oil contains no artificial thickeners that break down under engine heat and pressure. But note how quickly a typical multi-viscosity 10W/30 oil starts to lose its body.

CONGRESS GETS CITY ANTI-FLOOD REPORT

Stevens Says Study Has Determined St. Louis Project Is Feasible.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 22 — A report recommending construction of the $120,427,000 flood control program for St. Louis was signed today by Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens and sent to Congress.

The project, drawn up by the Army Corps of Engineers, was based on a study conducted by the engineers at the request of Congress. Stevens' report said the study had demonstrated the project to be feasible and desirable and noted it had received the approval of the Bureau of the Budget.

Representative Frank M. Karsten (Dem., St. Louis), said he hoped a House subcommittee could hold hearings on the plan "within a week or 10 days." A spokesman for Senator Stuart Symington (Dem., St. Louis), said Symington, a member of the Senate Public Works Committee, would seek permission for the St. Louis program to be considered by the Senate group at the same time the House subcommittee holds its hearing.

The project, approved by the Budget Bureau recently as consistent with the Eisenhower administration's over-all flood control program, would consist of earthen embankments and concrete flood walls to protect against a flood stage of up to 52 feet at St. Louis. It would take about six years to complete.

Congressional supporters of the plan hope to get approval of authorization bills for the project in this session, but it is possible that the project may be held over for inclusion in an omnibus flood control bill next year.

Passage of a $7,547,000 bond issue proposal by St. Louis voters, to finance the city's share of the flood control program, was an important factor in the favorable decision by the Budget Bureau, which cleared the project for submission to Congress.

MENON WARNING: BIG 4 TALKS WON'T SOLVE EVERYTHING

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22 (UP)—V. K. Krishna Menon, India's roving ambassador, warned the world last night not to expect too much from the forthcoming "summit conference" in Geneva.

"It would be a mistake," he told the World Affairs Council, "to think that these four men, however wise, could settle everything in a few days."

But he said the Geneva meeting was an example of the "reorientation" in world affairs and a trend toward less calling of "bad names" by nations.

Menon said that friendship and co-existence among nations are important ingredients to peace.

"No one has told you or me yet what results war can guarantee," he said. "That being true, the calculated risk of peace is worth taking."

He said one of the most important international trends is the lessening of the feeling of fear.

SWEDEN RESISTS MOVES TO ABRIDGE ITS NEUTRALISM

There is no reason to believe that it will not be equally successful here.

Planned Society.
But both from within the country and without, some searching questions are being asked about the end-result of this carefully planned society with its cradle-to-the-grave provisions for every citizen.

Is the end boredom and frustration? Is this the reason for the teen-age rioting in the parks and the charge of widespread sexual promiscuity among the young—a charge that has stirred both resentment and some serious self-scrutiny?

For those who consider the welfare state a disaster, the answers are all in the affirmative, but this is too easy a way out. Long before the series of social-economic reforms carried out in the last three or four decades the trend to secularism had set in with the state-supported churches increasingly empty. Today at most 5 per cent and perhaps as few as 2 per cent of the Swedes attend church. Many would trace what they consider an amoral attitude toward sex to this fact.

Recently something like a national controversy developed when two high school girls who had illegitimate children were given good marks in deportment as were the two high school boys who were the fathers. The teacher of ethics and Christianity in the school took the issue to the central government in Stockholm. The answer of the superintendent was that their conduct was good in school and this was the only basis on which they could be judged. The superintendent was sustained.

If it is, in fact, materialism that is corroding the Swedish soul, the evidence is on every hand. The shops are filled with goods from every part of Europe as well as those made at home, and each ship brings in more motor cars to crowd streets already overflowing with traffic. Statistics abound to document the boom. Real income, quite apart from price rises and inflation, has increased 50 per cent since the end of the year.

Recent criticism, the Swedes say, has a holler-than-thou tone that they deeply resent. They want to know why their teenagers have been singled out when young people almost everywhere else show signs of revolt against prevailing standards. Nevertheless, the fundamental question remains a plaguing and perplexing one—whether security, well-being and safety equated with neutrality, are enough in a torn and divided world.

HOW FAR TO GO, HOW TO BARGAIN WORRYING WEST

foreign ministers about two months later.

One haunting fear in western minds is that the democracies, faced with the chance for relaxing tensions, will want to go too far and will be receptive to a weakening of NATO. Yesterday, it is held that the seven years of effort put into NATO could be destroyed in seven weeks just when the western defense organization is beginning to show real results.

Big Question Is Who's Boss.

Although Premier Bulganin will be the titular top Russian at Geneva western diplomats will be trying to solve the puzzle of who actually is pulling the strings in the Soviet Union. In his conversations here, Molotov has referred to "those to whom we are responsible" rather than to Bulganin or to Nikita S. Krushchev, boss of the Russian communist party.

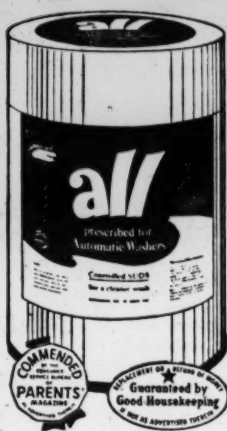

Some persons who have known Molotov before have received the impression Molotov is less sure of himself and less strong in the support of his Government. There is a feeling that he may not be a key man at all. It is thought the blame for Soviet treatment of Yugoslavia placed on Lavrenty Beria by the Russian leaders who journeyed to Belgrade recently must have been a shock to Molotov. Beria, a close associate of Molotov in the old days, was shot.

Molotov has been busy in San Francisco attending social and diplomatic functions and entertaining at the Russian delegation's rented estate 15 miles from the city leading representatives of U.N. member nations. Yesterday, Macmillan visited him at the estate and tomorrow Dulles will lunch with him there.

Why do U. S. Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Air Force Helicopters use TCP . . .

What does this mean to your car?

Simply this:

In a helicopter, engine deposits cause a more critical problem of power loss than in any other kind of gasoline engine service.

Shell's unique gasoline additive, TCP*, is used in the majority of military helicopters today because it has the unique ability of overcoming these deposits.

The same deposits are also a major cause of power loss in all automobile engines. This is particularly true of the higher compression engines which require high octane gasoline.

Because TCP overcomes these engine deposits, which increase with daily short-trip driving, only Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP gives you the full benefits of high octane gasoline. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use.

Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for. The above statements may also apply to other companies which produce high octane gasoline if they are licensed by Shell to use TCP.

SCARCITIES LAID
TO G.O.P. POLICIESBrannan Says Eisenhower Philosophy Threatens Gains of 20 Years.

President Eisenhower is responsible for a "philosophy of scarcity" which threatens the economic gains made in the last 20 years, former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan charged here yesterday.

In an address to the CIO Communications Workers of America convention at Kiel Auditorium, Brannan, a Democrat, declared that Republican policy has meant a scarcity of electric power for western states, "a scarcity of jobs, scarcity of air power and even a scarcity of ground troops."

Most important, he said, it has meant "a scarcity of friends throughout the world" because of confusing statements of policy on international affairs.

Brannan, who held office from 1948 to 1952 in the Truman Administration, criticized those who absolve President Eisenhower from the ultimate responsibility for policy decisions with which they disagree.

Under our form of government, he said, it is "impossible" for any member of the executive branch to be a "free agent."

Brannan, now general counsel for the National Farmers Union, argued that America needs "a philosophy of abundance" in order to cope with the social and economic problems presented by farm surpluses and automation in industry.

Without such a philosophy, he said, we might permit farm surpluses to drive agricultural workers into the lines of the unemployed, and automation to reduce industrial jobs.

He said America should hold out food surpluses to the people of the world to demonstrate a willingness to share, although surplus produce here could not eliminate all hunger elsewhere. Americans must also share their skills with other nations to produce wealth, he added.

A. T. Jones, vice president of the union, reported that four major strikes in the last 12 months cost the union $4,487,051. Most of this, a total of $4,315,212, was spent in the two and one-half month strike against Southern Bell Telephone Co., he said.

Union demands for the coming year, as listed by John L. Crull, CWA vice president in charge of collective bargaining, include shorter hours for switchboard operators, a $1.25 per hour minimum wage and a rise in basic pay for all workers.

First reports indicated the skirmish occurred in the area of the Penhoet shipyards, where strikers overturned wagons to barricade streets. The security troops, sent here late yesterday after violent demonstrations by the workers, moved in with tear gas to clear away the barricades.

The shipyard welders have been striking one day a week for the last three months in demand for the same wage scale as applied in the Paris area. Yesterday all metal workers in the Saint Nazaire area — about 10,000 men — joined in the strike.

CZECHS RUN AD IN PAPER

WASHINGTON, June 22 (INS)—The embassy of Communist Czechoslovakia used a paid newspaper advertisement today to offer amnesty to Czechs in the United States guilty of "criminal acts of desertion of the republic."

The ad, which appeared in the Washington Post and Times-Herald, called attention to the amnesty decree issued by Czech President Antonin Zapotocky May 9, 1955.

The notice stated that pardons will be granted persons "who, under the influence of hostile propaganda, left the territory of the republic." To be granted such pardons, the "deserters" must return to Czechoslovakia within six months from the date of the amnesty proclamation.

RUSSIA OBJECTS,
SO LIE IS MISSING
AT U.N. MEETING

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22 (AP)—A conspicuous figure missing from the United Nations tenth birthday celebration is that of Trygve Lie, the first secretary general.

There had been reports that Lie would make the long trip from his home in Norway, but he is not coming.

Informed sources said the Soviet Union protested loud and long when Lie's name was brought up in preliminary planning for the conference. Moscow never has forgotten that Lie opposed the Communist invasion of South Korea.

It was said the U.N. was prepared to go against the Soviet wishes, but that difficulties then arose about when or whether Lie would speak. As a private citizen now he could not address the formal conference and there were hints he did not care to address any side meeting. So in the end Lie stayed home.

3-Stars for Gen. Rogers.

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated Air Force Maj. Gen. Elmer Joseph Rogers for temporary appointment as a lieutenant general. The promotion would be in line with his recent appointment as chief of staff of the Far East Command, succeeding Lt. Gen. Carter B. Magruder.

READYING FOR RIVER RIDE

Raft mounted on oil drums being tested by crew members Fred Hallberg (left) and Sam Gray near St. Paul, Minn., today as they prepared for a trip down the Mississippi river from St. Paul to New Orleans. Motive power for the craft is provided by the 1939 automobile, whose rear wheels work as a treadmill on a second rear axle assembly, hitched to a 16-inch propeller. The raft is guided by the car's steering wheel, linked with the rudder by a system of ropes and pulleys. The poles will support a tarpaulin shelter. A third crew member, David Rufford, was not on board for the test run.

GIFT FOR THE PRESIDENT

Miss Jackie Blue, Indiana's Queen of Lakes, helps hold a string of bluegills which she presented at the White House yesterday for President Eisenhower. Assisting Miss Blue are Representative Charles A. Halleck (left) of Indiana and Homer Gruenther, a White House aid. The President also received a lifetime fishing license from the State of Indiana.

SHOOTING SESSION

Dr. Charles Malik, Lebanese ambassador to the United States, records the historical scene as he shoots pictures of the second session of the United Nations Commemorative assembly in San Francisco's Opera House yesterday.

REFUELING IN FLIGHT

A hummingbird arrests its flight (top) as it spots pentstemon flowers which should provide it with a refreshing lunch. At center, it hovers in front of the flower, its wings beating about 200 times a second. Unable to perch on the frail flower, it takes its meal on the wing. Pictures were made with camera placed three feet from the subject, with a shutter speed of 1/1000 of a second.

SPHERES AND SQUARES

Round tanks in square holes present an unusual picture in this new addition to a San Francisco brewing plant. The tanks are aging vats which had to be fitted into square spaces in the structure before the walls of the aging house could be sealed.

RUNAWAY TRUCK TAKES TOLL

Scene of destruction after tractor-trailer plunged out of control down a street in Johnstown, Pa., yesterday. The runaway truck sheared off a telephone pole and smashed an automobile into the sunporch of a home, killing the driver at the wheel. Truck driver and three other persons were injured.

First Big Chance

American Bullfighter's Misfortune in Madrid

By Art Buchwald

ART BUCHWALD

MAJ. VICTOR ALBERT, who is in the United States Air Force, and his wife were my sponsors. It costs about $200 to rent a costume and capes and pay for help and publicity. I didn't have it, but they were interested in my career and loaned me the money.

"In my first fight I was doing a natural with the left hand when the wind blew the cape and left me uncovered. The bull's left horn got me in the groin and the stomach. One minute I was up in the air and the next minute I was on the ground. It happened so fast I didn't think of anything."

"I got back on my feet, although I was bleeding, and continued my work. The crowd gave me a big ovation. Then I killed him. A little while later, when I was working the bull of another matador, I was gored again. This time the bull got me in the thigh. "They started to carry me out of the arena but I fought them and hung on to the wooden barriers. The crowd cheered, but the promoter, Pepe Dominguez, told me to get my wounds taken care of and then come back. I didn't realize how badly I had been hurt. They took me into the infirmary underneath the stands and three doctors worked over me. They cleaned the wounds and sewed them and then brought me to this hospital."

"ARE YOUR MEDICAL EXPENSES pretty high?" "No, I belong to the bullfighters' guild and this hospital was founded for anyone who gets hurt in a ring. We don't have to pay for anything."

"Are you still serious about bullfighting?" "Man, this is no joke. Bullfighting is my career. I want another fight as soon as I get out of the hospital. Most bullfighters believe a gore either makes or breaks a matador. He either comes back better or worse. I can't wait to get back."

HE SHOWED US CLIPPINGS from the Spanish critics. They were very good. One writer said: "Mr. Tuck fought the bull with valor and grace. He had an excellent repertoire and although gravely wounded refused to leave the ring."

We asked the fighter if his parents in Boston were concerned about his profession. "They've never seen a bullfight," he said. "They don't even know what it's all about."

FOR THOSE AMERICANS who would like to try their hand at fighting young bulls and calves there is a bar near the main Madrid bullfight arena known as Cortijo Los Minibales which welcomes brave tourists. The bulls' horns are filed and you don't have to kill them.

In the back of the bar is a small arena where the cape-work can be done. There is also a chapel and infirmary in case the bulls get mad at the tourist. It was at this bar that Gregory Peck and John Huston fought their first fights.

"How were they?" we asked the proprietor. "Scared stiff," he said.

The Cortijo Los Minibales also serves food, but the owner said he doesn't serve any steaks from the tourist fights.

"Why not?"

"These bulls are especially bred for courage and valor. They have brave meat, fighting meat, but not very good to eat. It's too tough. The steaks we serve come from non-fighting bulls. The brave meat is sent to the city hospitals."

A Lift in Spirit

By Angelo Patri

LIFE can become pretty monotonous for children. The routine day spreads its uniformity over the months and, wholesome as it must be, a little break in its rhythm can be a most welcome peak in its usual level.

A child's birthday should be honored. If possible, he should have a party. This party should be kept as simple as possible, for several good reasons. It is a break in the children's routine and that means a change in their diet—a birthday cake and ice cream are not ordinary fare. It means unusual excitement. Birthday parties mean guests, best clothes, company atmosphere and company manners—all out of the ordinary.

TO LET THE YOUNG GUESTS feel comfortably at ease, there should be no great show of gifts, expense of any sort. Mothers are busy people and all this to-do is a strain on them too, so the simpler the party is the better for all concerned.

An unexpected trip with mother or father can be a great and delightful experience that lifts the weight of the routine. Seeing new places, looking at beautiful paintings, stately buildings, meeting new people, is often as meaningful to children's growth as a day spent in school. I am all for the trip to the distant city, to the circus, to the museum, or just going fishing with Dad.

A GIFT THAT COMES without request or anticipation can bring such a thrill of joy to a child's heart that the memory of it will warm his spirit for months on end. Somebody remembered him, somebody loved him enough to find this precious thing that he is delighted to have. That is something to cherish in his heart. It will put wings to his spirit, lift the weight of routine off his mind. It is a tonic to his body and mind.

Parents are busy people—often burdened with care, often wearied by the struggle to keep a home for their children and give them the actual necessities of food, clothes and medical care, and it is not to be wondered at that they feel their duty is done fully when they achieve all this. Still, a break in their routine helps, too. The happiness of the children when some bit of unexpected pleasure comes their way can be tonic to the parents' spirit, too.

'Junior is a Size and Not an Age'

The fashions illustrated here are available in St. Louis Shops. Patterns are not obtainable. For information call MAIn 1-1111, Station 386, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, or mail self-addressed stamped envelope to Fashions Illustrated, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE word "junior," from a fashion standpoint, covers a wide range of sizes. Not only does it apply to youthful styles but to apparel that has been designed and made with special attention to certain figure proportions. The expression that "junior is a size and not an age" in its application to women's clothes actually started on its road to fame in the St. Louis market many years ago. Now the idea has expanded so that there are many fashions made in Size 5 for grown-ups as well as some "expanded" juniors for the girl who wants to look young and has junior proportions but who is definitely a "chubby" type.

Today's fashions are concerned with the two extremes of the junior size range—those created for the girl who is quite petite and needs either a Size 5 or Size 7 and those made for the extra-pounders. Those that have been sketched are available in St. Louis stores.

1. This dark cotton dress available in Size 5 is made of a bright navy blue material that has raised pin point dots. The dress has a very full skirt, is cut in the princess silhouette and has a panel front. A low-placed sash extends from either side of the panel around the torso and ties with a big bow at the back. Low neckline has a rolling collar.

2. Made of a rayon linen weave material this suit also available in Size 5 as well as other small junior sizes has a boxy jacket with Peter Pan collar. Gold buttons fasten the front of the jacket and extend around the sides on a band of the material. The slim skirt has a deep pleat at the back. Shades include gold, turquoise, navy, and white.

3. Petite girls as well as their larger sisters like the slim sheath dress that has its own duster type of coat to form a complete ensemble. The duster is made of a rayon tweed patterned material and is fully lined. The dress is made of a rayon that looks like very lightweight flannel in a medium gray tone. Dress has a wide V neckline, and a long shoulder line. Neckline and pockets are edged with the tweed of the coat.

4. Designed for the girl who must wear "plus" sizes but who wants them to look youthful is this black cotton sheath dress which has a Bertha collar of white dotted with black. The skirt has a peg top. Sizes range from 19 to 25.

5. This "Junior Plenty" model of plaid cotton is designed in the shirtwaist manner and has a moderately full skirt, accented by deep pleats at the front. The bodice is banded at the armholes and has bows that tie at the shoulders. Dress fastens with large pearl buttons.

6. For festive occasions here is another of the large junior dresses. It is made of polished white cotton. Skirt and lower part of the bodice are made of bands of the cotton held together by lace that has a fag-gotted design. Vertical bands of black fabric emphasize the princess lines of the silhouette. The dress has its own crinoline petticoat.

The Gift of True Humility

By Fulton J. Sheen

MANY in heaven once were alcoholics, adulterers, thieves, racketeers, but there is no one in heaven who did not become humble. But the mere mention of humility conjures up, in many minds, the idea that humility means allowing other people to walk all over you, or a self-abasement, or that it turns one into that perfect example of mock humility—Uriah Heep. Because the poet Keats understood it as such, he said: "I hate humility." Humility is not self-contempt but the truth about ourselves coupled with reverence for others; it is self-render to the highest goal. A man who is six feet four is not humble when he says: "Oh, no, really I am only four feet four!"—because that is not the truth; neither is an opera singer humble when she says: "Oh, I really am nothing in the singing profession;" neither is a beautiful person humble when she says: "I am really ugly."

SUCH PROTESTATIONS against the truths are marks of pride, rather than of humility. Humility in such cases consists in the acknowledgment of the truth that we have received the gifts for which we are praised: "What have you that you do not receive, and why do you glory, as if you had not received?"

The humble person is embarrassed with praise because he knows that his voice, his health, his power, his triumph from God. In his heart of hearts he passes the thanks on to God when the lips of men exalt him. He takes praise as a window receives light, never to possess it and hoard it unto himself, but to pass it through with thanksgiving to God Who so endowed him.

All good things that men possess are in constant peril of running into exaggerations, once it is forgotten that they are gifts.

A man on the strong side may become self-will and push his weight around; one who has intellectual power may look down on the ignorant, forgetful that they have moral gifts which far surpass his mental powers; the self-reliant may become corrupted into self-conceit, and those who have self-confidence may be so sure of themselves as to fall into the pit because of a refusal to listen to the counsel of others.

THOSE WHO CAN WATCH often despise those who cannot watch, and who sleep; the strong may try to force the weak to walk at their pace, and become angry with them because they cannot. Life has to be toned down with that moral quality which recognizes that wealth, health, wisdom and above all, faith, are gifts of God which grow and intensify with a spirit of thanksgiving.

We strive for what is best, but "the best gifts of life are free," or bestowed. Spring is a gift; music is a gift; a rose is a gift; air is a gift; grass is a gift.

LOVE ITSELF IS A GIFT: forced love is rape; forced patriotism is tyranny. What is true of the love of man and woman is true of the love of God; it is free on His side and first; it is free on our side and a response. "If any man will open the door, let him come in and sup with Me."

Because we are the recipients of gifts, the humble man is reverent and thankful to God. Daniel Webster was once asked what the greatest thought was that ever entered his mind; his answer was: "Personal accountability to God for His gifts."

President Garfield, in a similar vein, once said: "It is above all things necessary that in every action I should have a good opinion of James Garfield, for to eat and drink and sleep and wake with one you despise—though that one be yourself—is an intolerable thought, and what must it be as a life experience?" The proud man counts his newspaper clippings—the humble man his blessings!

Brussels Sprouts are widely available and so nutritious that they can be used often to good advantage in family menus. Try serving them with browned butter and toasted almonds. Or team them with cream sauce and a topping of crisp crumbled bacon.

Women can manage money

by Margaret Thompson

HOW DID WOMEN ever get the reputation as spendthrifts? It seems to me that most wives and mothers, especially, are buyers rather than spenders.

Buying for her family is an important part of every homemaker's job. Knowing how to buy, where to buy and when to buy the everyday necessities is the secret of keeping family finances healthy.

As we all well know, this is no simple task. It would be much easier to let food and clothing expenses go disregarded—until the bills come in! To keep them within a planned budget often calls for the kind of strategic thinking that would do any business executive proud.

It's these little economies that often make possible the big luxuries like new cars, nice homes and wonderful vacation trips.

If any skeptical male is inclined to doubt this, I suggest he spend some time at grocery and department stores on sales days . . . or step inside the bank lobby. He'll be surprised at the number of women who stop in at the bank every time they come downtown, adding to the savings accounts that will one day make their families' dreams come true.

'For Boys Only'

By Frances Ilg, M.D., and Louise Ames, Ph.D.
Of the Gesell Institute of Child Development

ONE way to get on better with your father would be to make up your mind not to take the opposite side of every question he happens to be discussing at the table or when you happen to have company. It's a big temptation, but try not to do it!

This is a sample of the excellent, down-to-earth advice which is to be found in "For Boys Only." Dr. Frank Howard Richardson's straight-speaking book of advice for teenage boys.

It is hard to explain this impulse, which boys (and girls, too) in their teens have, to take the opposite side to anything that their fathers say. We ourselves remember—and regret—this very impulse. But even if we can't explain it, to recognize its naturalness and universality is one first step toward controlling it and improving relations.

PRACTICAL ADVICE on how to get along better with father, however, is only one of the many useful kinds of advice and information which this book contains. Quite free of the sentimentality and sanctimoniousness which mark many books addressed to teen-agers, "For Boys Only" provides for teen age boys good concrete answers to many of their questions about their own physical and sexual growth and development.

Written by a physician, it reads as easily as a novel, but without glossing over any of the concrete factual information which growing boys want and need to have about themselves.

AS DR. DAVIDSON'S INTRODUCTION to this good little book points out, "The most difficult period of a boy's life is that between elementary school and high school. While in the elementary school, he is told what to do and why; and by the time he becomes a high school senior he usually knows what he wants to do and why. But in that interval of adolescence during early high school, while he is becoming an adult, he is bewildered not only by the physical changes he is undergoing but by the emotional behavior caused by these physical changes."

"This book supplies in a most interesting way the information he wants and needs. After a boy has read this book he knows why he does the things which often lead to trouble; why he outdrives other motorists; why he imitates the love life of older men, and why he must attempt to convince himself and others that he is bigger, smarter and more courageous than he really knows himself to be."

This book was written especially for 12- to 14-year-olds, but we think it has a wider interest range than that. We highly recommend it.

Tips for Teens

By Elinor Williams

THIS is the biggest teen news of the year! It's a safe bet that nothing, positively nothing, will top it in 1955. Perhaps it will also set a trend for the future.

Students in a midwestern high school decided that "Teen-Ager" is not always a complimentary nickname, nowadays, with the number of teen automobile accidents and crimes soaring higher and higher. So they decided that each will begin now to do his best to clear the name and reputation of teenagers. "They've made their own 'code' to live by every day, to do right and smooth the way toward becoming worthwhile adults and honorable citizens."

BECAUSE SOME persons think rules and laws are something to ignore or break, these teenagers chose to call it a "code" which means that each one is on his honor as an individual... It's strictly up to him, her—or you. Here it is... for you to adopt in your school, class, club, sorority:

I will develop good character by being honest, dependable, law-abiding.
I will honor my mother, father and teachers.
I will respect my own property and the property of others.

I will do all I can to keep good lines of communication open between students, parents and teachers.

I WILL WEAR suitable clothes to school — shirts, sweaters and jackets for boys instead of T-shirts and sweat shirts.

I will walk or use public transportation to school instead of dangerously overcrowding a hot-rod. I will not sit in parked cars during recess.

I will use self-discipline at all times—no smoking, no affection in public, no drinking, no carrying knives or other weapons; evening parties only on nights when there's no school the next day.

I will always tell my parents where I am and will determine with them beforehand the time to end the date.

It's Really a Wonderful Town for Her

Former St. Louisan Betty Gillett Returned to Play Role of Eileen at Municipal Opera

By John J. Archibald

EVER wonder what became of "that girl in high school who had the beautiful voice?" There was such a girl in our school, Ben Blewett High, in 1944, and like the others, we imagined a great stage career for classmate Betty Gillett as we wrote about her in the Griffin, Blewett's monthly magazine.

From that time until the recent publication of the list of principals in the forthcoming Muni Opera season, however, we hadn't heard a word about golden-haired Betty.

Then, as we turned the pages of the opera's pre-season booklet, there she was—scheduled to appear in the role of Eileen in "Wonderful Town," musical version of "My Sister Eileen." The show is the current attraction at the opera.

We renewed our acquaintance with Betty between rehearsals a few days ago. Big things have happened to her since high school days, and this week is a high point in a spectacular career that began for the soprano on this same Muni Opera stage. Betty spent two years in the singing chorus while still in high school.

"It is thrilling to play here again," Betty said. "I'm glad the Muni people have given me the opportunity. You know, I'd forgotten how beautiful Forest Park is!"

Asked if she had qualified for the Muni chorus the first time she tried out, Betty said, "Oh, yes, I fibbed about my age and they let me sing. Girls were supposed to be 18, but I actually made the chorus when I was just 15. My parents wouldn't agree to that, however, and I had to wait until the next summer. The man doing the hiring was doubtful about my age, but I bluff my way through in order to sing during the 1943 season. Then when I came back the following year there was no question—even though I still wasn't 18."

The role of Eileen, the flighty, man-attracting younger sister of Ruth Sherwood (played by Audrey Christie) is a familiar one to Miss Gillett. She played it both on Broadway and in the touring "Wonderful Town" opposite Carol Channing.

"I was the stand-by for the role for nearly a year," Betty said. "Finally I got the chance to play it, and appeared as Eileen for eight months, until the show closed last February."

BETTY GILLETT... "YOU KNOW I'D FORGOTTEN HOW BEAUTIFUL FOREST PARK IS!"

What led up to such an important part in hit show? Quite a bit. After the 1944 Muni season Betty was married, but things didn't work out happily, and she was divorced in 1949. Betty decided to resume her career then and went to New York to try out for a part in the chorus of "Inside U.S.A."

She was signed and toured with the show starring Beatrice Lillie for six months, including a week at the American Theater in St. Louis. After that Betty got a somewhat larger part in "Miss Liberty" with Eddie Albert and was with the road company until that show closed in Chicago four months later. Miss Gillett's job-getting ability was still with her, for the next day she began rehearsals for the leading role in a series of four light operas called "The Chicago Fair of 1950." In these she played opposite Bill Hayes, who since has gained fame for his record of "Davy Crockett."

It was only three days after the Chicago attraction wound up its summer season that Betty was signed for the role of Eileen in "Wonderful Town."

Wright's nurse friends in "South Pacific." Eventually she became Miss Wright's understudy.

She was a member of the "South Pacific" cast for three years and three months, but meanwhile was permitted to understand for the ingenue in "Pal Joey," and when that show closed, to stand by for the part of Eileen in "Wonderful Town."

As if these assignments didn't keep her occupied, Betty took advantage of the fact that "South Pacific" had no Sunday performance and she appeared for 40 weeks in the television pro-

Strange Noise

A STRANGE noise is one which comes from the far end of the house. It sounds like something gnawing, pecking or knocking.

It might, therefore, be a mouse, a rat, a squirrel or a woodpecker. It might be inside the wall. Or it might be outside the house.

On the other hand, a strange noise may come from an inanimate object. It could be something connected with the electric refrigerator or the hot-water heater, or a loose shutter.

Obviously, something should be done about a strange noise. But the question is what. Until it is identified it cannot be decided whether the thing is to be set a trap, lay out poison, or call in a carpenter or plumber.

Meanwhile, no sooner has the family settled down for a restful evening than the gnawing, pecking or knocking will begin. Someone then must get up and investigate the noise. But when the investigator gets close to the point of origin the noise will stop. And when the investigator returns to his chair and is comfortably seated it will resume.

A strange noise has a demoralizing effect on the household. As a result of its distraction, the pages of exciting novels are blurred and the thread of the plot is lost.

Important news is left out of letters that are being written, card players play the wrong card. Children have one more excuse for not going up to bed when told, because they can plead fear of the strange noise.

If the cause of the noise cannot be found the thing to do is to get accustomed to it. Common sense suggests that it cannot be anything serious.

Nevertheless, that sensible attitude will not overcome an urgent wish that the strange noise would go away.

1. IS THERE ANY MARRIAGE WITHOUT SOME DEGREE OF HOSTILITY? YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question 1. No. No two human beings are exactly alike. They have different likes, dislikes, and interests. A happy marriage is one in which couples enjoy doing things together. They often differ, but are grown-up enough to respect each other's point of view without coming to blows.

Answer to Question 2. Slightly taller and bigger than average men. Yet, such men as Alexander the Great, Napoleon Caesar, and others were smaller than average. A puny Austrian paperhanger named Schickelgruber recently messed up the world; and a little Italian who

2. ARE EXECUTIVES, BOSSES AND LEADERS BIGGER THAN AVERAGE MEN? YES ☐ NO ☐

3. DO CHILDREN LIKE TEACHERS WHO MAKE THEM DO THE MARK? YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question 3. Dr. Flanders Dunbar, psychiatrist, says (paraphrasing): "Children like order, and they like help in planning their time. Hence, they like teachers who make them toe the mark." Dr. Dunbar urges parents and teachers to follow a "consistent middle-way" between "overly rigid discipline or no discipline is better than inconsistent discipline." The child whose teachers and parents hold a middle way "has a dependable safety valve."

Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

MOST regular readers of this column know that we are very much in favor of attic louvers. They keep the attic free from dampness in the winter and they help to cool it in summer. The topic we'd like to discuss today is how many louvers do you need and where should they be located.

As a general rule, you should have one square foot of free louver for every 100 square feet of attic floor space. Now, if you apply wire screening over the louver, you'll keep out insects and rodents, you'll decrease the efficiency of the louver somewhat. It's therefore best to have something more than one square foot of louver for each 100 square feet of attic floor space.

The best location for these louvers is as close to the peak of the roof as possible. If your home has a conventional pitched roof with gables at each end, the spot for the louvers is high up on each gable end. This will produce a nice wash of air through the attic.

Many homes, however, don't have a roof that makes installation of the louvers this easy. Some roofs, in fact, don't have any gable end at all. In these cases, the louvers can be installed along the roof eaves.

There are special louvers made for this type of installation or you can simply cut a hole in the soffit—the covering over the portion of the eaves that extends beyond the walls of the house—and cover this with screening.

Another type of installation can be made in the roof near the peak. Here you use a special roof ventilator which is installed into an opening cut in the roof and which is designed to be weatherproof.

5♣ Pass Pass Pass

North opened his singleton king of spades, and declarer (West) never had a chance—he had to lose a spade, the trump ace and the king of clubs. West didn't give up without a struggle, in fact he made a valiant effort to steal a trick, but without success. He took the first trick with the ace of spades, led a club to the ace and the club nine back toward dummy, hoping to provide a parking place for his second spade, but North could not be side-tracked. He went up with the club king and swiftly shifted to a trump as the one means of putting South in to cash a spade trick in a hurry.

Getting back to the bidding—it is obvious that South had to do something pretty drastic to keep the vulnerable opponents out of the contract they otherwise would have reached, namely, three no-trump. If he had overcalled with one spade, West would have bid his diamonds at a lower level, and East unquestionably would have seized the chance to bid no-trump. (The same thing would have happened if South had passed over one club.) Thus, the only action on South's part that could serve his purpose was a preemptive call that would throw the proverbial monkey wrench into the East-West bidding machinery.

Summer Tours in Europe Planned by St. Louisans

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

FOUR former classmates at Miss Porter's School, Farmington, Conn., will sail Friday on the Media from New York for a summer's tour of Europe. St. Louis members of the group, Miss Julia Terry, daughter of the Whitelaw T. Terrys, 6235 Wydown boulevard, and Miss Blakeslee Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Cook of McKelvey road, Vigus, Mo., departed today and will meet the others in New York. They are Miss Judy Coste, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Coste, former St. Louisans, who have lived there several years, and Miss Sally Windsor of Philadelphia.

MISS JULIA TERRY, TO SUMMER TOUR IN EUROPE

Their itinerary will take them to several countries, including England and Scotland and through the continent to Spain. They plan to fly home the last of August.

Before returning to St. Louis Miss Terry will visit Miss Cook in Nantucket, Mass., where the Cooks will have a house, as they did last summer.

Meanwhile Mr. and Mrs. Terry will spend the summer, as is their custom, in Wequetonsing, Mich. Their younger daughter, Betsy, will be at Camp Minne-Wonka Lodge, Three Lakes, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry returned home Friday from the East. They went to Princeton University to see their son, Whitelaw T. Jr., graduated, and later to the National Red Cross Convention in Atlantic City. Mr. Terry heads the St. Louis chapter.

While in Princeton the Terrys attended a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Burton Carver (she was Eugene Edmunds of St. Louis), who now live there. Guests, either St. Louisans or former St. Louisans, were the parents of graduating seniors. They included Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Hinkley of Orléans, Va.; Mrs. Hinkley's mother, Mrs. George Fox Steedman; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright Pettus and Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Johnson, whose sons, Tom Pettus Jr. and James Lee Johnson Jr., were graduated.

The Hinkley's son, Albert P. Jr., was president of the graduating class and received on class day a coveted senior prize for having accomplished the most for his class. His mother was Miss Katherine Steedman, who lived here until her marriage. Mrs. Steedman crossed the continent from her home in Santa Barbara, Calif., to see her grandson receive his degree.

Miss Kramer's Marriage Announced

DR. AND MRS. FREDERICK A. KRAMER, 803 South Watson road, Ladue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Irene Kramer, a 1953 debutante, to Michael Joseph Feltes, son of Mrs. Norman Nicholas Feltes of Winnetka, Ill., and the late Mr. Feltes.

MRS. FELTES . . . WHOSE MARRIAGE IS ANNOUNCED.

The ceremony took place March 24 in the chapel of St. Patrick's Church at Williamstown, Mass., while both the bride and bridegroom were undergraduates, she at Smith College and he at Williams College. They have known each other for four years.

Dr. and Mrs. Kramer learned of the marriage shortly before they departed for the Smith College commencement June 6, when their daughter was graduated. Plans for an announcement party here were canceled because of the death of Mrs. Kramer's mother, Mrs. Lee Hunter.

Mr. Feltes, who was graduated June 12, has taken his bride to Winnetka in Vermont to receive his commission as second lieutenant.

The bride was graduated from Mary Institute before matriculating at Smith. She was a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball of 1953 and was presented with Miss Carol Goessling at a dance at the University Club Dec. 30 of that year after the Princeton Triangle Club performance. None of her grandparents is living. Her paternal grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Kramer.

Miss Peper to Be Presented

DEBUT DANCE at Old Watson Country Club will be given tonight by Mr. and Mrs. Christian Baird Peper to present their daughter, Miss Catherine Kingsland Peper, to society. Here for the occasion are Miss Charlie Robertson of Wilmette, Ill., and Miss Joanne Bono of Kansas City, Mo., who with the debutante will be juniors next year at Manhattanville College, Purchase, N.Y.

Yellow and white summer flowers will provide decoration and hurricane lamps will center the supper tables placed around the dance floor on the terrace.

The debutante will wear a pale turquoise tulle gown with a heart-shaped neckline outlined with a band of sequins. More of the sequins are embroidered on the long bouffant skirt. She will carry a tiny bouquet of yellow roses encircling a white orchid.

Mrs. Peper has chosen a dusty pink lace gown with a taffeta collar effect on the bodice and a full skirt. Her flowers will be tiny white orchids.

Among the guests will be Miss Peper's grandparents, Mrs. Clarence F. Peper and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Chappell Kingsland.

MR. AND MRS. C. CLIFFORD CHAUDRON, 7542 Hiawatha avenue, Richmond Heights, and their sons, Douglas and Craig Chaudron, departed recently to be guests at Lynden, the New Orleans home of Mr. and Mrs. Murray L. Crawford, formerly of Greentree lane in Glendale. From there they will fly to Central America with stopovers in Guatemala and Panama. In Maracajbo, Venezuela, they will be house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Dirk L. Asjes of that city and The Hague, Holland. The Asjeses visited in St. Louis when Col. Asjes brought a team of water polo players from Java to perform at the Missouri Athletic Club in World War II. After a stay in Caracas, the Chaudron family will fly to Montego Bay, Jamaica, and to Varadero Beach, Cuba, before returning to St. Louis in mid-July.

Martha Carr's

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. OPINION

Dear Martha:

I AM a divorcee 23 years old with one child. My husband refused to work steady while we were married and often he came home drunk and even struck the baby and me. Finally I had to get a divorce and I moved back to my parents' home. Now I have met another man and he seems to care a lot about me and he likes the baby. He asked me to marry him and my parents want me to, but now my husband has been calling me and he promises me he will do better if I will come back to him. Do you think I should? — MIXED UP.

What assurance have you that he will make good on that promise? I'd make him prove it if I were you. In other words, just don't be too fast to make up your mind, especially if you can't decide between the two. I don't think you love the other man, and I certainly don't think you should let your parents make up your mind for you. Put your marriage plans aside until you are certain.

Dear Martha:

I'M A NEWCOMER to this neighborhood and I was asked to join a club made up of most of the women on this block. But the first time I went, one of the women, who I found out later was a troublemaker, started an argument with me and made the afternoon pretty unpleasant. I thought maybe she'd get over it, but the next time was just as bad. My husband says I should get out of the club, and, frankly, I'd just as soon, but I hate to let her run me out. What would you suggest? — MRS. A.

I can't imagine that the club would be very much fun for you if you're going to have to put up with a bickering troublemaker every time. There's really no principle involved, so you wouldn't be running away from anything, merely refusing to waste your valuable time in a situation that just makes you miserable. So I'll agree with your husband.

Dear Martha:

I'M GETTING MARRIED in October and my fiancé wants me to live with his parents. He is in service. His mother and I get along well together, but I'm still not convinced that I should live there. Please help me make the right decision. — D.J.M.

If you and your husband can't be together, why not remain at your own parents' home? You and your mother-in-law probably would get along very well since you like each other, but you would be a stranger in the house and I don't think it's always a good idea.

Are you planning a picnic for the crowd? Send today for Martha Carr's free list of old-fashioned picnic games. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Bulging Thighs?

By Josephine Lowman

HIGH TROUBLE is especially in our thoughts during this summer. The hot season makes us want to wear shorts and swim suits and all sorts of cool and comfortable clothes.

JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women avoid such garments only because they are self-conscious about bulging thighs. This figure fault often harasses women who otherwise have lovely silhouettes and correct poundage. Exercise is your answer to this problem.

Try these exercises if you are troubled with fat thighs:

Stand with your face toward the wall. Place both hands on the wall in front of you. Bend the left knee up close to the abdomen. Now kick back hard with the left leg, straightening it. Return left foot to the floor. This time bend the right knee and kick back hard. Return right foot to the floor. Continue, alternating left and right.

You can do this same exercise lying on your back and kicking up, toward the ceiling instead of down and back.

Putting Teeners to Work

By Ruth Millett

A GROUP of mothers, all with teen-age children, were discussing the big problem of how to keep their teen-agers busy during the summer months.

They all agreed they couldn't face the thought of having them sitting around the TV set for three months complaining that they didn't have anything to do.

Quite a few suggestions were made as possible time fillers—swimming lessons, golf, planned parties, etc. But not one mother thought of the old-fashioned notion of expecting a little work from teen-agers faced with three months of having absolutely nothing to do.

Every one of those mothers is overworked. And yet they were taking on the extra job of trying to keep their teen-age children amused during the summer months. Wouldn't the teen-agers and their mothers, too, be better off if the mothers expected a little help from their children?

Why shouldn't a boy be expected to pitch in and do some honest work to improve the looks of the house or the yard or make some of the necessary repairs around his own home?

Why shouldn't a teen-ager girl learn to sew and make some of her own clothes, or take on the job of getting breakfast or dinner, or help redecorate her own room?

What's wrong with work as an answer to the "I don't have anything to do" blues? Any mother worrying about how she is going to keep a teen-ager busy and happy during the rest of the vacation should consider putting the teen-ager to work, treating him like a responsible member of the family instead of like a child to be continually amused.

She's Trying to Keep World on Its Feet

Col. Harriet Lee Is Veteran in Physical Therapy Work—Group Meeting Here

By Mary Kimbrough

COL. HARRIET S. LEE is a top-ranking member of a profession dedicated to the task of getting—and keeping—the world on its feet.

She is a physical therapist, one of more than 200 attending the thirty-second annual convention of the American Physical Therapy Association this week in St. Louis. But as a representative of that specialized science, she is chief of the Women's Medical Specialist Corps, which includes not only army physical therapists but occupational therapists and dietitians as well.

Immediate past president and a director of the association, Col. Lee has watched the profession grow in numbers and stature since she completed her own training at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D.C. Then, there were only a handful of schools offering the course; today, there are 36, including Washington and St. Louis Universities. Then, there were only a few hundred civilian and army physical therapists; today there are more than 6000.

Once almost exclusively a woman's world, the profession of physical therapy has now begun to attract men. "Especially since World War II, when so many men in uniform served in army hospitals helping the wounded and the permanently disabled, men have started to enter this field as a lifetime profession," Col. Lee said.

"Our task is to help the crippled get back on their feet again if that is possible, and to help those who are confined to wheelchairs become more independent and less burdensome to their families. We must help the handicapped understand and accept their disability and make the best of it. We help them to learn to live with it. . . . That means that if one muscle in the body is impaired because of age, accident or illness, another may be trained to take its place. A person whose right arm is permanently incapacitated may be taught to do the same work with his left. One who is so paralyzed that he must spend the rest of his life in a wheelchair is taught to take care of daily activities from that wheelchair so that he can get along without much help from others.

THE home care program of physical therapy is emphasized right along with hospital treatment, Col. Lee pointed out. "Much of our work is with parents and others in the family, showing them how they can teach the handicapped individual to help himself. They should let him wait on himself as much as possible rather than hover over him with solicitous offers of help that make him feel too dependent."

Therapists often suggest ways in which living conditions can be changed to permit a handicapped person to be more independent. It may be a simple matter of removing thresholds which can seem insurmountable to a disabled person. Or special kitchen equipment can be devised to lower work space so that a woman in a wheelchair can prepare meals for her family. Ingenious appliances which can be attached to a wrist or elbow or shoulder can be used as substitutes for disabled hand or wrist muscles.

The growing profession, Col. Lee said, has been largely built on the work of a handful of women who served as "reconstruction aides" during World War I, helping to alleviate the suffering of wounded men and in many cases teaching them to walk again.

"With the great emphasis today on rehabilitation, the need has increased greatly for qualified physical therapists," she said. "There is a tremendous shortage of trained personnel and one of the aims of our association is to encourage young people to choose this as a life work."

THE profession, as such, was still young when Col. Lee entered it in the late 20s. A graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, she was a physical education instructor at MacMurray College in Jacksonville, Ill., and because of her interest in corrective exercises was attracted to the more exact science of physical therapy, where exercise, as well as heat, light, electricity and water therapy are prescribed by physicians for ill or handicapped persons.

"There is so much to be done for the men who have been incapacitated as a result of military service, in preparing them to return to active duty, or working with a disability so that they can return to a fairly normal civilian life," Col. Lee said. "Both army and civilian therapists also serve polio victims, cerebral palsied children, adults injured in accidents, those with arthritis, broken bones or dislocations. They help aged persons to remain active and independent for many more years. "And remember that our work doesn't have to wait until someone is disabled. Much of it, especially in the schools, can be preventive, such as the teaching of good posture."

"If Americans could only learn to stand up straight, they could avoid a lot of their aches and pains."

My Day

Visit to Children's Dental Clinic

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK. ON Monday noon I did a delightful kind of recording at BBC here in New York during which I was able to talk for a few minutes with Mrs. Pandit in London and Sir Zafrulla Khan in The Hague which was a real pleasure.

The recording was in preparation for the London Forum, which I think goes on the air next Sunday.

Sir Charles Webster is the English member taking part. I enjoyed it very much and I hope our exchange of views will be as interesting to the public as it was to me personally.

IN THE EARLY EVENING I went down to the free dental clinic which has just finished its first year of operation at 236 East Broadway. I heard about this clinic when last winter I visited the little church that is almost opposite the Henry street settlement. I had been curious ever since to find out how this pilot project in giving dental service to needy children was working out.

When this service was started I had been told that it could not possibly last more than three months. The founding volunteers have stuck, however, and the first year has meant the completion of work done for 384 children. There is one volunteer dentist who even does the job of teeth straightening, and he has agreed that while the clinic is closed during the summer months he will see these children at his own private office.

THERE IS ALSO a women's committee that helps. The building housing the clinic was purchased and the committee operating it is the Sidney Friedman Association. Renovation of the place was done by male members of the committee who happen to have a contractor as an associate member and a professional job was accomplished. They did the plumbing, carpentry, painting, etc. The dentists volunteer so many hours each week, and a child does not change dentists but comes to the same one each time.

There is no bar because of race, creed or color. The only requisite is that the child's family cannot afford to pay for the dental work needed. The children are referred by public and parochial schools and even by two nursery schools.

THE TOP FLOOR of the house is a children's playroom and I was told that because of this innovation the children soon cease to be afraid of the ordeal of going to the dentist's. This group has operated on an unbelievably small budget, but has been fortunate in getting some financial support from outside the city as well as from people in the city who have known of this pilot project.

It is the kind of undertaking that I think might be valuable for study by the United Nations, since self-help is really the root of the whole idea. Many a young doctor after an inspection tour of the free dental clinic, might very well return to his own country with some of the ideas developed in this project.

Cooler After Year's Hottest Day

The hottest day of the year was yesterday, when the thermometer touched 93 downtown and 94 at St. Louis-Lambert Field at 3:15 p.m. This surpassed the previous high mark of 90 on May 23.

On this date last year there had been 12 days with temperature of 90 or higher. In the most recent cool summer, 1951, by this date four days had gone to 90 or above, Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said.

"The weather will not be quite so warm today and tomorrow, and the high Friday should be in the middle 80s," Wahlgren predicted. A cold front moving south from Iowa is expected to bring the temperature down, and offers a chance of thunder-showers.

The highest in the state yesterday was 95 at Malden. The lowest maximum was 84 at Kirksville. This morning Kirksville was again the coolest place, with a low of 57. The St. Louis low of 72 was highest in the state. Scattered showers in the southern half of the state yesterday offered some relief from the heat. Joplin reported the heaviest rainfall, .84 inch.

The warmest spot in the nation yesterday was Gila Bend, Ariz., where the thermometer read 114. A temperature of 95 was reported as far north as Vancouver, B.C. Southern Texas had relatively mild weather as rains kept the temperature below 100. Coolest in the country this morning was Fraser, Colo., with 31 degrees.

If water always seeks its own level, how does it happen that natural fountains exist? Why does water gush up from the earth at certain places?

To people of the Stone Age a natural fountain must have seemed to be a wonder. Even to those who live today, it is a marvel until the reason behind it is discovered.

The truth about a natural fountain is that it is produced by water from a higher level. Flowing downward through a crack or other opening in the rock, the water may run only a few feet below the sloping side of a hill. At the bottom of the hill, the water may be blocked except for a hole which opens to the surface. Then the force of the downward stream makes the water spurt upward. Other springs, however, have water which is dangerous to drink, sometimes because of the decaying bodies of dead animals. "Know your spring!" is a good rule, the same as, "Know your well!"

SOMETIMES the underground water fails to make a fountain. Flowing downward on a very gentle slant, it comes from a hillside with little force. Then it appears as a spring.

In past times, springs were in common use for drinking water. People still use them, and some supply excellent water. Other springs, however, have water which is dangerous to drink, sometimes because of the decaying bodies of dead animals. "Know your spring!" is a good rule, the same as, "Know your well!"

NATURAL FOUNTAINS have been decorated in various ways. Stone or metal basins have been prepared for them. In many cases the statues of gods or goddesses have been placed under, or near, the falling water. It has become common to use artificial methods to make the water rise in the air. This is easy when the water is put under pressure.

Prune Whip

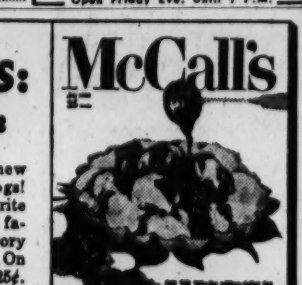

Ingredients: Two egg whites, dash of salt, one-third cup sugar, one jar (eight ounces) junior-food prunes, one-half cup heavy cream.

Method: Beat egg whites and salt until peaks that curl over slightly are formed; gradually and thoroughly beat in sugar. Without washing beater, beat cream until stiff. Fold prunes into beaten egg whites; fold in cream. Turn into sherbet glasses. Chill until serving time. Makes six servings.

Note: Serve with soft custard sauce made by beating two egg yolks remaining from prune whip with one cup milk enough to combine; add one tablespoon sugar and a dash of salt and cook and stir constantly over hot (not boiling) water until sauce coats a silver spoon. Cool, stirring often and adding one-fourth teaspoon vanilla.
